HAWK

WIND

Helen Topping Miller

D. Appleton-Century Co.
WNU Bervice.

At a little store on the edge of the county-seat, Marian stopped and bought a bag of little cakes, a package of raisins. Always on their trips in the old truck, Tom had carried raisins loose in the pocket of his denim coat. She had seen him many times, luring a mountain jay or a squirrel near-by, scattering raisins on the moss at the foot of a

The deputy jailer was a man she did not know, but he let them in when he heard her name. The jailer's wife looked in her purse, ran her flat hands over Marian's body, automatically, looked in the paper any hack-saws"-the deputy showed broken teeth in a grin-"but them's

Tom was pitifully glad to see her "Mother has gone to see about and he shook hands with Wills with getting you out, Tom," Marian said.

"You must come home Mother

Tom considered this, looking straight ahead, sitting on a bench holding Marian's hand tightly Then

"I reckon I'll stay nere I shot that feller. He was fixing to steal my timber. I'd a shut them all if my gun hadn't jammed Never knowed it to do that-a-way be-can't let the mill down."

me all right."

to shoot."

stay on here a spell."

"But you must come, Tom. He

"She's hired you, ain't she?" Tom looked levelly at Wills "I figured she got put out at me when I stayed over there so long. I was waiting for them fellers to come back and it looked like they never was comin'. Then Lon told me Mis' Morgan had hired this feller, so I figure I'll just stay here a spell Lon treats to be convincing and caught a grateful look in Marian's eyes But Tom was immovable. He tore the top from the box of raisins and poured

"Why did you do it, Tom?" Marian pleaded. "You could have scared them off. You didn't need

"They was after my timber.

had a right to that piece of poplar-your ma said so I reckon I better

He did not, she saw, look shead.

He was old and growing childish.

He was not thinking of what might lie ahead, remorselessly, for him.

He had an idea that by remaining here, patiently, behind bars, he was somehow paying his debt to an overzealous system of jurisprudence.

the payment demanded for a private

He was resigned to legal interference with his personal liberties, but it was obvious that he had no idea of having done a capital crime.

There was a grim patience in his attitude that went back to codes older than America, went back as the mountain people's odd speech and ancient ballads went back to an Anglo-Saxon tradition, an older, sterner civilization of harquebus, land entailed and inviolate, and freemen responsible only to a preoccupied

Marian choked on the thought of

"Oh, Tom, why did you do it? Ev-

Tom gulped, reddened, scrubbed

"What you worrying about? Mis Morgan'll git along. She's enough for a whole pack of em. Nobody

They left him soon after that, left ain't never got the best of her yet."

him calmly superintending the jail walnuts in the corridor er's children who were cracking

Wills, seeing the misting of tears on Marian's eyelids said quietly,

"No, I'll drive I'm all right."

they few floor the curving mountain road, was not all right. Nothing was at right. He looked side-long at Marian's delicate profile, at the sweet, strong curve of her lips, the dusting of gomen treck es on her pose, the faint tage of pink along her misted lashes, and ached flerces ly to take her nie his arms He twisted his bps reneally, thinking of her seathing scorn if he tried it, missing entirely the desolation that dimmed every line of her face, and Stiffly silent, eyes straight ahead, they drove back to the mill-two young, angry frustrated creatures, yearning for each other, braced against each other, rigidly correct-made her hands move dully and stone-blind!

But he, Wills thought bitterly, as "Would you like me to drive?"

erything is so wrong! We can't get his hand over his unshaven chin.

what lay ahead for Tom, and flung her arms around him suddenly.

king or a silent Heaven.

along without you.'

act of reasonable reprisal some out into Marian's hand.

They argued in vain. Wills strove a grave and pathetic dignity.

the rules."

needs you."

fore."

