COLOR-BLINDNESS AFFECTS PEOPLE IN VARIOUS WAYS

People who are color-blind were not very pleased when colored traffic signals were introduced and since beatoms have been in general use their troubles have increased.

Ability to distinguish between colors is more common than most of us suppose. More men than women are victims of it.

There are people who are color-blind in only one eye. For instance, while their left eye may see red as red, their right sees it as black.

The story is told of a famous Quaker chemist who was color-blind and had only three normal color sensations. A pink flower looked blue to him and when he cut his chin one day he saw green blood flowing from the wound.

Instances of colored vision are not uncommon. Some people always see as though they were looking through green or red glass.

Bridge Club News

The Georgetown Men's Bridge Club held their opening meeting on Monday evening at the Legion Hall with a full turnout. Several new members were accepted and plans discussed for the coming season. New equipment has been purchased, and provision made to make beginners feel at home. Members of the executive volunteered to instruct a "Duke" class in turns, to the best of their ability. The meeting next Monday night, Sept. 19th, will be held in St. George's Hall, after that, every Monday in the Legion Assembly Hall.
