MRS. JOHN KAISER

Mrs. John Kaiser passed away in Toronto on Saturday morning, March 24, as the result of a stroke suffered last New Year's.
 Born Lucy Louts, in Buffalo, N.Y., 65 years ago, she had been a resident of Canada since her marriage. Georgetown will remember Mr. and Mrs. Kaiser as proprietors of the Skilton Hotel for three years. Her husband also suffered a stroke some time ago, and is at present in St. Joseph's Hospital, Toronto, where two weeks ago he had a foot amputated.
 A fine woman, Mrs. Kaiser was well-loved by her friends in Georgetown and Toronto, and she will be sadly missed.
 Her sister-in-law, Mrs. J. M. Buck, Georgetown, and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Buck, attended the funeral. Interment was in the Mausoleum on Yonge St.

HENRY TOST

Death came to Henry Tost at the Toronto General Hospital on Tuesday, March 19th, after an illness of eleven months.
 He was born in Georgetown 39 years ago, and moved to Hamilton with his parents when a boy. Returning to Georgetown in the winter of 1923, he had since been employed as master mechanic with the Provincial Paper Mill.
 Besides his wife, he leaves to mourn him, two sons, Frederick Henry and David James at home; his mother, Josephine Tost, and four brothers, Frank, John and Duncan of Georgetown, and Fred of Hamilton.
 The funeral took place from his late home on Emery Street, on Thursday afternoon, with Rev. D. Davidson of Knox Presbyterian Church conducting the service. DR. C. F. W. ROSS

Friends in Georgetown were shocked to hear of the sudden death of Dr. C. F. W. Ross, physician and surgeon, at his home, 440 Manor Road East, Toronto, Saturday morning, March 23. He was in his fifty-eighth year.
 Born in Harwood, Ontario, he was the son of the late Rev. James Ross, Presbyterian minister. Graduating from the University of Toronto Medical School in 1910, he first practiced in Keene, Peterborough County. Selling his practice there, he went to New York for post-graduate studies.

 He bought the practice of the late Dr. Nixon of Georgetown in 1920, and practiced here until 11 years ago, when he exchanged practices with Dr. R. T. Paul of Sunderland.
 Moving from Sunderland to Toronto in 1935, he had since followed his profession in that city.
 While in Georgetown, Dr. Ross is remembered as a quiet man, a faithful member of Knox Presbyterian Church. He was fond of golf, and for a time was a member of the local golf club.
 The funeral service was held on Monday afternoon, with interment in Mount Pleasant Cemetery, Toronto.
 Surviving are his widow, Jennie Semple Ross, and two sons, James and John.

ASHGROVE

In spite of the almost snowbound roads and extreme cold weather a good congregation enjoyed the Easter service on Sunday morning. Betty Ruddell, Ruth Morrison, Gilbert Wrigglesworth and Ward Brownridge were received as "new members" into the church. At the close of the service the Lord's Supper was administered.
 The special Easter service, conducted by the Y.P.U. was well attended. The guest speaker, Mr. K. Partridge, B.A., of Brampton, took as his theme "Bookkeeping for God." The musical numbers given by Mrs. Murray and her group were much enjoyed, also a vocal solo by Miss E. Wrigglesworth.
 Miss Elizabeth Preece gave a surprise birthday party in honor of Doris Brownridge on Saturday, March 23. A number of Doris' school chums were present. All enjoyed games and sleighing during the afternoon, followed by a dainty birthday lunch.
 Mr. George Currie and Mr. Frank Ruddell were among the fortunate three hundred who were entertained by the Cocksfoot Plover Co. at Brantford on Monday, March 25.
 Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Horace Barnes on the birth of a son. We are very sorry to hear that Harold Baron had to undergo an operation for appendicitis. We wish him a speedy recovery.

BALLINAFAD

The attendance was small at the Easter Service Sunday morning owing to the storm-bound condition of the roads.
 Mrs. D. J. Sinclair had the misfortune to fall and fracture her ankle while in Toronto last Thursday. She was removed to St. Michael's Hospital, where she is at present. We hope she will soon be able to come home.
 The Young's have had the hydro installed in their home last week.
 Miss Phyllis Foreman is at home here for the Easter holidays, after taking special study in Rochester for the past two weeks.
 Mr. and Mrs. John Miller left on Wednesday with Dr. and Mrs. Watson of Georgetown, for Jacksonville, Florida, where they will spend the next six weeks.

