SPOTLIGHT PERSONALITIES OF THE WEEK

ERNEST SEITZ

The Canadian pianist-composer, will appear as assisting artist with the Toronto Symphony Orchestra in its inaugural broadcast concert of this season on Tuesday, Oct. 24th, at 10.00 p.m. Mr. Seitz is a veteran concert artist, having appeared as recitalist in most of the large cities of Canada and the United States. His composition, "The World is Waiting for the Sunrise," has been accepted as one of the most popular songs ever written. With the Toronto Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Sir Ernest MacMillan, he will play Chopin's "Concerto No. 1 in E Minor."

JOHN BARBIROLLI

distinguished young conductor of the Philharmonic-Symphony Orchestra of New York, is approaching the half-way mark of his three-year term. During this time he has established himself in full favour with American and Canadian listeners of the Sunday afternoon concert heard over the CBC National Network at 3.00 p.m. On Sunday, Oct. 22nd, the concert will consist of an all-Wagner programme in memory of the late Lawrence Gillman, noted music critic.

OBC's Agricultural Division has planned its Ontario Farm broadcasts Monday to Friday inclusive at 12.30 to 1.00 p.m. EST so that specific subjects may be dealt with at the same time each week. In addition to the regular market advice and the daily episode of "The Craigs," Don Fairbairn discusses farm problems and objectives under the headings of live stock, Mondays; poultry, Tuesdays; dairying, Wednesdays; crops (field) Thursdays, and fruit, Fridays. A series of special interviews will be announced early in November, with specialists in the foregoing departments participating in the discussions.

Percy Faith says that there is real inspiration for his musical comedy company in the spacious Great Hall of the Arts and Letters Club, where nearly 80 musicians, singers and technicians foregather each Wednesday night to present CBC's midweek presentation, "The Cosmopolitans" to National Network listeners (Wednesdays, 9.30 to 10.00 p.m. EST). Striking decorations, sketches of well-known writers, painters and actors who comprise the Club's active and past membership, a magnificent fireplace, reminiscent of mediaeval England, and massive oak furnishings are features of the historic meeting place of Toronto's better known artists and musicians. Even in the midst of cables, violins, percussion instruments, the gracious room retains its special appeal and exudes a brand of hospitality which the radio people have found most exhilarating. The high and fine acoustics are giving technicians a good many happy moments, too.

"Women in the World," a series of talks by Esther Thompson, heard on Mondays at 4.15 p.m. EST, is of particular interest to farm women. Miss Thompson, who speaks from Winnipeg, is director of women's work under the Manitoba Department of Agriculture, and in this capacity she is in close contact with every phase of women's activity in that province. Her work includes the direction, development and co-ordination of the 12 Women's Institutes in Manitoba; the organization of home-making courses, direction of rural study groups; in fact, any aspect of educational work which rural women engage in for themselves or their communities.

Two programmes currently presented by the CBC keep Canadians in touch with the point of view in the British Isles. There is the "Old Country Mail," Sundays at 1.00 p.m. and on Wednesdays at 10.30 p.m. EST, in which R. S. Lambert gives excerpts from the overseas post. These letters, from friends and relatives in the British Isles, give graphic pictures of the manner in which the civilian population is "carrying on." Then, there is the CBC News, which comes via short wave each week-day afternoon at 4.45 p.m. EST, in which the important news of the days is dealt with authoritatively.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD HOME PICTURE SHOWS

It's easy to take full-color shots and project them on a screen in large size for your friends. A small projector less than six inches tall can project screen pictures several feet wide.

HERE'S an interesting idea for presenting pictures—a home picture show, with your own shots projected on a screen in large size, so that the whole family or a group of friends can enjoy them together. Home movie makers, of course, have always used this method; but today it is also becoming popular for "still" shots, now that so many camera fans are using the full-color films made for miniature cameras. When you take miniature-camera shots on a roll of modern full-color film, it is returned to you as a group of individual full-color transparencies—ready for viewing directly, or for projection on a home screen. The scene above shows how these shots are projected. The only difference is that this illustration is printed in black-and-white, while the actual screen pictures are in full color—like the original subject. Several compact, inexpensive projectors for these full-color shots are now on the market. A color transparency is simply inserted in the projector, the lamp is switched on, and you get a screen picture up to several feet across! Naturally, this dramatic size adds to any shot, and helps bring out the fullest beauty of the colors.

During a recent New York World's Fair visit, I saw hundreds of these color transparencies projected at the photography building—on a screen nearly four times as tall as a man! That display is truly spectacular. Of course, you can't show color shots on that scale with a home projector. But you can take close-ups of your child, or friends, or the flowers in your garden—and present them "larger than life" on a screen in your own living-room, all in exquisite glowing color! Which, you'll admit, is quite something.

As for taking color shots—it's as easy as taking snapshots in black-and-white. You load the film in a suitable miniature camera, set the lens and shutter according to the exposure instructions, and shoot. And—as long as you follow instructions—you're sure of correctly-exposed color transparencies. Sooner or later, every real camera fan will be shooting full-color film as well as black-and-white... and will have a projector for showing his color transparencies. It's a really modern way to enjoy pictures... and it's growing in popularity every day. Once you try it, you'll see why.
