Canadian wheat in the United States on June 8 amounted to 6,812,977 bushels, of which 4,223,888 bushels were in store at Buffalo; 12,584 bushels at New York, and 1,342,000 bushels at Erie.

On the first of May this year prices of poultry holdings in Canada were about 2 1/2 million pounds in excess of the previous year, but by June 1 the surplus had been reduced to less than a million pounds. The export trade is largely responsible for reducing the stock.

TRY THE ROOF!

Chevrolet's Extra Weight means Extra Value ... More Comfort ... Greater Safety ... Longer Car Life

HERE'S something important to remember: Chevrolet gives you more weight than any other car in its class. More pounds of rugged, high quality materials in the Fisker Bodies, because Chevrolet doesn't skimp on comfort or safety! More pounds in the husky, solidly-built Chevrolet chassis, to safeguard dependability! And, best of all, you get these advantages of ample weight without any sacrifice of economy. Because, while it's a bigger, heavier car—faster and more powerful—Chevrolet uses less gasoline than any other Chevrolet and you'll never be satisfied with any other low-priced car!

ALWAYS WINNING

Never one since the world began Has the sun ever stopped shining.
His very often we could not see And we grieved at his inconsistency;
But the clouds were really to blame Not he.
For behind them he was shining,
And so behind life's darkest clouds God's love is always shining, We will let it shine with our faithless fears.
And darkness our sight with our foolish tears:
Not in time the atmosphere always clears,
For His love is always shining.

Bring a Girl

By JANE OSBORN

“DON'T tell your mother when you phone me this morning, that I couldn't come.” Ned Murray, was holding the telephone with one hand and smiling at the other, waiting for Nellie to talk to him. At one time he had a girl's work at the office, but he had to give up that because the men in the office would not let him go to work there and take care of his mail.
He was dictating a letter to Nellie when she called, slightly out of breath.

“It will absolutely ruin that party if you tell her. You are needed to make up the fourth table, that's all there is about it. We won't start carling until after nine as it won't matter if you're late. And so don't tell her if you can't in evening dress. Just don't let her over your dictation. Don't flirt with the stenographer and you'll be able to get home in time.” Nellie hung up the receiver and she realized that he would have to do his sister's bidding. As a matter of fact she had finished her work at the office and would go to the output department where she had been told a stenographer would be waiting for her.
She was not entirely sorry that she was going. Nellie had told him that she had finished her work at the office and would go to the output department where she had been told a stenographer
would be waiting for her.

ASA RELIES ON GOD

GOLDEN TEXT: “The Lord is my help; and I will not fear what man shall do unto me.” Hebrews 11:1

LESSON PARABLE: 3 Chronicles 15: 1-12

God of my brother across the sea, God of the strange path door to the God of a world-wide brotherhood—Grant me the grace to cast aside The sinners' ways and their And see in all the true and good.
—Alice Crowl, Holston

Prayer: O God, who art the Great political leader wisdom and without consultation with wise advisers. An influential provincial Premier in Canada was in the habit of discussing public affairs with a Chief Justice. In an eastern land a high government official takes matters over with a bishop of a church. The political life of Great Britain has very often been purified and maintained by the principles announced by the lay teaching of truth and the practical politics. Ministers and Bishops have often been able to give great help to the work of councils and councils in local communities by personal interviews and public discussion. During Canada's boom period there were a few brave voices crying aloud that the public would have to pay for stock speculation and governmental extravagance. These men were scorned and their advice was their prediction has all come true.

COUNTY COUNCIL

Haltoun county council met in session Monday evening last, and most of the day was spent in hearing petitioners.

A. G. Minton, Agricultural Representative, addressed the council and presented two resolutions passed by the West Hants county council at their annual meeting last month. The first resolution called for the placing of guano and milk-wed crops on the council's list of hazardous weeds. This resolution was adopted by the council and the second resolution was the list of hazardous weeds. The other resolution, giving inspectors the power to inspect and remove a fine tree, was not sanctioned by the council.

WHAT FOLLOWS THE GRADUATION?

Thousands of young folks will be leaving educational institutions during the next few weeks, some to continue their education elsewhere, others to go to work if they can find a job, and many to do nothing at all.
Young people have not been taken care of any too well in the last few years. Many a young man or woman finds that heartless traditions and artificial distinctions have closed every door to him. Organized labor has closed some doors. Capital has closed some, keeping older persons out of the way. Young people have not in need of work for their support.
Playgrounds are being closed, desirable courses in schools have been abolished. That is the way that we have dealt with our youth.