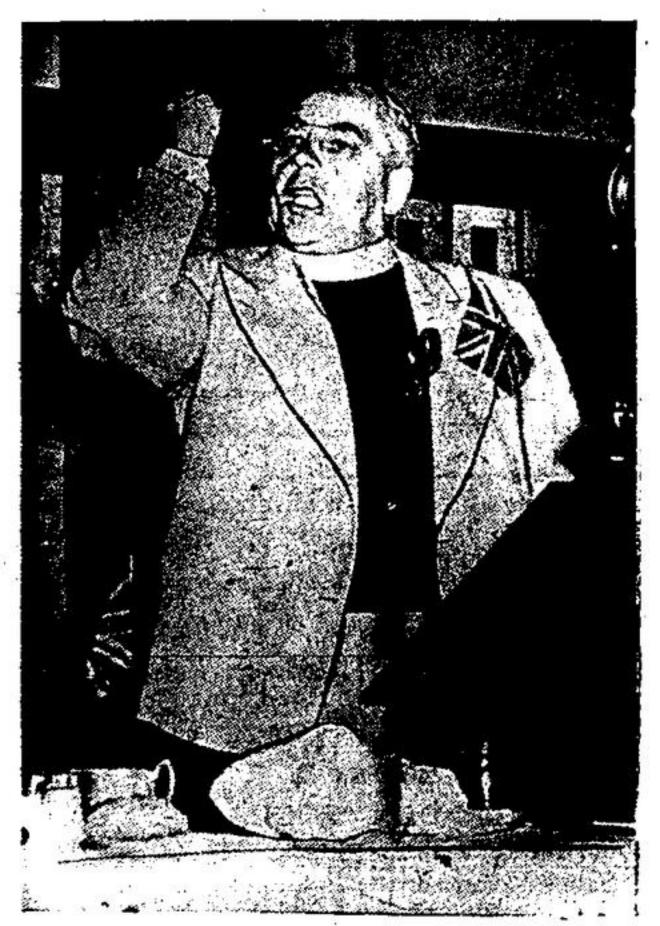

he shook his head.

"I don't reckon you fetched Pruitt

RIGHT HON. MALCOLM MacDONALD, P.C.

British High Commissioner to Canada, is pictured above as he spoke to some eight hundred persons who attended the testimonial dinner to C. O. Knowles, editor of the Toronto Evening Telegram, which was held at the Royal York Hotel, Toronto, on Monday, July 7th.

PROPOSED TOAST TO HONORED GUEST

Lt.-Col. the Rev. Sydney E. Lambert, O.B.E., pronounced the grace and proposed the toast to the honored guest, C. O. Knowles, at the Testimonial Dinner in Toronto.

BY-LAW NO. 416 Town Of Georgetown

A BY-LAW authorizing the taking of the assessment in the Town of Georgetown between the 1st day of April and the 30th day of September in the year preceding the year in which the taxes are fixed and levied upon such WHEREAS by Section 59 (1) of the Assessment Act. being R.S.O. 1937 Chapter 272, the council of any town may pass a by-law authorizing the taking of the assessment in the said town between the 1st day of April and the 30th day of September in the mear preceding the year in which the taxes are fixed and levied on such assessment.

AND WHEREAS by Section 59 (3) of the said Act, the council instead Court in connection therewith shall be of making a second assessment in the the 15th day of December, 1941. transition year may adopt the assessment roll previously made and revised not in accordance herewith are herein such transition year. THEREFORE THE MUNICIPAL CORPORATION OF THE TOWN OF GEORGETOWN BY ITS COUNCIL.

ENACTS AS FOLLOWS: 1. Subject to the provisions of Clause 4, the assessor for the Town of Georgetown shall hereafter between the 1st day of April and the 30th day of September in each year take the assessment upon which the taxes in the next following year for the Town of Georgetown shall be fixed and levies to the intent that after the 31st day of December, 1941, the taxes fixed and levied in every year in the Town of Georgetown shall be fixed and levied on an assessment taken between the 1st day of April and the 30th day of September in the year next preceding the year in which the taxes are fixed and levied. 2. The assessor for the Town of Georgetown shall hereafter on or before the 1st day of October in each year deliver in the form and with the forms required by Statute to the Clerk of the Town of Georgetown, the completed assessment roll upon which the taxes for the next following year in the Town of Georgetown shall be fixed and levied.

