Time to Quit

One Sunday morning the sermon was even longer than usual. The congregation was getting more and more restless.

Suddenly the person stopped. "My friends," he said, "I don't mind your looking at your watches during my sermon to find out the time. But when you start holding them to your ear to make sure they are still going I feel it is time I made a small protest."

"Do you have many lines to speak in the new play?"
 "No, I take the part of the husband."

Let the other fellow talk occasionally. You can't learn much listening to yourself.

Neighbour—Well, Bill, I hear your boss has had a fever. How's his temperature this morning?
 Elrod Man (scratching his head)—Taint for me to say. He died last night.
