CORRESPONDENCE

Georgetown, Aug. 16th, 1939.
To the Editor,
Georgetown Herald.
Dear Sir:
The W.C.T.U. wish to draw the attention of your readers to a book recently placed by our organization in the Public Library which, we think will be helpful in enabling us, as citizens, to give intelligent consideration to this liquor problem, which has, we greatly fear, become more complicated by the establishment of a brewers' warehouse in our community.
However, tolerant or intolerant, we, as individuals may be of the use of alcohol as a beverage, no one would be foolish enough to deny the fact that it, directly or indirectly creates several grave community problems, wherever the drug is readily available.
These problems have always existed in more or less serious form, but it is only within the last few decades that any comprehensive effort has been made to make a scientific study of the subject.
During the past twenty years, however, much has been done in this line, and Dr. Haven Emerson (professor of Health Practice, Columbia University) has embodied in a very readable book, "Alcohol, Its Effects on Man," many important findings of science in regard to the effects of beverage alcohol upon the individual race and community.
Of this book the New York Times Book Review says: "Dr. Emerson's sane, judicial and scientific presentation of the conclusions to which medical men are predominantly agreed comes at a timely moment."
The chapters dealing with the relationship of alcohol and (1) tuberculosis, (2) venereal diseases and (3) mental disorders are particularly pertinent to the problem from the standpoint of community health, and consequently, too, of community wealth.
We have also placed in the Library a brochure, "End This Colossal Wastage from the Pen of the late Viscount Snowden, formerly Chancellor of the Exchequer of the Labor Government of Great Britain. This deals with the economic side of the problem.
Undoubtedly there never was a time when those opposed to the use of alcoholic beverages had so much authoritative evidence to support their view. What then is the reason that we have increasing consumption of liquor? A knotty problem, indeed and one which, like all other problems, can be solved only through our earnest endeavor to, first of all, search out the FACTS, and then direct our co-operative intelligence to finding a solution.
On behalf of community welfare,
(Mrs. C. B.) Catherine Dayfoot,
Press Secretary, Georgetown W.C.T.U.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

CHANGE IN TOURIST STYLES
(Midland Free Press)

Whether the cooler weather has anything to do with it or not there has been a marked change in the style of clothes worn by most of the tourists this year. There are not so many girls wearing shorts, and the number of stout, middle-aged women running around with bare legs and bare backs is almost negligible. Possibly the mosquitoes have something to do with it, and one cannot blame the ladies if they have gone in for defence against their attack. Slacks seem to be the order of the day this summer, and we must say that we think they look a lot better on most people over twenty-five than did the shorts and handkerchief halters which were in vogue last season. It is not that we worry so much about legs, for like the London bus conductor, who urged a reluctant old maid to hurry up the steps when the wind was blowing, "Legs ain't no treat to us." We do like to see folks decently clad, however, and slacks are a big improvement over the nudity of last year.

THE POWER OF OPINION
The Canadian Statesman, Bowmanville

The world is coming more and more to be governed by public opinion. Even in governments where the public is supposed to have no opinion of its own, in the last analysis the reigning power cannot long disregard a settled adverse public opinion.
Public opinion is the result of two forces. One is the accuracy of knowledge, and the other is character, and when you know how much knowledge a man has and how much character he has, you can predict the result of those two things and forecast his course of action. And so it seems to be with nations.
Therefore the hope of mankind is a continuous process of education, that the public may possess both character and knowledge. Otherwise public opinion will misrule the world.

—Fireworks or pyrotechnics were a contribution to our enjoyment from the Chinese of centuries ago and through the intervening ages they have taken a prominent part in most gala occasions. Among the most dashing beautiful pyrotechnic displays to be viewed anywhere are those which climax the nightly grandstand spectacles at the Canadian National Exhibition, which this year includes the peasant "Tropics" and the famous Royal Canadian Mounted Police.