3. The date for closing the Court of Revision in each year in the Town of Georgetown shall hereafter be the 15th day of November next following the return of the assessment roll and the date for the final return by the Judge of the County Court in each year shall hereafter be the 15th day of December next following the return of the assessment roll. 4. The assessment roll previously made and revised in the year 1941 is hereby adopted as the assessment roll upon which shall be fixed and levied the taxes for the year 1942 and the time for closing the Court of Revision in connection with the appeals from such assessment roll shall be the 15th day of November, 1941, and the final return of the Judge of the County

5. All by-laws or parts of by-laws by repealed.

PASSED this 7th day of July, 1941. JOSEPH GIBBONS,

→ Mayor. P. B. HARRISON,

DANCING Huttonville Park

Wednesday and Saturday LEADING ORCHESTRAS

REGULAR ADMISSION.

CHAPTER IX

In the early afternoon Virgie returned to the mill, spent and dispirited and rasped raw with irritation. She had hired the best lawyer to be found, she had arranged for bail for Tum, only to have him sit back stulmornly, refuse to leave the jail or to co-operate with the lawyer. "I done it I shot him," he said over and over

There was, apparently, nothing to be done at present.

"Leave him set a while," advised Lon Hicks "He's kind of numb right now, layin up there on that ridge in the cold He'll come to himself before long and git to thinking-and then you can talk sense to him "

So there was nothing to do but abandon her futile efforts, and go back to the mill And once there she let her weariness and exasperation have their way with her.

"You'd think," she snapped at Lucy Fields, "that those men out there loading that car were building the pyramids and had six thousand vears to finish the job! When did we start running this plant in slow motion?"

gan-and with Tom gone-" Lucy faltered explanations. "Where's Wills? Did he come to

"They're short-handed, Mrs. Mor-

"He's working with Jerry on the teeders. He went away with Marian-but they came back before | noon. It was so cold in the yardand he isn't really well yet-"

"So he went off with Marian? I suppose she wanted something for that Little Theater and if the whole mill, happens to go to pot, why, that's no consequence?"

~ 'I think they went to the jail. Hobe said -- "

'Answer that, will you? And if anybody else wants to talk about that business on Hazel Fork, tell 'em l've been stricken stone-deaf! Tell Mildred when she gets all the town gossip off the wire she can put in a call to Baltimore for me. There - something funny about this rage business, something that esn' add up.' Yes Mrs Morgan And when ... have time Mr. Daniels would ik. to see you He said it was Important."

"I suppose he has another of his didn't die. He won't die And the ideas. He's always finding somemill will go to ruin without you. It's thing in a catalogue that saves a your mill, Tom-part yours You thousand dollars or so in production costs and only costs fifteen or twenty thousand to install!"

> Virgie was very low in her mind as she opened the door of Stanley Daniels' laboratory

> Well, what's on your mind?" she den ended.

> Daniels looked up from his work, regred his hands quickly.

> "Oh Mrs. Morgan-sorry I had to ask you to come over, but there was a risk that this stuff would solidify if I left it-and I thought you should know about these tests. something is going wrong with the olvents-I can't say just what till I firsh running these. In the numther three vat the fiber seems to be so weakened and destroyed that the whole run will be worthless. Would you like to look at this?" He wiped > shook it. Virgie crossed the room, studied the brown mixture. "What's wrong > a tube swiftly, held it to the light, with it?" she asked. "Watch." Daniels tilted the tube, let the solution spin out. Ignorant of processes as she was. Virgie saw enough to know that something was vitaily wrong. This was not wood pulp in solution, but a sickening foamy brew that spun out on the "Her paper Daniels spread beneath

"I have to believe you." Virgie said. "I don't know enough to know what's wrong-but something is, evidently. But-how could it have hap-

"There could," Daniels said, 'have been some chemical accident Unlikely though, if you bought the stuff at the same place Changes co occur-accidents in shipment, mosture, too much heat-but not often But this seems to me too serious to he explained in that way Some thing wrong has been added-my tests will show what it is when they're finished Of course that man have been accidental, too-wrong label, something like that. There's always the human element, you know Workmen make mistakes and hide them And then of course we have to consider the possibility that it was deliberate Virgie sat down abruptly on a leather-covered stool. Her legs were weak, all the vague misgivings she had felt assumed a definite shape of

'Yo in ean—somebody could have ruined that whole digester of pulpdeliberately? Put in something to destroy the fiber? How could that have happened? You keep the keys You test everything "

"I did not, unfortunately, test the solvents on this run," Daniels admitted. "I haven't been doing it lately-they come scaled and they've always been perfect before. We de pended on the reputation of the manufacturer Of course, hereafter I'll test everything theroughly-but that doesn't help us now."

