Driver Hurt in Car Smash

Andrew Dunn, of Port Credit, suffered face lacerations and injuries to his right eye in a headon collision with a brewery truck, driven by Geo. McDermott of College St., Mitchener, on No. 7 Highway one mile east of Georgetown, Tuesday morning. Dunn, driving west, attempted to pass between a parked truck in charge of Fred M. Krouse of Fergus, and the oncoming McDermott vehicle. His car was literally torn to pieces, while the Krouse truck was thrown into the ditch, landing on its side. Dunn was the only person hurt, however. He was taken to the farm of A. E. Shain, where he was treated by Dr. C. V. Williams before being removed to his home at Port Credit. H.T.O. Ray Hodgson is investigating the accident.

Big Crowd at L.V.R. Euchre

The euchre under the auspices of Georgetown True Blues at the arena last Thursday night drew a large crowd of enthusiastic euchre players. Competition was keen and when time was called the winners were announced as follows:—Ladies, 1st Mrs. N. Cole; 2nd Mrs. Shortill. Men—1st Mr. Cave, 2nd J. Tost. The door first prize was won by Chief Marshall with ticket No. 619; 2nd by Mrs. Collier, Acton, with ticket No. 722. Dainty refreshments were served during the evening.

Peel County Protests

At a meeting of Peel County Council on Nov. 15th, bitter protest against the present legislation controlling the hospitalization of indigents was voiced, and four members were appointed to interview the Ontario Minister of Health to ask for changes which would give the counties more control over the admission of indigents to hospitals.

Mission Band's Tenth Anniversary

Friday evening, Nov. 15th, was the occasion of a very pleasant event in the United Church, when members of the Mission Band presented their tenth anniversary program and play, and entertained members from the Ashgrove and Hallinafad Bands. After the opening exercises and words of Welcome, Stella Lane led in an impressive worship service, after which a program of musical numbers and recitations were given, followed by the tenth anniversary play. The modal church, birthday cake with lighted candles and the children in costumes representing all nations of the world, portrayed the true meaning of the tenth birthday of union. A special feature of the evening was the address by Miss McLean, returned missionary from China, who delighted the children with her stories of the Chinese children at Burma. After the closing hymn home-made candy was served to all and a very happy evening was brought to a close.

Forgrave—Tost

A quiet but pretty wedding took place on Saturday afternoon, Nov. 16th, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert D. Tost, when their daughter Reta May, became the bride of Ernest Robert Forgrave, son of Mrs. Robert Armstrong and the late James Forgrave of Glen Williams. The Rev. H. Caldwell of Acton performed the ceremony in the presence of friends and relatives. The bride, given in marriage by her father, entered the living-room which was daintily decorated in pink and white streamers and yellow mums, to the strains of the wedding march played by Mrs. A. Ferguson of Hamilton. The bride wore a pretty gown of white silk moire, cut on princess lines, with matching accessories and a lovely three-strand bandeau of orange blossoms adorned her head. She carried a bouquet of American beauty roses. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Mary Tost, wearing a gown of midnight blue transparent velvet, with matching hat and silver sandal shoes and carrying a bouquet of bronze baby-mums. The groom was attended by his brother, William Forgrave of Rochester, N.Y. A dainty luncheon was served, after which the happy couple left on a short motor trip.

Highlights on U. S. Trade Agreements

By Wilfrid Eggleston

The highlights of the trade agreement are as follows:—

1. Beginning January 1st, 1936, the United States duty on a wide range of agricultural and other primary commodities, and a smaller group of manufactured articles, is substantially reduced.

2. On the same date Canada extends to the United States reductions ranging from small per centages to complete abolition of the duty on a range of foods, fruits and vegetables, publications, machinery used in primary production, including farm implements, automobiles, etc.

3. Each country extends to the other its 'most-favored nation' treatment, which automatically entitles it to any concession then or subsequently granted another country. In the case of Canada this does not include concessions extended to the British Commonwealth.

4. Canada extends to the United States its intermediate tariff on all items on which there is not a lower 'most-favored nation' rate. Hitherto the United States has always had to pay the highest rate on all imports.

5. Canada undertakes to pass at the next session of parliament amendments to the Customs tariff which will (a) practically abolish the 'arbitrary value' method of shutting out imports (b) abolish the present trade discount limitation which in the case of automobiles substantially raises the duty (c) provide an appeal in those cases where arbitrary values are still applied.

