ATTENDED DISTRICT MEETING AGRICULTURAL SOCIETIES

Esqueing Agricultural Society was well represented at the district annual meeting of agricultural societies which was held at Beeton on Saturday last. Following an interesting and helpful session when the problems of fall fair boards were discussed in general, a picnic lunch was served to over fifty delegates. Those present from Georgetown were: President Herb Cleave, Secretary Frank Petch, Treasurer P. W. Cleave and District Executive Member W. A. Wilson.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT SEEDING NOT YET FINISHED

WITH the month of June half gone, one would naturally think that seeding in these parts would be all done. However, on a drive around the rural districts of the township on Saturday, we observed at least one farmer who was late with his seeding—due either to the wet weather or tardiness on his own part. No doubt it has been a trying time for the farmer in order to get his crop in between the showers this spring.

ISN'T IT THE TRUTH?

Someone has said that June is the month in which lady teachers resign because they are engaged.

ORANGEVILLE ROTARY CLUB WILL CARE FOR 200 REFUGEE CHILDREN

At the regular meeting of the Orangeville Rotary Club, a motion was passed pledging the Orangeville Club to find places for 200 refugee children in Orangeville and district. If and when it was decided by the British Government to send any number of these to this country until the end of the war, while English speaking children would be preferred, it was decided not to attach any restrictions to the offer. The secretary was instructed to cable the offer to the president of the London, England, Rotary Club. The Orangeville Rotary Club is to be commended. The task which they have promised to undertake of finding homes for 200 children may possibly prove quite a difficult one.

INSPECTOR PRAISES PROGRESSIVENESS OF PUBLIC SCHOOL

ance of Miss Hume gives them a very excellent start in their school life. Their academic work is of very high standard. The very kindly and understanding way with which Miss Hume administers the class gives a personality development of permanent value. The classroom environment with respect to plants and general attractiveness has a constant though silent influence in developing attitudes. The general spirit of your school is in no small way due to the influence of Miss Hume when the pupils first start to school.
The above comments deal with two most important phases of school life, the first year at school, and the year in which they are looking forward to stepping into another phase of school life, the High School. Commenting on the rest of the staff I will content myself with making more general comments with the conviction that you have a hard-working, forward looking and competent staff. The spirit of progressiveness which I have observed stands out rather prominently, especially considering the average experience of your teacher in dealing with the more formal course of study preceding our present one. High standards are being maintained in the three R's. On the other hand, they have not been permitted to work to the detriment of the fourfold development of the pupils through the more cultural phases of the Programme of Studies.
Your school is fortunate in having two such capable co-operative Music leaders in the persons of Miss Harrison and Miss Frank. It was a privilege to hear your pupils singing on several occasions, including the Music Festival.
On each visit I have been impressed by the orderliness and tidiness of the school and its surroundings. You are indeed fortunate in having a caretaker who takes such a keen interest in the school's welfare by keeping the building in a comfortable and cleanly condition at all times, by assisting in the care of plants, by maintaining attractive grounds, and in general by his genial and pleasant manner.
Your Board is to be highly congratulated upon the very excellent electric lighting which has been installed this year. The quality of the fixtures and the efficiency of the illumination must be a source of pride to your citizens and of comfort and light-seeing for your pupils. The bulletin boards have proved to be of great help to the teachers. You are fortunate in having assembly accommodation second to none in the urban schools of the County.
There are a few matters which I wish to mention which doubtless have already taken your attention. When it becomes necessary to make another appointment to your staff I would strongly suggest that you consider engaging a male assistant for Mr. Wrigglesworth. There are many ways in which it would be profitable to the King.

NORVAL JUNIORS MEET

The June meeting of the Norval Junior Farmers was held at the home of Jean Gordon and George Fisher with a large number of members and visitors present.
The new president, Charlotte Wilson, presided at the girls' meeting. A report of far as the girls' Conference, Guelph, was given by Marjorie Charlton, a delegate for the Institute, Isabel Wrigglesworth gave the current events, bringing us news from home and abroad. A contest was then conducted by Mary McGee, with Helen Young winning the prize.
The new president of the Junior Farmers, Lorne Lundy, took charge of their meeting.
Jack Lawson then gave us a talk on the feeding of pigs and outside colony houses. This was followed by a true and false quiz on farm stock. A talk on mortals was given by Dan Charles.
The joint meeting then followed Irene Leach giving a reading, and a report of the Achievement Day at Milton was given by Craig Reid; John Bird favoured with a piano selection.
Our guest speaker of the evening was Mr. H. J. Heldmann, who spoke on our British Empire.
We then had community singing, which was followed by lunch. The meeting ended with God Save the King.

Those present from Georgetown were: President Herb Cleave, Secretary Frank Petch, Treasurer P. W. Cleave and District Executive Member W. A. Wilson.

CANADIAN LEGION PLAN BIG EVENT FOR JULY

In order to raise funds for war work in general, Branch 120 of the Canadian Legion at Georgetown are sponsoring a "big day" on the holiday, Monday, July 1st. The afternoon will be devoted to sports and entertainment for both old and young; while in the evening a dance and grand drawing for useful prizes will be held in the Armouries. A feature of the whole entertainment is the fact that the price of admission—25 cents for adults—admits each person to the park in the afternoon and the dance in the evening, as well as a chance on the valuable prizes to be drawn for. It will be a day of inexpensive entertainment and the Legion will expect and appreciate your support.

AWARDED CERTIFICATE FOR MERITORIOUS SERVICE

During the past two years the Ontario Department of Agriculture, on recommendation of the Fair Board of the various Societies in Ontario, have awarded a certificate of merit to one of their members for service rendered during the year or years preceding. W. A. Wilson, past secretary of the Esqueing Agricultural Society was the first to receive this award, and during the past season P. W. Cleave, who has held the position of treasurer of the Society since 1923, received the honor. In extending our congratulations to "P.W.", we might add that we think those responsible for the recommendation made no mistake in their choice, as Mr. Cleave has been a faithful worker, having the best interests of the local fair always at heart.