"And in the meantime we lose a batch of pulp and have all the trouble of cleaning the digester out?" "I'm afraid this lot is useless I'm running every fort of test to be certain but in the meantime it looks pretty dubious '

Virgie let her breath out slowly. All sprts of odd, wild ideas seethed in her mind. So: cone had ruined

'You ,mean - somebody could have ruined that whole digester of pulp-deliberately?"

an expensive run of pulp, someone had it in for her-but why? Vague rumors she had heard of communists at work " "ndustrial regions, of sabotage .. labor troubles fomented, she an counted. Her men had worked in the Morgan mill all their lives. Some of them had helped David Morgan to build the plant, some of them sons of men who had laid the first bricks.

into conferences, during the black to Muskoka. The bride travelled in years of the depression, laying the powder blue sheer, with leghorn hat facts before them, speaking their and yellow accessories. They will make language She had made sacrifices to keep the mill in operation when there was no profit for her, no possible way to show a profit. If the mill closed there was no other employment for them, and yet here was suspicion, sabotage and ugly doubt that rested, till she had proof of the late R. W. Puckering last and certain knowledge upon every man in the mill Virgie hated the thought with the trightened hate of the innately kind and carded woman. She hated looking at Jerry and Here and the Spain boys, with speculation in her eyes

She loathed the feeling that hostile looks might be following her. Every man in the mill owed something to her-and yet people were funny!

She went home at night, lost in a heavy, ruminative gloom. She changed her clothes and went down to her big chair that faced David Morgan's picture and still had the print of David Morgan's head looked tired, too, she thought. Da the fire staring into the blaze.

cheerful sight for tired eyes! If from this going to the Red Cross. a merry laugh or a song ever sounded in this room I suppose I'd drop doing over at the jail?"

"I went over to bring Tom back. He wouldn't come."

"Being locked up on a criminal charge, that is kind of odd." "You were going to arrange bail for him Lon Hicks said so. But set and tray. The address was read Tom wouldn't come.'

tion that he's working for me? Not that it matters, but now and then we do run off a batch of pulp when we can get a little co-operation from the gentlemen I employ."

"Mother, don't be so prickly! I took Mr. Wills over there because Lossie said the people in town were saying you had fired Tom and given Wills Tom's job. I thought perhaps Tom might have heard it. I hope you don't think I took him because I enjoyed his company?"

Virgie looked at her daughter levelly. Her heart gave a little jerk. Like every other mother she had postponed stubbornly admitting to herself her child's maturity; she had put off the inevitable hour of change when some man should desire her child for his own. For days she had been seeing through Branford Wills clearly and she had not been displeased. She liked his straightforwardness, the trace of iron in him, the strong and gentle way he had with women. But there was no to Terra Cotta. seeing through Marian. Virgie admitted to herself that her child was a dark-eyed enigma to her mother. And in her present state of mind, nerve-taut and weary, puzzles were

"Do you mean to tell me that you don't know that that chap is in love with you?" she demanded. "Have I raised up a daughter with no more feminine intuition than aground turtle? Why-Lossie knows more than that! Or am I supposed to be just a nice stupid old mother. blind as a bat?"

face changed queerly. There was a Inglewood, Mrs. James Ross (Pauline), little convulsion of her lips that was of Alton Mrs. Alfred Roberts (Jennie), a tremor of pain, but Virgie was of Credit Forks, and George, of Ingletoo spent and too exasperated to see. | wood. "So that," Marian's voice crackled like ice, "is the cute little plot. He's in love with me so you give him a job in the mill It's a Rollo book-the nice young man works his way up from sweeping the store and observer can see with half an eye. the mill owner's daughter is supposed to be all of a twitter because in love with him." she gets a kind look Unfortunately. Mother dear, you've been reading Dorothy Dix or seeing too manymovies. Mr Branford Wills happens not to be in love with me-as any

HOW ELDERLY WOMAN ESCAPED BACKACHE

Many people think that backache is a trouble that comes naturally with advancing years, but this woman of 71 proves that it is not. "I suffered for a long time from backache," she writes, "but put it down to my age (71). Reading your announcement, I thought I would try Kruschen Salts. I have been taking it for some time and have found great relief. I thought you would like to know it has done me a world of good."—(Mrs.) E.R.

