Isaiah Counsels Rulers

International Uniform Sunday School Lesson, September 12th

GOLDEN TEXT: "Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace, whose mind is stayed on thee, because he trusteth in thee." Isaiah 38: 3.

LESSON PARABOL: Isaiah 31: 1-9; 37: 36-37. I saw the mountains stand firm, beautiful and grand, looking out across the land. And I heard a low voice calling over distant dome and spire. Come up higher! Come up higher! From the lowland and the mire From the vain pursuit of self From the attitude of self— Come up higher!

NATIONAL PRAYER: Because he was so vitally religious Isaiah was in politics. He could not keep out of politics because the religious destiny of the nation was at stake. The nation was threatened by an invasion from Assyria and one political party considered making an alliance with Egypt. Isaiah thought that the cure was worse than the disease. For one reason, Egypt could not compete with Assyria in military way and further, an entangling alliance with Egypt would corrupt the Jewish mind. It took courage to withstand this Egyptian party, but Isaiah was fearless and urged his people to put their trust in God rather than in Egyptian armaments because of the high birth, and because of his friendship with the ruler, Isaiah was able to present his case effectively. To-day some of the greatest peace leaders are former soldiers. They know at first hand what war is. They know that military preparation is not the chief guarantee of national safety. The character of the people is the basic defence.

What Great Command, E. 3. "Now the Egyptians are men and not God; and their horses are flesh and not spirit." In other words, spiritual factors are more decisive than material forces. At the Battle of the Marne military advantages were on the side of the stronger side did not win. At present the British are great air forces, but we think that British national character is the real force back of the British navy. If half the effort were put into the production of character that has gone into the production of armaments, we might be much further ahead. The treatment has actually been increased and at the same time national jealousy and fears have been augmented. A race in armaments means ultimate loss to all concerned. The Hebrews have made their contribution to the world not by military exploits and imperial conquest but through religion, literature and science. Theirs has been distinctive in the field of morals. They led in the search for a spiritual religion.

The real weapon of our warfare is spiritual and not carnal. The machinery of the future will have to do with the forces of conscience and faith. As a matter of fact the power of both Egypt and Assyria did not last long while to this day the Hebrew race continues to make great contributions to the higher life of mankind.

Isaiah and Mirak, E. 3. Isaiah was a master of metaphors. Part of the charm of his words is the way in which he could see the unseen in the seen. He pictured the strength of God as that of a lion. The ruling class in Jerusalem were as frightened sheep, but Isaiah was confident that God would protect his people like a lion coming up the mountain side ready to fight. At the same time Isaiah likened God to a mother bird protecting his young. A mother bird protects her young by fluttering across the trail to misleaders of the scent. The mother bird collects food for the fledglings in the nest and will even sacrifice its own life if the young birds are in danger. That, said Isaiah, is the way God loves our nation. In interpreting parables and metaphors it is necessary to observe the point of comparison and not to push the likeness too far. Isaiah took one thought concerning lions and birds and used them to illustrate the character of God. On the lips of a skilled speaker these nature illustrations were effective. Many speakers, however, have found that metaphors are platitudes unless they are used with great discretion.

Turning to God, E. 3. Instead of turning to Egypt, Isaiah urged his fellow countrymen to turn to God. They could begin by discarding the idols of silver and gold of which they had fashioned by their own hands and turning to the unseen, holy God who is a Spirit. If they trusted God and obeyed the will of God they would be defended against the Assyrians. This was a great assertion of faith, but it proved to be true. Isaiah was in the minority in his war predictions, but he was right. During the Great War there were many predictions, but Isaiah over the files of the newspapers of twenty years ago, we find that many of the predictions have not come true. Isaiah risked his reputation on his confidence that national character and obedience to God were the real defences of his nation. Though the Assyrians were coming down like a wolf on the fold, their great wealth and huge armies, Isaiah continued to maintain that God was the sure defence of the city of Jerusalem. He dared to say this although a few years previously the Assyrians had overthrown the Northern Kingdom. Was Isaiah justified by events?

An Unexpected Factor, 37: 36, 37. The overthrow of the Assyrians was one of the great events of history. Everything appeared to be in their favor. The Jews were not a military people and the defence of Jerusalem were weak, yet the Assyrians were routed. There has been much discussion as to what happened. Most probably a plague decimated the Assyrian army. Accounts of the incidents are found in Hebrew, Egyptian, Assyrian and Greek records. In the morning the bodies of 275,000 Assyrians lay upon the ground. Herodotus tells of mice nibbling off the bow strings and in mythology mice indicated plague. Since the days of Bannacherib other armies have perished in an unhealthy malarial district in that region. Whatever the actual cause of death, the people of Jerusalem attributed their deliverance to God. The faith of Isaiah had been vindicated. There is an unseen element in international affairs beyond the power of man to control.

Questions for Discussion: 1. Which is more dangerous, armament or disarmament? 2. How far does national strength depend upon national character? 3. Is there any contradiction between strength and tenderness? 4. Is it possible for the Christian religion to give world peace? 5. Napoleon's army was destroyed by Moscow frost and the Spanish Armada by a storm and sea. Were these special acts of God?

Shares of Bank of Canada

$5,000,000 ARE OFFERED FOR PUBLIC SUBSCRIPTION

Shares of the Bank of Canada to the amount of $5,000,000 are offered for public subscription by Hon. Edgar N. Rhodes, Minister of Finance. The shares are of $50.00 each and any offered at par. Not more than 25 shares may be held by one person and only persons who are British subjects ordinarily resident in Canada or Canadian corporations controlled in Canada, may own stock. These provisions will ensure a wide-spread interest in all parts of Canada in the sale of the stock of an institution to which Parliament has entrusted with powers and responsibilities affecting the financial and economic welfare of Canada.

The Bank is authorized to pay cumulative dividends from its profits, after provision for depreciation, etc., at the rate of 4% per annum, payable half-yearly, which is in excess of the 3% interest return in comparison with other five-year rates on high grade securities. The subscription list will open on September 21st and close on or before September 21st. The shares will be offered simultaneously in every part of Canada on the 17th instants, and whether or not there is a close before September 21st, consideration will be given to all applications received not later than midnight of the day on which the list is closed.

Subscriptions are to be mailed direct to the Minister of Finance, Ottawa, and must be accompanied by an initial payment of $12.50 for each share and by a satisfactory declaration which forms part of the application form, evidencing the eligibility of the applicant to become a shareholder. The balance of the subscription price, $37.50 a share, will be payable on or later than midnight of the day on which the list is closed.

One of the important functions to be performed by shareholders is the election of directors, who, with the Governor and Deputy Governor of the Bank, form the Board of Directors. The official prospectus and control of the conduct of the business of the Bank. The seven directors are to be elected from diversified occupations, as follows:

Two, whose chief occupation is in primary industry; One, whose chief occupation is in commerce or manufacturing; Three, whose chief occupation is other than in primary industry, commerce or manufacturing.

In the by-laws of the Bank, which have recently been promulgated by the Governor in Council, provision is made for the nomination of directors by shareholders and for the convening of a shareholders' meeting, for the election of those who cannot attend meetings, and for the revocation of their proxies. The regulations are made for the by-laws of the Bank, which they may give to the Minister of Finance.

One of the first steps to be taken in the organization of the Bank, after the stock has been subscribed, will be the nomination and election of directors.
