HUMMER DAYS

Summer days have passed away. Leaves turned gold and red. Hummers have ceased their joyous song. Quiet reigns instead. In the forest the lingers on. Day dreams of the past. Winter days must come and go. But summer comes at last. In each life must ever be something with the rain. If you have faith and love. Perfect trust in God above. Who sends the summer days. -Edwin J. Hall.

WEDNESDAY

10,000,000 people for three generations have read it. It is rated the greatest dramatic story of the century. It is a true and startling revelation of the life and romance of a girl born to love and live, whose tragedy dogged in her search for happiness. Its poignant pathos, drama and love-interest will appeal to every human being. It is a faithful and authentic screen version of the book that is beloved of millions—who are waiting to see it. A cast of distinguished players, with Virginia Bruce in the title role, and Colin Clive in the male lead, interpret this masterpiece of fiction. Don't miss seeing it Friday night at the Gregory Theatre, Georgetown.
