PETER HEALS A LAME MAN

International Uniforms Sunday School Lesson, February 16th, 1935

GOLDEN TEXT: "Then Peter said, Silver and gold have I none; but such as I have give I thee." Acts 3: 6-7

LESSON PARABLE: Acts 3: 1-10; 4: 8-12

No costly treasure in my hand I bring To Thee, my King; my only offering I have no myth, no frankincense nor gold.

But this one thing— I offer Thee myself and every day To serve my fellow men in any way As I find need. Accept my gift, I pray, My service is the treasure that I bring To Thee, my King.

Partners in Prayer, I Shortly after the Feast of Pentecost, Peter and John went up to the Temple to pray. They were followers of Christ, but at the same time they had the thought of breaking with the Jewish church. It was only when persecution drove them out of Jerusalem that they were forced to leave Jerusalem. Christian companions had felt the power of the Holy Spirit, but they kept up their devotional life in order that the new power be not lost. They went together, probably because they had discovered that prayer in partnership had added power. They went at three o'clock in the afternoon, the regular hour of prayer. Their lives and habits of prayer are essential for spiritual growth. Their prayers were a preparation for action. Their great deeds in the early apostolic age indicate that their prayers gave them power. Of course they went to the Temple to pray, but they were there to pray for the Jews, for the traditions of their Hebrew forefathers, but they were also as followers of Christ who himself prayed constantly and taught his disciples to pray. We wonder if followers of Christ prayed the Lord's Prayer in the Temple.

Healed and Brought, 3 What extremes of plenty and poverty have been seen in daily life. Christmas season some people were buying presents costing a few cents while others were buying a few dollars worth of gifts. People go for relief past buildings which cost millions of dollars. People go for six dollars a week in a skyscraper where one bit of decoration cost sixteen thousand dollars. People walk long distances for lack of a street car ticket. Crowds around the new modern automobiles. People are invited from their homes to stately church buildings and feel that architecture ranks higher than life. This contrast is as long as Jerusalem at the gate of the Temple called beautiful, lay a lame beggar. He stumbled that worshippers would be there, thereby paying a silent tribute to the transcendent power of religion. We feel that in the true worship must be a man who is not only a man in buildings, pictures and motor cars, but even more so, a man who is a man for all. Power should be getting rich while there are so many poor. Religion should cure the fact should be noted that it was the apostle who went to pray who helped the beggar who could not help himself.

Beatrice, 3-4 Nearly everyone has dreamed of being fabulously wealthy and going about distributing gifts lavishly to those in need. Doubtless if the dream came true, it would be good for either giver or recipient. It is much better to provide work than relief, to arrange for some form of self-help than to bestow charity. In fact, those in want are often in greatest need of sympathy and encouragement. What hurts them most is an attitude of calous indifference on the part of the more fortunate. Friendship may be more helpful in the end than cash donations. Peter and John could give neither silver nor gold to the lame beggar, but they gave healing and hope which meant far more. Often spiritual assistance is the primary need of those down and out. A victory has to be won over self before they can master circumstances. Christ had no money to give away but he did give love, truth and shared his faith in God.

One sin may glorify a day. One word may hope impart; The least disciple need not say There are no alms to give away If love be in the heart.

The Best Argument, 7-10 A man on crutches with a sprained ankle went to a doctor's office. The doctor and elevator man offering to assist him, but he went back into the office and ran downstairs carrying his crutches under his arm. He was asked to recommend the skill of the doctor; a demonstration had been given. When Peter healed the lame man, he knew that the power of the Holy Spirit had been manifest. The man was able to walk and he praised God. The crowd saw the transformation and were convinced. No other evidence was necessary; man who had been carried on a stretcher now was walking was convincing proof. In our day changed lives are the best recommendation of religion. The best made good are incontrovertible arguments for the power of faith. When homes are restored, when worldlings become worshippers, when interlopers become temperate, and when critics become life-givers, a community begins to take notice that apostolic days are here again. Cures are the most effective advertising for a doctor. Sinners made into saints are convincing arguments for religion.

The Corner Stone, 8-12 How easily Peter might have used this healing for personal ends! Instead he utilized the incident to pay a tribute to Christ. Brought before the rulers and elders, Peter did not talk about himself but about Christ. The presence of the Holy Spirit in a life is a protection against pride and ambition. Peter disclaimed the possession of any magical power and said that the cure had been done in the name of Jesus Christ, of Nazareth who had been crucified and who had risen from the dead. He referred to the tradition which Jesus also had mentioned, about the stone which at first was rejected in the building of the Temple but which became the chief corner stone. Very similar had been the experience of Christ. He came into his own and his own received him not. Neither synagogue nor Temple wanted him, but he turned to humble folk and today millions serve him as their leader and Lord.

Questions for Discussion
1. How much time should we spend in daily prayer?
2. Is it possible to have a world without poverty?
3. When should we refuse to give money?
4. Why are saved sinners a conclusive argument for the gospel?
5. How do you explain Christ's place in history?

The treatment which put this man in better health is worth trying in every case of indigestion. Read what he says:—

"Two years ago I suffered very much from indigestion, loss of appetite, and a most severe pain in my back. Food soured in my stomach. I felt most miserable after meals, and had no desire or appetite for them. A friend advised me to try Kruschen's Tablets. I did so, and I am now happy to testify that after a short time I felt the relief. I continued taking Kruschen till I felt myself quite better and a new man. I feel that the relief is due to the fact that I took Kruschen for a long time ago.—W. H.
