CANADIAN LEGION WAR SERVICES

Several weeks before the first contingent of fighting men began their historic passage to England, Lieut.-Col. G. F. Ritchie, D.S.O., M.C. of Montreal, vice-president of the Canadian Legion War Services, began conversations in London for the establishment overseas of the Legion's new wartime organization.

Col. Ritchie, in advance of the first contingent to confer with Lieut.-Col. William Eas, D.S.O., the C.L.W.S. honorary representative in London, and to pave the way for the arrival of the Legion's vanguard of overseas officers.

Authorities in England and France, according to reports now reaching Ottawa are co-operating wholeheartedly with the Legion officials. Little can be said, at the moment, of course, until more complete information is available, but it is understood that the machinery is being rapidly set up to go into operation in the near future. This machinery will enable continuance in both countries, including actual theatres of war, of the same welfare facilities being provided in Canada by the Legion such as education, personal service, entertainment, recreation, sports, and sports. In addition, leave hostel centres and travel bureaux will be established and there will be other auxiliary services of a more minor nature.

Pending the arrival of the overseas officers, who are attached to and will sail with the next contingent of the C.A.S.F., Col. Ritchie is maintaining close association with officials of the British Legion and the British Empire Service League, both of which are extending splendid co-operation.

The C.L.W.S. advance party is headed by A. E. "Jack" Moore, of Winnipeg, Dominion chairman of the Canadian Legion, accompanied by Captain J. W. St. G. Hall, mayor of St. Lambert, Quebec, and Captain Mert W. Plunkett, supervisor of soldier concert parties.

Announcement that the Canadian Legion War Services will make an appeal in February for $500,000 with which to carry on its important work among the Dominion's fighting men undoubtedly will be sympathetically received by the general public.

The Legion itself since 1925 has been championing the cause of veterans of the last war, and their families, and has performed notable services in re-habilitation, dependents' allowances, hospitalization, pensions and other matters pertinent to soldier problems. In its subsidiary body, the C.L.W.S., it is carrying on a work which it is most eminently fitted to discharge. The new wartime organization is strictly profit making and was created solely for the purpose of providing for the welfare of members of Canada's naval, land and air forces.

Alex Walker, of Calgary, who is acting Dominion president of the Canadian Legion with Eric W. Foster, Foster overseas, in announcing the appeal said that the money will enable the Legion to provide those who have responded for service with the elements of culture, practical training and character-building to fit them for the return to civilian life.

"Experience has taught us," Mr. Walker said, "that the hardships, deprivations and sufferings of war can impoverish nations for generations to come unless far-sighted action is taken. It is to lessen these hardships and deprivations to which our young men will be subjected in the present conflict that the members of the Canadian Legion have pledged themselves in a common effort."

Another outstanding Canadian who served with distinction in the Great War has joined the staff of The Canadian Legion War Services He is Robert England, M.C., of Winnipeg, who has been granted leave of absence as economic advisor to the Winnipeg Electric Company to become director of overseas education for the organization. Mr. England, educationist and author, was an officer in the Royal Canadian Regiment. He will be in charge of education work to be carried out by the C.L.W.S. in collaboration with the Canadian Association for Adult Education whereby Canadians on active service will be able to continue their studies.

Mr. England has written several books dealing with education and social problems in Western Canada and is well known to radio listeners as lecturer of the broadcast series, "Ventures in Citizenship," presented last winter. His wife, incidentally, served with the Queen Alexandra's Imperial Military Nursing Service in 1914-1918 and was one of the few women to be mentioned in dispatches.

Alan Murray, one of the original members of the famous wartime troupe the "Dumbbells," also has been taken on the strength of the C.L.W.S. Alan was a song and dance rook who made many a Canadian at the front laugh away his troubles. He has been delegated to organize concert parties among men in the Montreal area and is now holding auditions in the Black Watch and other regiments.

CARD OF THANKS

Mrs. J. B. Mackenzie, convener of the Christmas Hamper Fund, and the Women's Institute wish to thank all those who so generously donated toward this fund; also the churches for their White Glitz. The thanks of the committee is also extended to Chief W. G. Marshall who kindly delivered the hampers.

Modern war note:—Soldiers at Exhibition Camp in Toronto have been granted the use of rooms at Parkdale College Institute, twice a week, for the study of French and German.
