MacCormack's Cat and Dog Sale

We have dug up some elderly cats and dogs for clearance. We are telling you the bitter truth about them. Cats and dogs in the merchant's language are items of merchandise that customers did not care for and have been around too long for their own good. If you don't want them for yourself, buy them anyway and give them to your Aunt Sally.

All the Merchandise is perfect. The prices are reduced for quick sales. Buy now for future use and save.

OBITUARY

MRS. JOHN KENNEY
Acton lost another highly respected and life-long resident last week when Mrs. John Kenney passed away on Tuesday, at the home on Bower avenue. Mrs. Kenney had been enjoying her usual health until Christmas day, when, in preparing for the day with the family all at home, she suffered a stroke of paralysis. During the period that followed, recurring seizures were suffered, and she passed peacefully away on Tuesday evening, January 10th. She was in her seventy-fourth year.

Mrs. Kenney was, before marriage, Barbara Ewing Nickell, a daughter of the late John Nickell, and was born at the farm home near Limehouse. Almost fifty-two years ago she was joined in holy wedlock to John Kenney and since then Acton has been her home. Three children blessed the union, and these remain, with the benefit of a home life that was enriched by her guidance and faithfulness to its care. Linton, the eldest, is in Toronto; Lloyd, in Montreal; and Telford, in Hamilton. All were home during her last illness and were indeed a comfort to the parents at the time. She was the last surviving member of the family of the late John Nickell.

Two years ago Mr. and Mrs. Kenney celebrated their golden wedding anniversary, which was indeed a very happy occasion. Her chief interest was in her home, and her achievement in making it one which the family loved and many friends enjoyed visiting marked her life as particularly successful and endeared her among many neighbors and friends in Acton and elsewhere. She was a member of Knox Church, and when health permitted enjoyed church fellowship. The funeral was held on Friday afternoon with a service at the home, conducted by the Rev. H. L. Bennie, assisted by Rev. Dr. E. M. Morrow. Interment was at Fairview Cemetery. The pallbearers were Messrs. Wm. Mills, Hugh McDowell, Robert Storey, Herbert Cook, Thos. Kennedy and Dr. W. G. C. Kenney. — Free Press.

NORVAL RIFLE CLUB

Seven members of the Norval Rifle Club visited Buffalo last week end in individual and team contests against riflemen from all parts of Ontario and the United States. The results of this competition are not yet known, as the scores were not compiled when the marksmen left for their homes. The Norval Club will visit the North Toronto Club on their Union Station range on Monday night, Jan. 30th.

The scores for Monday night's aggregate shoot are as follows: M. Atkinson 100, E. McKinney 100, H. Nurse 99, R. W. Hall 99, C. Meredith 99, G. H. Hall 99, W. Wilson 98, W. Robinson 98, F. Stark 98, Dr. Stevenson 97, W. Lisk 97, F. Hustler 96, C. Cantelon 96, A. W. Wilson 94.

Isaac, of Hebrew Origin,

Name for Many Notables
The name Isaac, of Hebrew origin, has a curious meaning—"the laughter." The Bible Isaac, son of Abraham and father of Jacob, is said to have lived to 180, writes Florence A. Cowles in the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Isaac I was emperor of Constantinople in the Eleventh century, and Isaac II sovereign of the East in the Twelfth century.
Isaac Walton (1633-1683), English essayist and poet, is called "the father of angling." His "Compleat Angler" appeared in five editions in his lifetime and has been published more than 100 times since his death.

Sir Isaac Newton (1642-1727), great English mathematician and natural philosopher, discovered in the fall of an apple the law of gravitation, investigated the nature of light and the laws of motion.

Rev. Isaac Watts (d. 1748) wrote hymns, also poems for children. "When I Survey the Wondrous Cross," "Let Dogs Delight to Bark and Bite," etc.
Among other noted Isaacs of the past are: Allerton (d. 1859) wealthy Pilgrim Father who came to America on the first voyage of the Mayflower and whose daughter, Mary, was the last survivor of the Mayflower company; Backus (d. 1806) American clergyman who advocated separation of church and state; Bickerstaffe (d. 1812) Irish playwright, author of "The Miller of Dee," etc.; Chauncey (d. 1840) American naval hero of the War of 1812 and later commandant of the Brooklyn navy yard; Hull (d. 1843) American naval officer.

Babbitt (d. 1862) soap manufacturer and inventor of Babbitt metal, an alloy, for which he was given a gold medal and a grant by congress; Taylor (d. 1889) American physician who suggested the hypodermic use of morphia and strychnia; Hayes (d. 1887) early Arctic explorer; Singer (d. 1875) founder of the Singer Sewing Machine company; Pitman, Sir (1813-97), inventor of the Pitman system of shorthand, and Funk (d. 1912) co-founder of the publishing firm of Funk & Wagnalls.

Stevens' Engine First to Pull a Train on a Track

Three dates are important in the history of the steam locomotive. On October 23, 1824, the first steam locomotive that actually pulled a train on a track, that built by John Stevens, was run on a circular track on his estate at Hoboken, says a writer in the Philadelphia Inquirer.

The first locomotive for railroad use was the "Stourbridge Lion," which was built by the George Stephenson works upon the Tyne river in England. Horatio Allen was sent to England by the Delaware & Hudson Railroad company to buy it. The engine traveled at the speed of 10 miles an hour. Its first run in the United States was on August 9, 1829, on the tracks of the Delaware & Hudson between Carbondale and Honesdale, the canal terminus in Pennsylvania.

The "Tom Thumb," designed by Peter Cooper, was the first locomotive built in the United States to draw passengers. On August 28, 1830, it carried 26 passengers 13 miles over the tracks of the Baltimore & Ohio in 1 hour and 15 minutes.

Australian Opossums Beautiful

Among the most beautiful animals of the Australian "bush" are many species of opossums. Some kinds are richly furred and as a consequence millions of them have been caught by trappers. The most prized are the silver-grays, and pelts from these animals make beautiful fur coats. Opossums are protected in most of the states, but occasionally they become pests to farmers and fruit-growers, and then an open season is declared. They sleep in the trees of the forests during the daytime and come out to feed at night. Australia, sometimes called the "Topsy Turvy continent," is "different" more especially in its flora and fauna. In this geographically ancient continent, remarkable animals have survived, animals which provide living links with pre-historic times.

Mud Skipper, Land Fish
The mud skipper, or bormmi, actually spends most of its time on land. These strange creatures are found in Asia, Africa and Australia. They stay in the water only when breeding; once matured, they live on the warm sand, or even climb the mangrove trees. Their breast fins are almost arms, the extremities having webbed fingers which facilitate walking and climbing. The fish's prominent eyes are set high on the head and can focus in almost any direction.

Gretna Green Marriages

For decades Scotland's Gretna Green has been famed for its marriages of elopers, many of whom were pursued by irate parents and took their vows as hastily as possible over a smithy's anvil, for fear an irate relative would break up the proceedings.

Chinese Invented Paper

The invention of paper is credited to the Chinese. The art is believed to have been carried by the Moors into Spain—thence into Italy, and then to France, Germany, and the low countries, and lastly to England and America.