6. Canada promises to extend to the United States the privilege of allowing Canadian tourists in that country to return to Canada with $100.00 in merchandise free of duty, on a parity with the concession now granted by the United States for their tourists to Canada.

7. Abuse of the phrase 'made class or kind made in Canada' is to be stopped. Numerous instances have been brought to light in the past of the customs authorities, became a commodity was made in minute quantities in Canada, or even when stocks were still on hand from previous manufacture, of subjecting imports to penalties which should have only applied if the commodity was being made in Canada in commercial quantities.

8. The arbitrary values set on 18 classes of goods by the Bennett government will be abolished on January 1st, 1936.

9. The Liberal pledge of considering the consumer and the primary producer is implemented in the tariff reductions on such things as farm implements, foods, fruits, etc.

10. In addition to the lowering of duties, the holding of items now on the free list but threatened from time to time with duty subjections has been provided for. Among the important items in this group is newsprint.

The following tariff concessions are of especial interest to the Canadian farmer. The total trade before and after the Hawley-Smoot tariff was applied indicates the possibilities arising out of the reductions:

Cattle, 700 lbs. and over, reduction from 3 cents to 2 for beef cattle and 1½ cents a pound for dairy cows. Total quota 175,760. Exports 1930 (fiscal year) 135,380; 1934 150.

Cream, reduction from 56.6 cents per American gallon to 25 cents. Quota 1,500,000 gallons. Exports 1930 2,303,270 gallons, 1934 21,253 gallons.

Horses, reduction from $30. per head to $30. Exports 1930 673 head; 1934 5,948 head.

Poultry, live, reduction from eight cents a pound to four. Exports 1929 $347,000; 1934 $6,000.

Calves, under 175 pounds, reduced from 2½ cents per pound to 1¼ cents. Exports 1929 $1,000,000; 1934 $3,500.

Alfalfa seed, reduced from eight cents to four cents a pound. Exports 1929 $26,000; 1934 $12,000.

Alsike clover, reduced from eight cents to four; Exports 1929 $1,287,000; 1934 small.

Sweet clover, reduced from 4 cents a pound to 2. Exports 1929 $60,000; 1934 $1,000.

Timothy, reduction from two cents to a cent a pound. Exports 1929 small; 1934 $52,000 (correct)

Seed potatoes, reduced from 75 cents per 100 pounds to 45 cents during months most shipped, quota of 750,000 bushels. Exports 1929 $600,000; 1934 $223,000.

Hay, rate reduced from $5. per ton to $3. Exports 1929 $282,000; 1934 $160,000.

Turnips, old rate 25 cents per hundred pounds, new rate 13½ cents; Exports in 1929 $601,000; 1934 $451,000

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

ABOUT VIEW FINDERS

You will not cut your friends in two if you use your view finder properly.

"HOW did I ever happen to do that when I took this picture? There are the fish and part of Bill but I certainly did a fine job of cutting him in two." Haven't you heard those sad words before? Sure you have.

The answer is very simple. The lad taking the picture failed to use the view-finder properly when he made the shot. He probably saw that the string of fish was in view, but he quite overlooked the fact that the proudly grinning Bill was neatly cut in two.

Most modern cameras have two kinds of view-finders. First, of course, is the familiar reflecting finder—the kind into which you peer from above. Properly shaded, it will give you an accurate idea of what each shot includes. Then there is the "direct" view-finder, mounted on the top or side of the camera. In using it you hold the camera at eye-level and sight through two rectangular openings. What you see, the camera will get.

With either or both of these finders there is really little reason for failing to get what you want in a picture. Of course, there are limits, defined by the size and shape of the film and the capacity of the lens. You have to select the most interesting bits of a scene and concentrate on them.

When an artist does this, he "composes" his picture. Many volumes have been written on the subject of composition, but the whole idea may be boiled down to this: Good composition is simply a pleasing arrangement of the elements of a picture, an arrangement that puts the emphasis on the most interesting feature.

A little care in using your view finder will, almost invariably, give you a well composed picture. For your eye will reject an arrangement that is confusing or displeasing; it will warn you that somebody's head is going to be lopped off; it will reveal whether or not the finished picture will tell a story—the story you had in mind when you unlimbered the camera, for "telling a story" is the essence of a good picture.

Although we have only ourselves and a few friends to please we can increase that pleasure vastly by pausing, just before we click the shutter, to check up our picture in the view finder. If it's what we want—fire away! And, when the finished pictures come back, we shall certainly not begrudge those few seconds of concentration on the view finder.
