IT PAID TO ADVERTISE
 Every publisher, says an exchange, has in his community a merchant who is "a tough nut to crack" when it comes to getting him to advertise. According to the Editor's Forum, a Georgia editor solved the problem in a novel but effective way.
 He was unable to obtain advertising from one of the business men of his county because the merchant believed that, since he never read advertisements, no one else in the community did.
 "Will you advertise if I can prove that advertising is read?" queried the newspaperman.
 "If you can show me, but you can't," replied the merchant.
 In the next issue of the paper, the editor inserted in small print in an obscure corner, the following line:
 "What is Jenkins going to do about it?"
 Next day, Jenkins, the bewildered merchant, rushed into the newspaper office saying that he had been pestered out of his wits by the curious. He agreed to stand by the editor's explanation which appeared in the forthcoming issue. It was this:
 "Jenkins is going to advertise." And he did.

TESTED RECIPES

CHICKEN DINNERS
 Nothing is more delicious than a well cooked chicken, whether broiled, fried or roasted. Proper cooking is essential, of course, to retain every bit of the delicate flavour of the chicken. A moderate cooking temperature for broiling, frying and for roasting is the secret of tender, juicy chicken, beautifully browned.
 The flavours of bacon fat and butter are particularly good companions of chicken, and are well worth combining.
 Here are the cooking methods suggested by the Consumer Section, Marketing Service, Dominion Department of Agriculture.
Broiled Chicken
 Select broilers weighing 1 1/2 to 2 pounds. Split down the back, clean and sprinkle with salt. Pre-heat broiler rack for 10 minutes. Place broilers, skin side down, on greased broiler rack, about 3 inches from heat. Brush with butter and broil 15 to 20 minutes. Turn. Brush skin side with butter and broil about 15 minutes longer, or until birds are nicely browned and tender.
Roast Chickens
 Select A or B Milkfed chickens. Clean. Sprinkle inside of chicken with salt and fill loosely with well seasoned stuffing. Truss bird and place in uncovered roasting pan, breast side down. Roast in moderately slow oven, 325 degrees F., allowing 30 to 35 minutes per pound, dressed weight. A 5-pound chicken requires approximately 2 1/2 hours. Baste frequently during roasting with melted fat. Turn bird on back to brown uniformly during the last hour of roasting.
 Note: Chickens may be satisfactorily roasted at 350 degrees F., allowing 20 to 25 minutes per pound, dressed weight, or approximately 1 3/4 hours for a 5-pound chicken. If roasting at this temperature, the birds should be basted more frequently. It is found that the shrinkage is slightly greater with the higher temperature.
