ACTON

While operating a cultivator on his farm, west of Acton, last week, Mr. A. M. McPherson was painfully injured and suffered two broken ribs and a multitude of cuts and bruises. The accident occurred when Mr. McPherson walked out on the tongue of the cultivator to untangle the lines. After starting, he realized the danger, and started back for the machine. The horses suddenly bolted and he was thrown off and caught in the teeth of the cultivator. Here he was dragged for some distance, until one wheel of the cultivator went over a stone and he was released. Mr. McPherson was able to make his way from the field to the house. His clothes were practically torn off him, and several bad cuts were in one leg and his whole body was badly bruised. It was a narrow escape from fatal injuries. George Airdie had the misfortune to be thrown from his bicycle last week and suffered several painful head cuts and bruises. One of the heaviest hogs ever shipped from Acton station was recently forwarded by Mr. Duncan Walde. It weighed 770 lbs. and was a Yorkshire sow, that had been purchased from the late John Robertson. Public Not Superstitious That Friday the thirteenth is not unlucky was demonstrated by the management of Huntington Park. They had their opening dance last Friday and the largest crowd in several years turned out—which goes to prove that the public are not the least bit superstitious. And the crowd was not disappointed. The Big Apple was demonstrated to their satisfaction, and the music supplied by Lynn Spence and his ten-piece band more than pleased the dancers and critics. The management of this popular dance pavilion are planning a midnight frolic Monday night. See announcement elsewhere in this issue.

Upper Canada Tract Society Miss Lillian Kellett, field secretary of the Upper Canada Tract Society was in town this past week soliciting aid for the Society's missionary work among the sailors on the Great Lakes. This century old organization supplies reading for isolated lighthouse keepers on the lakes and Pacific coast, the R.C.M.P. in the Arctic, and lonely settlers in the driest out areas. The schools in the district contributed very liberally and their donation is being used to furnish books by the children's request for the R.C.M.P. Over two thousands free beds and a thousand mats were given to needy men in the past winter at the Soldiers Institute at Port Arthur. The present season three institutions will be operating at Kingston, Toronto, and Port Arthur. On behalf of the Society, Miss Kellett conveys her thanks for the splendid response to this international work.
