DEPUTY-REEVE WILFRED HALL OF TRAFALGAR LOSES 200 CHICKENS IN BARN FIRE

"Pat," a watchdog of uncertain parentage, sounded the alarm at the W. E. Hall poultry farm in Trafalgar Township, Monday night, when fire developed in the barn.

"If Pat had not started barking as though all bedlam had been let loose we probably would have lost more than the barn," Mr. Hall stated.

When Pat sounded the alarm I went to the window and saw the barn on fire.

Calls were placed immediately for the Trafalgar Township and Bronte fire brigades, who arrived within a few minutes and, according to Deputy Reeve Hall, did "wonderful work" in preventing the blaze from spreading to other farm buildings.

Water was poured on the blazing building for 4 1/2 hours. One hen-house containing 200 hens, only 25 left from the blazing barn, was saved by the firemen. Mr. Hall's hens have repeatedly won dominion prizes.

The success of the brigade is due to the water supply which Mr. Hall had stored up in a pond in a small creek which runs through his property. "I made it for just an occasion like this, and after all that pumping you would hardly know any water had been taken from it," Mr. Hall stated.

FARM PAPER TO PLAY IMPORTANT WAR TIME ROLL

A progressive policy for 1940, designed to help the farmer adapt himself to changing war-time conditions, has been announced by the Family Herald and Weekly Star.

Throughout 1940, Family Herald articles, written by staff editors in co-operation with leading agricultural experts, will show how the farmer may plan to avoid losses through changing markets, how he can take advantage of new opportunities that are likely to present themselves as a result of the war.

Because the markets for bacon, wool, and, to some extent, beef, are likely to be "prone to a slump," the Family Herald will feature practical, specially prepared articles on the raising of hogs, sheep and beef cattle. Articles showing how poultry production may be started, increased and adjusted to war conditions, also will be featured.

Prior to the War, vegetable and root seeds were brought into Canada in considerable quantities. This year the sources of supply are cut off and the Family Herald will show how many Canadian farmers can grow some of these seeds as a cash crop. Apples, grapes, seed and flax also will be discussed.

It is evident that the progressive, go-ahead policy of the Family Herald, noted in 1939, will be maintained throughout 1940. With its coast-to-coast distribution to over 300,000 Canadian farm homes, this influential, seventy year old Farm Weekly will render real service to the Dominion and to the Empire through its praiseworthy efforts in showing farmers how their farm operations may most profitably be conducted during wartime.
