High scoring was the order on Monday night on the Norval Rifle range. Many possibilities were scored on practice cards. Fifty percent of the members scored the 100 points in the aggregate event. An invitation has been sent to the North Toronto Rifle Club to visit our range on Monday, Nov. 13th. As the Toronto Club is conceded to be the best in the city, a close contest is expected. Therefore, we will need all members present, as the high scores will decide the match. The scores in the aggregate event follows: H. Nurse 100, M. Atkinson 100, E. McKinney 100, A. W. Wilson 100, A. HEATING HINTS

by James Stewart

ONE way to cut the cost of heating your home is to use "Ashpit Waste". It is a means of burning coal through the grate before it has been completely burned. There are a few precautions which will help you to cut down this waste.

1. Burn coal of the proper size. Every heater is designed to burn a particular size. Your dealer can help you decide this.
2. Shake the grate gently and only when necessary to make room for fresh fuel.
3. Keep the ashpit clean and clear of ashes. This is most important, because the ashpit serves as a chamber from which air is supplied to the fire. With out an ample supply of air, complete combustion of the coal is impossible.
4. Use a high quality Pennsylvania hard coal.

In the NEWS — of the Week

The war journey of Canada's ship of state is becoming one of intense interest as her steering chart reveals that almost overnight she is being rated a major liner in world traffic. Her own decks are swept clean for action. First, Premier Hepburn tossed prejudice and personal feelings overboard and aligned Ontario and himself with Canada and Prime Minister King for the sake of unified effort. Then the loyal citizens of Quebec grabbed the broom handle, made Duplessis an ex-premier. And to cap it all, Canada's Prime Minister has finally crystallized the aims of his government in an address to the nation in terms of earnestness which cannot be misinterpreted.

It is now up to the crew—as nothing seems in the way to prevent a fairly straight course. There is much money available at home for necessary industrial expansion and millions more are available from Great Britain for the construction of aircraft and general war supplies manufacture. Moreover, government officials appear to be satisfied that the new taxation measures will keep the craft on even keel insofar as the cost of equipping and maintaining our military forces are concerned.

Latest reports from Ottawa indicate that the men primarily concerned with the growth of the country's airplane industry are pleased by the pace being set by manufacturers. Where precision is so necessary as in the construction of fighting craft, it is obvious that men cannot jump into heavy production immediately. But it is known that existing factories are steadily increasing the rate of output and new factories under construction are springing up at several points in the Dominion.

Paralleling this development, the training program of men to service and man these new ships is being pepped up appreciably. Training grounds throughout the country are preparing the skeleton stage, and by the time new recruits for the empire's flying forces are streaming into Canada from other Dominions and the home country, adequate facilities will be ready.

Canada's huge projected program is of course the background for the revival of the St. Lawrence Waterways project, both in Canada and the United States. And that revival of action is a very good indication of the faith held in Ottawa and Washington in the success of Canada's expansion—during and after the war.

Moreover, there seems finally to be a prospect that the work will actually be started on this project which has been in the talking stage for years. The present administration in the United States, strongly in support of the joint plan, appears to be headed for a third term. Our own government always eager for action in the big border river, is strongly entrenched in office at Ottawa. And as a clincher, the Ontario Government, once the big obstacle against the scheme, now waves the signal "Go ahead."

All of which again heightens interest in speculation as to what the final result will be. Picture if you can the situation in Canada when here we have a headquarters for the Empire aircraft industry, when the roar of factories is heard through the night as we strive to keep up to the war demands for materials of all kinds, when farmers are asked to produce on a scale bigger than ever, when thousands of men are at work on the Waterways development; and at the same time, Canadian youth by the thousands are in uniform at home and abroad.

Get that picture firmly fixed and we have starting at its one vital question. Where is the man-power coming from?

Then don't be surprised if that problem, which has been engaging the attention of statesmen in this country for some time now, comes up for immediate solution—the problem of immigration.

In Ontario, the big news of the moment is the decision of the provincial government to enact legislation which will do away with municipal elections for the duration of the war. Biggest surprise is the complacent manner in which the people of Ontario have taken the ultimatum. And it appears as another sign in the definite backing of war effort from citizens at large. Mr. Hepburn says his move will save money at a time when money is needed for war work. Well, let's save it, the electors say.
