The present war has shut the export door to many Canadian products. How to use Canada's "uncomfortable surplus" will be the theme of the Canadian National Exhibition's Cooking School this year, where intriguing Canadian dishes from Canadian food products will be featured.

Here's a simple way you can help Canada's war effort—tell your United States friends that there's no passport required to visit Canada. Thus you will help stimulate the flow of American visitors to our many beauty spots and great recreational centres such as the Canadian National Exhibition.

Don't forget the Red Cross Garden Party tomorrow night. Excellent talent will provide the program.

FOR Public Safety, by Proclamation, dated June 27th, 1941 (under authority of The National Resources Mobilization Act 1940 and The War Measures Act), The Governor in Council has now made liable for military training for the defence of Canada —

—all male British subjects resident in Canada at any time since September 1st, 1939, who, on July 15th, 1940, were unmarried, or childless widowers, and who on July 1st, 1940, had reached the ages of

Twenty-one years	Twenty-three years
Twenty-two years	Twenty-four years

"and also men who attained or will attain the age of twenty-one years on or after the first day of July, 1940, and who were on the fifteenth day of July (1940), unmarried or widowers without child or children."

Extract from Paragraph 3 of Proclamation.

Men designated in the foregoing are further required

"to submit themselves for medical examination and to undergo military training for a period of four months within Canada or the territorial waters thereof, and to report at such places and times and in such manner and to such authorities or persons as may be notified to them respectively by a Divisional Registrar of an Administrative Division."

Extract from Paragraph 4 of Proclamation.

SPECIAL PROVISIONS

designed to facilitate equitable conditions of mobilization

Deferring of Training Periods to Avoid Individual Hardship
If the Board is satisfied that the calling out of any man for military training will cause extreme hardship to those dependent upon such man, the Board may, from time to time, postpone the training period of the man: Provided that such man shall apply for a postponement order in accordance with the provisions of subsection one of section ten of the regulations.

Postponement Applications Must be Made in Writing
No application for a postponement order may be made otherwise than in writing, by the man called out, to the Divisional Registrar who issued the "Notice—Medical Examination" and within eight clear days of the date appearing on such notice.
Any person who appears before a Board shall do so at his own expense.

War Industry and Seasonal Occupations given Consideration
In the national interest, applications for postponement of training of key men engaged in war industries, or in essential occupations, may be addressed to the Divisional Registrar concerned.

Eligible Men Must Not Leave Canada without Authority
No male British subject who is liable to be called out for military training shall, after his age class has been called out by proclamation, leave Canada, for any reason whatsoever, unless and until he has been so authorized in writing by the Chairman of the Board to whose jurisdiction such man is subject.

Eligible men must notify authorities immediately of change of address or marital status

If you are a single man or childless widower between the ages of 19 and 45 and if you change your address, or if you marry, you must immediately notify

THE NATIONAL WAR SERVICES DIVISIONAL REGISTRAR IN THE DIVISION IN WHICH YOU ARE REGISTERED

If you do not know the name and address of your Divisional Registrar, ask at your local post office.

Failure to comply with this requirement may subject you to a fine or imprisonment.

CIVIL RE-EMPLOYMENT

Provision has been made for the reinstatement of men in their positions of employment, after their periods of training or service, under conditions that will facilitate their entry to civilian life.

"AS WE SEE IT"

By J. A. Strang

DURING a recent five-minute advertisement of the Canadian National Exhibition on the radio the remark was made that at this year's exhibition they were going to have home-made bread exhibited that would be 100% perfect. If that statement were correct that one exhibit alone would be worth going to see.

There never has been, nor there never will be, a 100% perfect loaf of bread. When we remember that even one misplaced cell in the texture of a loaf of bread would be an imperfection we can readily understand that 100% perfection is impossible. In fact we would be surprised if there is a loaf of home-made bread at any exhibition anywhere that would score even 80% perfect.

You might be interested to know how bread is judged. The external features are, volume, colour of crust, symmetry of form, evenness of bake, character of crust, break and shred. The internal features are, colour of crumb, texture of loaf, grain, taste, and smell. If the judges know their business, and it's likely they do or they wouldn't be judging bread, we don't think that very many exhibitors at any exhibition will ever get even 80% perfect.

WE DIDN'T notice any Tiger Lillies out for the twelfth of July this year, but we noticed our first ripe tomatoes that day. It seemed to be early, to us at least, and ripe tomatoes on the twelfth of July would be considered early even in the Niagara Peninsula.

We tried an experiment last winter that might be of interest to some of our readers. In September we planted a few tomato seeds of a variety that we would use in the ordinary season for staking. We kept four plants and after transplanting them several times set them out permanently in individual large sized flower pots. We placed them in our southern windows. When they arrived at the blossoming stage there were, of course, no bees around to pollinate them, so we did that chore by hand using a small camel-hair brush for the purpose.

Only two of the plants set fruit so we discarded the others and the remaining two produced quite a nice lot of fruit. The first ripe one was picked on the 7th of March. They continued to bear and to ripen and as the plants were still fresh looking we set them in the garden when the weather became warm enough. They seemed to take a second lease on life after being set out and they are still producing fruit. We got quite a kick out of our experiment. Incidentally it wasn't these particular vines that had ripe tomatoes by the twelfth of July. They were on our regular summer season plants.

THESE RECENT ruling regarding the sale of gasoline looks like a step forward. Service station owners may now even become acquainted with their families. We wonder if something similar couldn't be worked out for other businesses whose employees work long hours and Sundays as well. The dairies for instance, and also the restaurants.

There are many ways that every one of us can help to save the waste of gasoline. We notice trucks from out of town coming long distances to attempt to do our local tradesmen out of some business. Naturally we blame the truck owners for this sort of thing thinking that perhaps they should stay at home and do business where they are assessed and pay taxes.

The remedy, however, lies in our own hands. Refuse to buy anything from them and see how soon they quit this unfair practice. Another way that we can help save the gasoline waste is by doing without so much delivery service. It isn't so much the gas that may be wasted by a trip out with a spool of thread or of one pound of prunes but it is the starting and stopping so often by delivery trucks that eats up the gas. You can think of many other ways, that each of us can put into practice that will help in our own humble way to save this precious fluid and in that way help win this war.