Vhen pains in the back are caused by mactive kinneys and failure of the digestive system to throw off poisonous impurities, Kruschen Salus will give real help in setting the matter right. Because Kruschen has a diuretic action which helps to flush your kidneys and liver. After that, your blood throws off all impurities you get happy relief from pain.

Chester Laird Marries Janet Barrie Thompson

The marriage of Miss Janet (Jessie) Barrie Thompson, daughter of Mr. Jas. Thompson and the late Mrs. Thompson, of Harriston, and Mr. William Chester Laird, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. Laird, of Georgetown, was quietly solemnized at Knox Church Manse, St. Catharines, Ont., on Wednesday, July 2nd, at 4 p.m., with Rev.

H. M. Coulter officiating. The bride was smartly attired in a dusky rose redingote ensemble with serenade blue costume hat, and white accessories. Immediately following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Laird left Repeatedly she had called them for Niagara Falls, and later went on their home in Palmerston.

TERRA COTTA

Among some of the friends from a distance who attended the funeral week were: Mrs. Townsend, Grand Valley; Mrs. J. McNabb, Collingwood: Mrs. Fern Stringer, Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Craine have moved to Toronto. We are sorry to lose such kind and esteemed citizens from our midst. Mr. Craine has secured a lucrative situation with the John Inglis Company. We all join in wishing Mr. and Mrs. Craine continu-

Mr. Frank Mezurack is erecting an up-to-date building for hay storage.

There was a very large turnout at William Hunter's barn dance on Friday, June 27th. Dorts Hulls' orchestra furnished the music for the occasion. in the leather of the back. David while Mr. Charlie Campbell of Campbell's Cross, very ably fulfilled his vid was out of it all. He was lucky duties as floor manager. Mr. Hunter Marian sat, moodily, in front of has an up-to-date barn, built in the latest modern style. The ladles of "You," sighed Virgie, sinking into the Union W.I. did a thriving business the cushions with a groan, "are a at the refresment booth, with proceeds

A number of the young people gadead from shock. What were you thered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lyons last Tuesday evening, to honor their retiring teacher, Miss Bernice Lyons, of S. S. No. 3, with a presentation. Mr. A. McDonald very ably filled the duties of chairman and asked Miss Lyons to come forward, when she was presented with a lovely crystal by Mr. Clarence Anderson to Miss "I suppose you had to take young Lyons, who has been a very capable Wills along in case you needed teacher for the past three years. She somebody to carry Tom's baggage then thanked the friends for the love--his other bandana! Did Wills men- ly gift. A very pleasing program followed, given by Miss Nora Lyons, Miss Dorothy Thompson, Robert Leslie, Joe Lyons and Ray Anderson. At the close a luncheon was served by the ladies.

> The fall wheat harvest will be in full swing this week.

> Wedding bells are ringing loudly in our hamlet again.

> We are sorry to learn that Mr. Robert McCauley is on the sick list at present. We hope soon to hear of his complete recovery.

> It is our sad duty this week, to chronicle the death of one of our highly respected citizens, Mr. Robert William Puckering, who passed peacefully away on Monday, July 7th, after a lingering illness. He was 68 years of > Mr. Puckering, who was born in Yorkshire, England, came to Canada when a boy of 10. He lived in Oaledon Township for 20 years before coming

> He was a member of the United Church and the funeral service which took place last Wednesday was in carge of Rev. J. Hurst, of Inglewood United Church. Pallbearers were Robert Clark, Wesley Rutledge, Norman Icam, James Norton, Harry Hayward, and J. McNally. Interment was in

Glen Williams Cemetery. Mr. Puckering is survived by his widow, the former Elizabeth Stuart, four sons, Roy, John. Harvey and George, of Toronto, and a daughter, Annie, at home. His mother, Mrs. Annie Puckering, lives in Alton, and he also leave three sisters and a bro-Marian's eyes darkened and her ther, Mrs. Harry Scythes (Annie); of

> We all join in extending our deepest sympathy to the widow and family in their loss of a kind husband and lov-

Either half. And I happen not to be "That." Virgle mumbled aloud, when Marian had gone, "is what you could call a dramatic exit. Very satisfying-to the actor." (Chapter Ten - Next Week)