Holiday Precautions

The annual summer holiday is designed to improve the health of you and your children. Care should be taken that proper benefit of this holiday is gained and that its benefit is not impaired by accident or preventable disease. The following precautions are eminently worth while:

1. Be sure that the water supply is safe. If you are not satisfied with the character of this supply, boil the water. Cool and aerate it by pouring the water from one jug to another. Also ask the Provincial Health Department for information as to a practical method of purifying water. Some provinces furnish a simple apparatus for this purpose at cost. An additional precaution is the use of anti-typhoid vaccine which also is supplied by the Health Department.
2. Do not take unnecessary risks when swimming. Learn the simplicity of the Schafer method of artificial respiration and teach your kids how to practice it on one another.
3. Take a small first-aid kit with you. There will always be burns, bites and scratches to be dressed.
4. If you are camping out, extinguish all fires before you leave camp.
5. One of the most important precautions is that you and your children avoid the use of raw milk. If pasteurized milk is not available, heat the milk in a double boiler to 145 degrees F. Maintain this temperature for 30 minutes. Then rapidly cool the milk to 40 or 50 degrees F. and keep it at this temperature until it is used. Pasteurization kills all the disease germs in the milk. The use of milk so treated does not injure the qualities of the product. Its use may save your child from a host of milk-borne diseases.

People living in cities where milk is pasteurized are likely to take it for granted and to forget that in many areas where the significance of pasteurization is not realized much raw milk is still sold. When going on holidays always enquire as to whether milk supplied you is pasteurized or not. For the sake of your health and your children's health insist on pasteurized milk only.

New Zealand is the place to go if one is sick. Free medical service and hospitals for all is provided.

"Gone with the Wind"

Are you a "Gone with the Wind" advertiser?

Does your advertising get as far as the front porch only to be caught by a gust of wind and gone to clutter up your yard or your neighbor's?

This "Gone with the Wind" advertising fails in its purpose to get into the home, to be interesting enough to be read, to be convincing enough to sell the merchandise you offer.

"Gone with the Wind" advertising fails to serve you properly, and costs you too much.

In modern merchandising, time is money, and rapid turnover is good business. "Into the Home" newspaper advertising fulfills its purpose, works quickly, costs less because it sells more.