HOW ARE YOU AT VISITING?

Did you ever stop to ask yourself what kind of a visitor you are when you call on old friends? The following appeared not long ago in an exchange and it seemed very apt: A rich person does not enjoy the neighbor who drops in and says, “See, you I had a sister just like you. She had just those emeralds all summer and in the fall she had a brook and has never got over it. You, maybe the doctor can help you, but believe me, the only cure for that disease is for you to enjoy the minister who comes in to cheer her up, and before he leaves describe in detail his opinion on Mor the quarrelsome neighbor who enjoys visiting the sick and attending funerals, and telling in detail of all the other sick people in the neighborhood, their ailments, the doctor's opinion and how they are getting on. Also neighbors and relations who cannot come, but who write advice on changing doctors and having an operation until you dread to open a letter.

NEW THOUGHTS PATERNA, 8

The human mind is capable of unlimited development. New thought patterns can be established that will transform science. In the days of Asa idolatry had been an accepted practice, but when a prophet showed a better way, a spiritual religion took deep root. The fact is that human nature can be changed. In Russia there has been a dramatic change of ideals. In the United States individualism has been giving place to an unexpected measure of overabundant unity. Religion too can receive new impulses from fresh thinking. The Christian faith still has some surprises for the Church. When Christians begin to think in terms of God for guidance, the old ideas of the Christian Church as we have known it will be transformed, and a Christian social order will result. We think decide the deeds we do, and the standards of the communities in which we live.

God of Our Fathers, 10-15

The rededication of the nation to the service of the unseen holy God was signalled by a great sacrifice of blood which the people consecrated to the ideals of the Hebrew religion. They should be true to the God of their fathers. This is a worthy motive. The fall of our country has been the result of a holiness by time and by ancestral traditions. It must be remembered that the God whom we worship is not alone the God of our fathers, but the God of our children and children's children. It is the God who has a plan for the future as well as a will revealed in the past.
Worshipping the God of the fathers may become little more than ancestor worship. Worshipping the God of the future, the God who works hitherto and all works is to gain the forward looking thoughts of God held and taught by Jesus Christ the Son of God. “Men in power who are the recipients of profit through privilege sometimes speak of the old empire, and the old flag, and the old Book, but there are always some who while true to the traditions of the past are looking forward, remembering that somewhere it is always morning, and expecting new light to break from the eternal mind of God.

QUESTIONS FOR DISCUSSION

1. To whom do you turn most frequently for counsel?
2. Is it fair to desert God in prosperity, and seek him in adversity?
3. What will be the most lasting effects of the depression?
4. How may human nature be changed?
5. How do you worship God?

“I'll have to tell you, Laura, he said, “You're an old friend of mine, any objection?”
“No,” said Laura dryly.
“My dictation over, please wait to the dressing room, I'll be back in a little and reappeared closely wrapped in her trim fur coat. When she slipped it off, she was in the hall.
“Nellie's apartment,” Ned said that she was wearing a neat little evening frock. “How come?” said Ned with an approving glance.
“I had it in the office,” she said. “I had expected to go out.” But she got no further. Nellie and Molly were greeting her with shrieks of surprise.
“So you got here after all,” said Molly. “What about the opera and your date?” “Here's my date,” said Laura. “The ‘opera’ didn't suit me as long as I thought it would, and I'm here.”
“If you really are the girl I think you are, Ned asked her drawing her up close, “how come you're working?”
“Molly thinks you have all sorts of money, and she really believed the opera story.”
“Of course that was a joke more or less,” said the girl. “But I'm not quite the poor little working girl you might suppose, and I could have gone to the opera if I had wanted. You see, I wanted to go to college, but my father had objections. So I got a job on the fly to earn enough to get away. I'd have to have some sort of a career.”
“Delete you married?” suggested Ned.
“May I consider that a proposal?” asked Laura loud enough for Molly and Nellie to overhear.
“Please don't joke about it too much,” Ned said as they left Laura heard. “I will have enough sense some day to ask you.”
And later when Ned and Laura announced their engagement it was generally understood that their friends had less plighted than in Nellie's little apartment that night.
