WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

THE "ORDINARY MAN" SPEAKS UP
 Citizens of the United States, men and women in many walks of life and of varying degrees of influence, have outlined their attitude—and what they considered should be the attitude of their country—toward Britain in the present war. But it remained for a Kentucky judge, Churchill Humphrey, to express the views of the ordinary man: "neither success nor failure, who isn't in the habit of making speeches."
 "I am the ordinary man," he says, but "I am dissatisfied with the limited assistance we are giving the British Empire. I want this nation to give Britain full assistance—money, guns, ammunition, tanks, ships, torpedoes, airplanes, bombs. If this means war it's O.K. by me. Let's have war." The speaker was in the last war, but he says: "Don't get the idea that I am a warrior. I am not. I am the ordinary man today; I was the ordinary youngster in 1917-18."
 The ordinary man, claims Judge Humphrey, "worships this country as long as this country represents justice, courage and endeavor, but when this country puts property, or even life itself, before justice and courage, the ordinary man—or, if you like it, I myself—am not so happy about America."
 It is not the wealth of America, its size, its vast population, its railroads nor "its 35,000,000 automobiles" that appeal to this ordinary man. "On the contrary, to me America means a lot of ordinary guys like me who once stood up to the steel for what they thought was right, and, having stood up to the steel before are ready to stand up to it again. And the fact that I have been there once and am ready to go again gives me the right to talk. And so I say my piece. I want to help England."
 With touching eloquence this ordinary man concluded: "Our duty lies plain before us. A common racial stock, a common language, a common system of laws, a common belief in the teachings of Christ, bid us hasten to the island of our origin, across whose surface lies the dark shadow of tragedy, there and in that island to make common cause of unselfish service to those ideals which give us the right to call ourselves Americans."

The Editor's Corner

PLEASE DON'T ASK

It isn't just plain cussedness that has caused us to ban all hand-printed advertising from the Herald window. It's just the fact that we're in the printing and publishing business, and we feel that it's not doing our business any good to have a window full of this kind of thing.
 Last week, for instance, we had too large signs advertising two forthcoming events in town, and two written notices concerning lost articles. Now part of our bread and butter is the classified advertising section of the Herald, where we charge fifty cents for inserting an advertisement. You will agree that it is hardly fair to our classified advertisers to give someone a free advertisement in our window. The same goes for large display posters. Some organizations pay a few dollars to have printed posters ordered to advertise certain events. In the interests of good business, it is not to our best interests to give equal prominence in the Herald window to hand-painted signs.
 We realize that certain events may not justify the expense of printed posters. At the same time, rather than draw any distinctions, we are making our rule all-inclusive in order that every organization will be treated the same.
 Please don't ask us to display hand-printed signs, or put a classified advertisement in the window.

A WORD OF WARNING

A new racket has been attempted in the Owen Sound district, according to advice in the Durham Chronicle. A man selling brooms, which he claims are being sold for the Canadian Institute for the Blind, was recently escorted to the city limits by the Chief of Police and told to take his departure for points elsewhere.
 Quoting a letter from C. E. Robinson, of Kitchener, district field secretary for the Institute, the Durham paper reports: "The person or persons conducting a sale of brooms and other articles alleged to be made by the blind, have no connection with the Canadian Institute for the Blind, which is the only organization equipped to tender services to the blind of this district. It should also be noted that suitable action will be taken against anyone who is guilty of misrepresentation in this respect."

POLITICAL DICTIONARY

A reader handed in these definitions of various political systems which were popular a year or two back. We think you will enjoy them.
Socialism: You have two cows—you give one to your neighbour.
Communism: You have two cows—you give both cows to the Government, which gives you part of the milk.
Facism: You have two cows—you keep both cows and give the milk to the Government, which lets you buy part of it back.
American New Deal: You have two cows—the Government shoots one cow, buys the milk from the other and pours it down the sewer.
Nazism: You have two cows—the Government shoots you, and takes the cows and sells the milk.
Capitalism: You have two cows—you sell one and buy a bull.
Social Credit: You shoot the bull.

SILENT MOUNTAIN GUIDE OBJECTS TO "ARGUMENT"

Granby, Quebec. Kiwanians laughed at this one when told by A. A. Gardiner, Assistant General Passenger Traffic Manager, of the Canadian National Railways, during a talk on Canadian Humor. A Rocky Mountain guide at the outset of a three-day outing warned his companion that he did not like discussions. The first day was silent. On the second day, the guide remarked "Spring's coming; them's geese." "Not ducks?" enquired the visitor. Next day the guide placed his charge in care of another guide saying "There's been too much argument."

1942 CAR MARKERS BLACK ON ORANGE BACKGROUND

Ontario's 1942 automobile license markers will have black lettering on orange background. Provincial Secretary Harry Nixon announced last week. The plates will be made at the Ontario Reformatory at Guelph and approximately 700,000 will be turned out there in the next few months.

WOMAN'S WORK NEVER DONE! HOW TO TURN IT INTO FUN

Women, you can solve the everlasting problem of housework and relieve the monotony of daily drudgery by transforming routine work into a fascinating pastime. Tuesday to Tuesday IN THE NEWS

FOUR MONTHS
 Replacing the original 30-day military training scheme under the National Resources Mobilization Act, the first of a new four months' training plan will begin about March 15th. According to present arrangements, those called will be all young men as they reach the age of 21. There will be no exemptions, though postponements will be allowed in certain cases.

GIVE US THE TOOLS

Speaking in a world-wide broadcast last Sunday, Prime Minister Winston Churchill told the people of the United States: "Put your confidence in us. Give us your faith and your blessing, and under Providence all will be well. We shall not fail or falter; we shall not weaken or tire. Neither the sudden shock of battle nor the long drawn trials of vigilance and exertion will wear us down. Give us the tools and we will finish the job."

TROUBLE
 An hour-long street fight between Highland Light Infantry soldiers and Quebec City police occurred in the eastern capital. The H.L.I., formerly stationed at Stratford, moved recently to Coverfield Barracks, in Quebec. Several district men are members of the unit.

TRAGEDY
 Near Armstrong, Ontario, a Trans-Canada Air Liner crashed killing all twelve occupants—the first fatal accident suffered since the service was inaugurated. Among the victims: Prof. R. McQueen, Department of Economics head at the University of Manitoba; Harold Moss, Toronto, president of the I.T. Company; E. O. Manning, Vancouver, assistant to the British Timber Controller; F. W. Casson, Winnipeg, manager of the wholesale department of the Hudson's Bay Company.

OBITUARY
 Lord Lloyd—in London, England, after a brief illness. He recently succeeded Viscount Halifax as Government Leader in the House of Lords, and held the post of Colonial Secretary.
