"As We See It"
 By J. A. Strang

You will recall that the shipping losses of the Empire for the month of April were announced recently. While the total losses for the month did sound large, yet they were below the monthly average since the war commenced. The announcement called to mind the remarks that a wealthy Buffalo gentleman made some years ago. As a hobby he had an 800 acre farm in Lincoln County, Ontario, and half of this farm he used for fruit growing the other half for regular farming and on it he had thoroughbred Jersey's shipping their milk to his home city. But hard luck is no respecter even of wealth, and his herd developed a certain disease and had to be destroyed. A neighbour remarked to him that he was sorry to hear of his severe loss and the gentleman replied "If we didn't have these belongings we wouldn't lose them." Perhaps if we looked at the Empire's shipping loss in that way they wouldn't look so bad. The Empire still has the ships to lose. The ships still sail the Seven Seas. Other empires haven't the ships and the few that they may have are tied up in some safe haven. Under those circumstances they aren't losing many ships in comparison to our losses. In other words "If we didn't have these ships, we wouldn't be losing them."

The International Baseball League standing looks quite natural with Toronto at the foot of the class. We still think that Toronto deserves a medal of some sort for sticking with its ball team the way they do. The daily papers still use plenty of space for the doings of their team and the radio finds time for ball news as well. While we dislike to even admit that we think it, yet baseball seems to be on the way out. Why, we do not know. Softball with its simpler rules and perhaps also because of the fact that it usually produces more runs, thus giving the fans more to cheer for, is possibly taking its place. While it is quite a feat for a hardball pitcher to pitch nine innings without allowing even one hit, yet the fans get very little to become excited about during a game of that kind. We still like to watch a game of hard ball, however this is 1941 and somehow or other it seems to have outlived its popularity.

Personally, we are not interested in the reported attempt to inaugurate earlier closing of business places locally. However, we conducted a business of our own from 1906 up until Sept. 1939 and perhaps our opinion might be of interest to somebody. Our line was that of a bakery and along with it we handled ice-cream. When we first commenced business we thought that like all other bakeries of that time that we had to keep open early and late but after a few years of these long hours we decided that life was rather short for that sort of thing and we closed at six o'clock similar to other places of business. In spite of the earlier closing we found that our business showed an increase rather than a decrease and this applied to the amount of ice cream that we sold as well. The late hours that seem to be rule in all small towns now are really absurd, and stores could close at 10 o'clock without losing any business at all. In fact we think that any business man that has to keep open from 8 in the morning until 12 at night in order to do enough business should take stock of himself and sell James Thompson, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Thompson, of Orangeville, Ont. The marriage will take place quietly in June.

Mr. and Mrs. George Leslie wish to announce the engagement of their elder daughter, Marion Lorine, to Russell James Thompson, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Thompson, of Orangeville, Ont. The marriage will take place quietly in June.
