Former Georgetown Choir

have two scars across each cheekbone. They all wear long white nightgowns and either turbans or red flower-pot hats with tassels. Some of them are hairily clean but the general run are incredibly filthy and live in the dirtiest surroundings. I saw one washing his face in the gutter today. Most of them don't bother to wash. They are very often dishonest, but my bearer seems O.K. He's a funny little fellow with a little "Hitler" moustache and sideburns and wears a cap with a point on the top. The point—so that Allah can have something to pick him up by when he whisks him away to heaven to be the vassal of the resurrected Mohammed.

If I get any leave here I'm going to spend it in Jerusalem. It's not so very far, and Cairo is very expensive. The Egyptian pound is nearly equal to the English pound, and is divided up into 100 piastres or "actras" which are each roughly equal to a nickel. I've bought some little gadgets in Suez and I may get something to send to you in the bazaar in Cairo is much better than I hope to get there soon. They make queer rugs and tapestries that you can buy dirt cheap. Also things out of brass and Egyptian silver.

I spent Christmas in Malta. We had fair time but not at all like back home. Four parcels from home have arrived. They were the most welcome things I had had in weeks. It was wonderful to get all those good Canadian cables.

I seem to be moved where the activity is greatest, so if the war changes location again, you'll probably find me following it. Our mess buildings here are a bit after the style of summer cottages back home—quite comfortable, except for the sand which penetrates everything. The food is quite good and the only thing we are short of is magazines, periodicals, books and mail. We even have an old piano in the mess.

Don't I wish I could tell you about the things we've been doing! Very exciting things. We've been helping to make the headline news for the past five months. But I can't tell about the recent raids. However, quite a while back, before I came here, we did a raid on Naples. The Intelligence Officer got a report on the damage we had done. We check the exact time of bombings you know. Well, we sank five merchant ships, damaged a cruiser and wrecked a warehouse. Pretty good night's work. I was tempted to put a bomb on Vesuvius but thought it might start erupting and take me with it. It smoulders all the time.

I was also on that big Castel Benito raid before Christmas. You must have read of it in the papers. Castel Benito is an aerodrome near Tripoli, and it was used as a base for all aircraft coming in from Italy. We dive bombed it and set every hangar on fire—burned all the buildings and blew up the petrol and bomb dumps. Finally went down to 200 feet and machine-gunned the place. I went into the front turret for that, and fired the guns so long that one of the barrels bent and the last tracer to come out welded to the muzzle. It was a good show. That was a dusk raid with hardly any opposition until on this way home we were attacked by a night bomber but one of the tall gunners shot him down.

I rode on the Cairo train with the Egyptian Prime Minister the other day. He is a very shrewd intelligent chap.

I played the organ in All Saints' Cathedral in Cairo, the other day. Anglican cathedral and very Eastern in style.

At present, I have 500 flying hours and 27 raids to my credit, so I'm kind of a veteran. I've had several lucky escapes. One example: We were going off on a raid to Italy. The first plane out was piloted by my best pal, who had been with me all through my training. It took off, crashed and burned. The second plane out also crashed and burned. (Funny business somewhere). My plane was third off and just ready to go when they stopped us.

Extracts from two later letters, dated May 19th and May 18th have just been received this week.

I have been one week on the Gold Coast, which has a very nice climate, excepting that the humidity is the highest in the world—upwards of 95 degrees, and one's clothes are never dry.

The natives are the most pleasant yet. They are very respectful and clean, the same people as the American negroes. Fairly intelligent and hard-working. Their language is the weirdest jumble, but quite usually they talk among themselves in English. The food here is excellent, and there is all kinds of fruit, fresh off the trees—bananas, oranges, melons and coconuts in the palm trees.

There are plenty of mosquitoes and malaria caused by their bite, is prevalent, but I am feeling very fit.

In the native village there is a native Methodist church, that looks surprisingly like the one in Georgetown, red brick and all.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Eason, Jr. George Bradford, Jr. and Miss Tromps Adams spent the week-end at the Royal Simcoe Hotel, Kewwick.

Pupils and friends of Miss Edna Nell, principal of Glen Williams Public School, who is leaving this summer to be married, gathered at the school-house last Friday afternoon for a presentation. In the unavoidable absence of Mr. John Bingham, Mr. Bob Addy, chairman of the School Board, read an address and two pupils, Roy Norton and Bernice Gibbs, presented her with a silver tea service and tray.

Mr. William Sobek, a member of the Board, spoke briefly, as did Mrs. Roger Guyot and Miss Margaret Leslie junior teacher at the school.

The school pupils gave Miss Nell an embroidered handkerchief with the request that it be used on her wedding day.

ASHGROVE

The sympathy of the community is extended to Mr. R. Reed and family in the death of Mrs. Reed.

We hope all will remember the W.I. picnic to Mile's Park on Thursday, July 10th.

LODGE SCOTS PARADE IN MILTON

A parade of "C" Coy. Lorne Scots, 2nd Battalion, was held in Milton last Monday night. Lieut. Harold McCure, Acting-Major of the Company, was in command, and several Georgetown men marched in the parade. Refreshments were served afterwards.

"IN OUR MAIL BAG"

No. 9 S.P.T.S., Summerside, P. E. I. June 24th, 1941.

The Editor, The Georgetown Herald, Georgetown, Ontario.

Dear Sir:

I received the last copy of the welcome Herald to-day. I know you realize the way those of us in the service appreciate reading every copy. A small town paper is never fully appreciated until we find ourselves estranged from home. Having the facility of the paper when we are home we are unwilling to admit its necessity. I have finished half my course here and with luck should make the last hurdle in my training.

I am finding the Island province rather a dull and gloomy place. The weather so far has been very miserable and the beauty of the country is mediocre after Halton County.

Hoping to see you before the summer ends, I remain,

Yours truly,
LAC K. A. MAACKENZIE,
R78417.

FORMER DISTRICT WOMAN DIES IN WEST

Friends of Mrs. Emma Elviss will regret to learn of her passing away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. P. Hawley, at Neepawa, Manitoba. She had been ill for some time. Her body was interred in Brooklyn Cemetery on Saturday, June 28th.

A native of Terra Cotta, Mrs. Elviss had lived in the West for a number of years. She was back home in 1935, at which time she did some nursing in the district.

PULP AND PAPER FOR FREEDOM

THIS "ARMY" FIGHTS TOO!

THE PULP AND PAPER INDUSTRY is an army of over 100,000 Canadians who work in the woods, in the mills, in the offices. This army is making a wide variety of products which are a vital part of Canada's fight against Nazi slavery—to hold the freedom our fathers won.

Many pulp and paper products are directly used for war needs. Nearly all of them are also sold in the United States and other countries and thus provide the money Canada must have to pay for planes and ships and guns. Last year the pulp and paper industry provided Canada with nearly 250 million dollars of foreign exchange. Exports of mined gold were 203 millions; wheat and flour exports amounted to 145 millions.

The industry's maintenance machine shops have been geared to Canada's munitions output—providing essential units not otherwise available quickly enough to speed the tools of war to Britain.

The pulp and paper industry is in the war. It is Canada's biggest industry and Canada relies on it. This is a serious responsibility. Every worker in this great industry has his part to play in the fight for survival. Every log that comes to the block-pile and every ton that leaves the mill is a blow against Nazi slavery—is a blow for freedom.
