BACKSLIDERS ALL

Men's wills are like hills—not mountains but bluffs. That register briefly in spasms and puffs. And owing to languor or soft rubber spines, Our stout resolutions shrink small on the wines; Full ninety per cent. of the fish we would fry Survive like a snowball in middle July. Concluding to diet, I'm on but a week When courage deserts me, my hinges all squeak. Then breaking a pledge to the "daily half dozen" I squander swift hours with a giddy young cousin. A voice urges know it from "kiver to kiver." But dances attract me, I scull on the river. Too good-natured bosses, or comfort—a wife May hypnotize effort once throbbing with life. How often we promise to hang up pyjamas Left sprawling for discord to stage comedy dramas; "More cash I must give you," says spouse to his wife. "Home early," swears he to the joy of his life: Do they do it, Micawber, or settle that debt. March cheery to church, be it sultry or wet? Ask the man in the moon, who winks with his eye, And keeps all his dates with the stars in the sky.

—John M. Copeland.

MINISTERIAL ASSOCIATION DISCOURAGES SUNDAY FUNERALS

At a meeting of the Ministerial Fellowship of North Dufferin held recently, the following resolution discouraging Sunday funerals was passed unanimously:— "Whereas the holding of funerals on Sunday seriously interferes with the church services, taking many persons away from their regular places of worship, disarranging the Sunday duties of ministers, and involving undertaker and cemetery staffs in unnecessary work on Sunday, without commensurate advantages to anyone, and "Whereas Sunday funerals have long been discontinued in many centres with manifest benefit to all concerned. "Be it therefore resolved that, we, the members of the Ministerial Fellowship of Shelburne and District, appeal to all members of our respective churches, our office-bearers, and to the public in general, to refrain from arranging Sunday funerals, and to use their best influence to this end, always excepting cases of extreme necessity in which direction may be given by the Medical Officer of Health of the Municipality concerned, and further, that this resolution be published in each local paper of our area and read from our several pulpits."

WHERE THE KING BECAME A MASON

Early in the summer of 1938 their Majesties, King George VI and Queen Elizabeth will visit Canada. The event will be a memorable one as a visit from any reigning sovereigns of the British throne must inevitably be. Throughout the Dominion, however, articles which one reads show that the personal touch is steadily becoming stronger in the loyalty of Canadians to their sovereign lord. This is nicely illustrated by the following article from the Durham Chronicle of last week. "Perhaps nothing shows the British system of democracy to better advantage than the cover page of the last issue of the Masonic Sun, the official organ of Canadian Masonry. "His Majesty King George VI is seen seated with a group of leading Masons at the door of Glamis, Scotland Lodge No. 99, where he was initiated into the mysteries of the Craft. "The King, who would have been welcomed into the most exclusive Lodges in Britain, chose rather to enter the Glamis Lodge, near the former home of Queen Elizabeth. The ceremony of receiving the Prince, as he was at that time, was not performed by renowned Masons at all, but by the simple folk of the village. "The village postmaster of Glamis, who was Master of the Lodge, performed the ceremony of receiving the future King of Britain. "There is no other country in the world, republic or monarchy, where the chief executive can travel among his people as safely, unprotected as in Britain. "In November, 1936, the Duke of York became Grand Master Mason of Scotland, and eleven days later he succeeded to the throne of Britain due to the abdication of his brother, King Edward VIII. As a consequence King George found it necessary to relinquish the highest office in the gift of Scottish Freemasons. "King George still visits Scotland and on every occasion where possible, never fails to attend the little village Lodge that first showed him the light of Masonry."

WHEN ITS "LADY" DAY ITS POPULAR
It does not matter how many ships we see going out, or how many we see coming in, they're all different in some way, and most interesting. If you could just stand around at the dock of an arriving "Lady" liner of the Canadian National Steamships at Montreal, Saint John or Boston, as they return from the British West Indies and listen to the enthusiastic comments of the passengers, and the good-byes to the master and personnel, you would know right away the reason of the popularity of these ships. The arrivals of these "Lady" liners also create quite a stir in the Caribbean ports which they serve. It's "Lady" day and most of the population of each port turns out with a royal welcome. For these are Canada's own ships, designed for the Caribbean by ties of trade and tourist traffic.

MAN'S HAT REVEALS HIS CHARACTER, EXPERT SAYS

Most men like to wear their hats for years. They hate giving them away, but their hats give them away, according to a well-known hatter and psychologist, says a writer in London Tit-Bits Magazine. Women have always liked to express themselves in their hats, but a man's hat unconsciously expresses his character. The type and color, the angle at which it is worn, all tell their tale. The black bowler for the old-fashioned, steady business man; the gray bowler for the country lover and racing man. The black soft hat with stiff brim for the serious man of modern outlook, with soft brim for the less conventional and younger generation. In colored hats, married men prefer dark gray, single men light gray, brown or green. The tilt of the hat fills in details of the man's individuality. A slight tilt to the right shows proper self-confidence; an exaggerated tilt, conceit. The wearer of his hat tilted to the left is likely to be a great individualist, or at any rate, eccentric.

Old Mac—"Ah, well, y'd better wait till the world's map settled."

TELEPHONE TALKS IN THE WATSON FAMILY

That LONG DISTANCE Habit is Catching!

The Watson youngsters are not merely playing telephone—they are playing Long Distance; for Long Distance is a habit with the Watson family.—an inexpensive habit that saves anxiety and helps keep the family together. Let the telephone extend your horizon beyond your immediate neighbourhood. Let it keep you in touch with faraway relatives and friends—the cost is surprisingly small.

Reductions in telephone rates—local and long distance—in 1935, '36 and '37 have effected savings to telephone users in Ontario and Quebec of nearly one million dollars yearly.

MASSEY-HARRIS REDUCES FARM IMPLEMENT PRICES

"Massey-Harris Company is pleased to announce substantial list price reductions on Tractors and General Farm Machinery, effective November 1st, 1938.

"The reductions are the result of a desire on the part of the Company to share with its customers the benefits of economies effected, together with the savings resulting from the present slight decreases in prices of raw materials.

"That these reductions will be of material benefit to the farmer who needs to replace his machinery is evidenced by the fact, that according to sizes, reductions on Tractors range as high as $84.00; on Plows up to $7.00; on Grain Drills as much as $8.00, and on Enclosed Gear Binders up to $9.75, and on the Open Gear Binder up to $30.00.

"It is gratifying to Massey-Harris, whose interests are so closely linked with those of the farmer, to be able to make these reductions at this time."

Vice-President and General Manager

MASSEY-HARRIS CO. LIMITED

BUILDERS OF IMPLEMENTS THAT MAKE FARMING PROFITABLE

The preacher was giving the congregation a heated sermon on drinking. "If I had every drop of liquor in the town, I'd dump it in the river," he said. After a long time, he concluded, "If I had every drop of liquor in the country, I'd dump it in the river." He then requested the hymn. The choir director made the following request: "Everyone will please sing heartily, 'Shall we gather at the river?'"
