THREE MEN DIE

to eat on their way home. It is believed that the fire must have taken place about 6 a.m.

Chief W. G. Marshall, of Georgetown, who investigated, expressed the belief that the fire was caused by a cigarette butt. As the men had eaten, and as the night was warm, it is considered unlikely that there would have been a fire in the fireplace or cook-stove.

Ordinarily, Frank Logan lived alone in the cabin, which is not far from the stone quarry operated by the Logan family. His brother lived with the Martins in Glen Williams, while James Munro had his own cabin across the road from the scene of the fire.

An inquest has been ordered by Coroner Dr. J. H. Stead, of Oakville. The Logan boys, Frank, 33, and Stanley, 27, were sons of Hugh Logan and the late Mabel Logan, of Glen Williams. They are survived by four brothers, Norman, Harry, Montague and Edward, and two sisters, Mrs. W. Ingles and Mrs. Edward Martin all of Glen Williams. James Munro who was about 40 years of age, came to this country from Scotland in 1921. He has no relatives in Canada.

A funeral service was held from the home of H. C. McClure, Georgetown, on Monday afternoon, with Rev. W. G. O. Thompson in charge of the service. Burial was in Glen Williams Cemetery.

DR. BEST SPEAKS

sibility of keeping the liquid blood for more than a very short period (two weeks or so). The much of the blood collected was wasted.

About this time, Dr. Best and his associates at the Connaught Laboratories, Toronto, were completing their research on a most important advance in methods of storing blood. About three years ago this group was granted a sympathetic hearing from the Toronto Branch of the Red Cross, which made a small grant towards laboratory expenses and assembled a list of voluntary blood donors. Dr. Best made the discovery that plasma, the essential element in human blood, could be reduced to a powder, which would keep for an indefinite period.

As time went on, recognition came from the Ontario and Dominion Governments. The scope of the work was greatly enlarged and today we find a large organization, still expanding in Toronto, devoted to the process of manufacturing the precious powder.

Dr. Best illustrated his talk with some fine lantern slides, showing views in the laboratory. There were pictures of the volunteer donors, of the transfusions, and of the various processes used to reduce the whole blood to the plasma powder. When the liquid blood is reduced to liquid plasma, it is packed in ice and frozen. It is not possible to boil away the water by ordinary methods, as the plasma would be destroyed at the same time, and the water is drawn off by placing the frozen liquid in a super-heated oven. There then remains the powder, which is hermetically sealed in its container, and packed for shipment.

An interesting feature is that the powder can be used for transfusion to anyone, regardless of their blood type. Bloods of various types are pooled to make this standard compound. For use, the powdered blood requires only the addition of the correct amount of water.

A group of friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Gray last Thursday evening for a surprise party in honour of the couple, who leave next month to take up residence in Kitchener. Clark, Miss Margaret Long, Miss Helen MacDonald, Mr. Douglas Bracken, Mr. Walter Biehn, and Mr. and Mrs. R. Licata.

Among recent graduates of Queen's University, were Wilma and Lorna Brecken, children of Mr. and Mrs. S. Brecken, of Norwood, and grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wilson, Ashgrove. Wilson obtained his B. Sc. in Physics with honours. He has joined the Royal Canadian Navy. Lorna, who obtained her B.A. degree, was granted a wardenship, valued at $250. She is now working for Canadian Industries Ltd. in Montreal, being in charge of a department of twenty-two girls.