A lifelong resident of this community passed away Monday evening in the person of Harry Shorill, at his home in the village. The deceased suffered a heart attack from which he did not recover. His earlier life was spent at his trade, that of carpenter. He

Pisa Tower Was Meant To Lean, Historians Say

Whatever opinions may exist concerning the leaning of the famous Tower of Pisa, the tower was built leaning and has not wavered a fraction of an inch in the 600 years since it was finished, according to historians at the University of Pisa.
 Although popularly believed to have leaned some time after the fourteenth century due to the sinking of the earth under the masonry, records show, the scholars assert, that when construction reached a height of about 33 feet the foundation had ceded to one side by seven inches.
 Then, under the supervision of Bonanno da Pisa, the famous architect and sculptor who had carved in bronze the great door for the Duomo in Pisa, it is believed that Bonanno decided to preserve this lean, both from a desire to attempt a new application of statics and because of the fame that would come to him if he succeeded.

In defense of this explanation, it is pointed out that towers similar in design to the one in Pisa were common throughout northern Italy during the Tenth, Eleventh and Twelfth centuries, and that Bonanno might well have wished to be distinguished for something more than a bell tower to supplement Pisa's new cathedral and chapel. Thus, although Bonanno did not live to see the tower completed, he had so far advanced its construction when he died that his successors, Guglielmo d'Innsbruck and Tommaso Pisano, had no choice but to continue in his footsteps.

On Site Since About 1790
 The old Charleston market in New York has undergone extensive repairs more than once since it was first erected on its present site some time between 1790 and 1806. Though antedated by a beef market, which stood from early days almost where the city hall is now, and by a fish mart established in 1770 on an East bay water lot opposite the end of Queen street, the present institution seems to have been the first general market in Charleston.
 It stands on a grade ground where formerly a creek ran, says the Charleston News and Courier. By 1788 this had been reduced to a narrow canal, which stretched through privately owned land from the Cooper river as far as Church street.
 On March 19, 1788, Charles Cotesworth Pickney, John Deas, Thomas Jones, Sims White, John Wyatt and Mary Lingard gave an indenture by which they allowed the city council to lay out a street 100 feet wide through their land, from Meeting street to the Cooper, and to build a public market or markets therein.
 The buildings were not to be put up for two years, but once there were to remain. A plat annexed to the deed shows the canal, crossed at East Bay (then Bay street) by the "Governor's bridge," and the three projecting buildings.

Still Resist Innovation
 In 1913, seven years after his patent for the vacuum tube was granted, Lee de Forest was indicted on a charge of using the mails to defraud. In his attack the district attorney remarked: "De Forest has said in newspapers and over his own signature that it would be possible to transmit the human voice across the Atlantic before many years. Based on these absurd and deliberately misleading statements the misguided public, Your Honor, has been persuaded to purchase stock in his company." A. D. McFadyen, an examiner in the electrical division of the Patent Office, told this to the National Electrical Manufacturers association recently just to show that we are still as resistant to innovation as were our forebears, who thought that iron ships would sink and that the wheels of locomotives would spin on slippery tracks without getting trains anywhere.

Best Known Designer
 Thomas Chippendale, whose name is perhaps best known of all the famous furniture craftsmen, worked almost exclusively with mahogany wood. He developed four variations of style, a development and refinement of the Queen Anne, Gothic, Chinese and French motifs. The early Chippendale furniture was not always so comfortable because of the sharply curved decorative backs. The early pieces by Chippendale bore characteristics such as the cabriole leg, center splats and bars, pierced and scrolled. The ladder backs he made at a later date and he also made the fret backs and square backs. It is interesting to note that the claw and ball foot supposed to have been used by him does not appear in his own book.

Spain in France
 "One of the striking anomalies in geography," says the National Geographic society, "is that a small portion of Spain is entirely surrounded by France. To put it another way, there is a Spanish town (Llivia) in France. It happened this way: When the present boundary between the two countries was established nearly 300 years ago, it was provided that France should have the 'villages' of the old Pyrenees province of Cerdagne. Llivia, the capital of Cerdagne, was no village, however, but a 'town' by charter. So Spain, under the letter of the treaty, retained it."