W. C. T. U.
(Mrs. C. B. Dayfoot, Press Sec.)
The June meeting of the W.C.T.U. which was held at the home of Mrs. Harvey Clarke, Cedarvale, Thursday afternoon last, assumed the character of a rally gathering both in numbers and interest, testifying, incidentally, to the appreciation of our members of the opportunity to visit beautiful Cedarvale, which in June is more than usually lovely.
The meeting was presided over by Mrs. A. Reeves, who conducted the opening devotional period, the study of which was based upon the subject: "As a good soldier of Jesus Christ."
Just as the characteristics that mark the soldier are submission to discipline and to the guidance of the higher command, as well as personal courage in times of danger, so the will of the Master must be the ruling power in our lives, that we may "become more than conquerors through Him that loved us." Courage in action is often referred to in scripture as "boldness." Have we today that boldness which dares to come out and face the evils of our times? Our command is "Be ye not afraid of them for I am with you."
Prior to the opening of the main program the vice president, Mrs. C. B. Dayfoot welcomed to the gathering several guests from outside points, numbered amongst whom were a delegation from Oakville and Acton representing the County Executive, the Milton members of which body send regrets that they were unable to be present owing to a previous engagement.
A very special welcome was accorded to our former president, Mrs. A. R. Vannatter, who, after several weeks of absence due to serious illness is able once more to be with us.
In token of the loving esteem and gratitude in which she is held, Mrs. C. Freure on behalf of the Georgetown Union, read to Mrs. Vannatter an address of appreciation of her work since the formation of our local society, and particularly of her leadership of the past six years. Mrs. Nelson Tuck made the presentation of the insignia of county life membership, a gold pin, set with amethyst.
On behalf of the county organization, Mrs. R. L. Gregory, Oakville, welcomed Mrs. Vannatter to the ranks of the county life members, and expressed the thanks of the visitors for the privilege of being present on this special occasion. Miss E. Crossley and Mrs. T. A. Bickelock, Oakville, and Mrs. H. Caldwell of Acton, also spoke briefly.
Mrs. F. C. Overend, concluding a series of lessons based upon our study book (Alcohol, Its Effects on Man, by Dr. Haven Emerson) dealt with the subject "Alcohol in Relation to Community Welfare."

Pointing out that community health is rightly given great consideration in the life of today, the speaker reviewed Dr. Emerson's discussion of the relationship between the use of beverage alcohol and the problem of (1) tuberculosis, (2) the social diseases, (3) certain types of mental disorders, and (4) the undermining of the general health and efficiency of the individual drinker of alcohol, which is a direct and indirect cause of a large amount of avoidable illness and many preventable deaths.
Referring to the economic side of the question, the speaker quoted Dr. Emerson's statement that "there is no other large industry in which so few men are employed per $1,000,000 invested in the production processes. The wage earner engaged in liquor production gets about one-eighth of the cost of production and distribution that the wage earner in the production and handling of milk receives."
By forceful illustration and discussion of receipts and expenditures, Mrs. Overend stressed the gravity of the danger of tolerating at any time, and especially in the present national crisis a business which in the words of the late Viscount Snowden (a former Chancellor of the Exchequer of Great Britain) is "Colossal Waste."
In the discussion which followed, reference was made to Georgetown beverage room expenditure, which last year reached a new high level of over $35,000, in spite of the establishment of a brewer's warehouse which, it was claimed, would reduce beverage room sales.
A very pleasing variation in the afternoon's program was provided by Miss June Clarke, whose two delightful piano solos were much enjoyed by all.
A social half hour gave opportunity for a chat over the teacups, bringing to a close a happy and profitable session.
The next meeting will be held in September.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD
FILTERS FOR BETTER PICTURES

In taking this shot, a filter was used to reproduce the sky tone so that the white smoke would stand out. Try filters—they'll improve your pictures, and add interest.

COLOR filters—simple little devices that slip on over your camera lens—can add a lot to the quality and value of your snapshots. If you've never used filters, now is a good time to start. All the experts use them, and they'll mark a big forward step in your own personal photography.
Slip a medium yellow K-2 filter on your lens, load the camera with any good "chrome" or "pan" film, and you get pictures with more natural tone values. Or, in technical phrase, more accurate rendering of relative brightnesses as seen by the eye. Which, briefly, means that your picture of any outdoor subject will come closer to showing things as you saw them when you snapped the shutter.
Slip a deep yellow G filter on your lens, and you'll get clearer, better pictures of distant scenes that would look hazy in an "unfiltered" shot. You'll also get skies that look deeper than normal in some—very effective in some pictorial shots.
For spectacular effects, very dark skies, and exaggerated contrast, load the camera with "pan" film or infra-red film, and slip a red "A" filter on the lens. Don't use the red filter with other types of film than panchromatic or infra-red; it's for these only.

From the effects described, you can see that filters open up an interesting new range of picture possibilities. The K-2 is the best all-round filter, so start with that, adding the G and A when you are ready to branch out into dramatic "effect" shots.
Every filter, of course, cuts out part of the light to which a film is sensitive, so exposure must be increased accordingly. Each filter's "exposure factor" is constant for each film, and exposure adjustment is not hard to calculate; but the easiest method is to use a pocket filter guide of the dial type. These cost but a few cents, and readily indicate the exact lens opening needed in a particular situation.
If you would improve your photography—make use of filters. The results will surprise you—in fact, you'll probably want to know, "Why didn't somebody tell me about this before?"
