THE BOOK OF THE WEEK
"PADDLER-TO-THE-SEA"
 By Holling Clancy Holling
 (Thomas Allen, 66pp. $2.50)

No child could receive a more beautiful book for Christmas this year than "Paddler-to-the-Sea." It presents a lot of solid information in a very entertaining way, and is illustrated by numerous striking pictures in full colour painted by the author.

A young Indian boy in the Nipigon country carved a miniature canoe with a seated figure in it, painted it in natural colours, weighted it for balance, and printed on it, "Please, put me back in the water. I am Paddler-to-the-Sea." In the spring he set it along the edge of a brook and the melting snows carried it downward on the first lap of its long journey.

Past saw-mills and beaver dams, fishermen's nets and log jams, shipwrecks and forest fire it went, until more than two years later it reached the ocean bearing the names of all those who had repaired it and helped it on its way.

It was picked up off the Grand Banks by the French fishing fleet, and carried to Paris, from whence a letter telling about it went back to the little Indian boy.

"FAR HORIZON"
 By Clara Bernhardt

This is a collection of poems by a young Canadian poet whose title "Far Horizon" is taken from a line in the first poem; although written recently, have already been published individually.

The title "Far Horizon" is taken from a line in the first poem: "There is a far horizon men must find."

Beyond the imperfections of this life.

Many of the poems deal with some phase of the war, especially as it affects the lives of those most closely associated with it. "Monologue for a Mother" and "Troop Train" are typical. Other poems such as "A Village in Wartime" and "Airfield Under Construction" treat the war from a less personal viewpoint, and "There is Not Time for Leisure Loving" and "Evening in April" are in lighter, gayer vein.

Miss Bernhardt has a perceiving mind and a nice ear for words, and her poems impress you with their sincerity.

Copies of "Far Horizon" may be obtained from the author whose address is Preston, Ont., and she will autograph them for you if you desire. The price is 50 cents.

COCONUT VANITIES

Christmas is the time of generous hospitality, and it is very important to see that your cake and cookie boxes are well-filled before that festive occasion arrives. Coconut Vanities are new and most delicious.

2 cups cake flour
 2 teaspoons baking powder
 1/4 teaspoon salt
 3 teaspoons orange rind (grated)
 4 tablespoons butter or shortening

1 cup white sugar
 1 egg, unbeaten
 1/4 cup milk
 1/4 cup orange juice
 1 egg white, stiffly beaten
 1 cup shredded coconut

Measure sifted flour, add baking powder and salt, and sift together three times. Add orange rind to butter and cream thoroughly. Add sugar gradually, add egg and beat well. Add the flour alternately with the milk and orange juice. Beat after each addition until smooth. Spread in greased pan 15 by 10 inches. Add sugar gradually to beaten egg white to make meringue. Spread over batter and sprinkle with coconut. Bake in oven set at 350 degrees F. for 25 minutes. Cool and cut in squares. Makes 2 dozen.

TIMELY TOPICS FOR WOMEN . . . By Barbara Baines

WHERE ACTIONS SPEAK LOUDER THAN WORDS

I wish you all had been able to hear Rostia Forbes when she spoke at the Women's Canadian Club in Toronto recently. Not only because she is very attractive and an excellent speaker, but also because of what she had to say.

She looks more like an American than what we think of as a typical English woman who has been bombed out of one home and burned out of another. She is young, very tall and slim, and red-headed; and appeared on the platform looking like a fashion plate and dripping silver fox furs which she nonchalantly discarded as she began to speak.

She said the most important thing that she learned on her recent tour of South America was that Latin-Americans were not impressed by speakers, not even eloquent ones like Churchill and Roosevelt, but they were tremendously impressed by actions; and it was only after the United States passed the lend-lease bill, repealed the neutrality act and threatened to shoot on sight that they really began to swing toward the democracies.

Actually, Rostia Forbes maintains, there is no "Latin-America." There are 10 republics, each fiercely nationalistic, and each with its own problems to solve. The 10 percent white population are a deeply cultural people, descendants for the most part of aristocratic Spanish and Portuguese families, and while-opposed to war are keen on hemisphere defence. But there is a vast Indian and Negro population, an uneducated emotional people with an underlying streak of violence which is a fertile field for Nazi propaganda.

Everywhere life is held very cheaply, and there is a tremendous gap between the living standards of the wealthy who live on a lavish scale, and the poor whose condition is deplorable.

Altogether Hitler has 2,000,000 "talkers" spread secretly through South America, and has had some success in influencing powerful leaders in commerce and in the army and airforce. University students and intellectuals have turned from a leaning toward Russian socialism to a great admiration for Nazism.

Of the 10 republics Brazil is the most important, said Mrs. Forbes. It is a great reservoir of potential wealth under the benevolent dictatorship of Pres. Vargas. The sympathies of the majority of Brazilians lie with the democracies, and they have shown great enthusiasm for the new naval and air bases being built for defence.

The population is heterogeneous. The Japanese, who are pro-axis, are the best farmers. The Italians have developed the "cattle nursery of the world" on the great plains of Brazil. Often there are a half million cattle on one estate. They are driven on the hoof to the sea for slaughtering and shipment to England.

Very severe restrictions have been placed on the large German colony in the south east, but secret organizations still flourish, and they are able to smuggle out diamonds and other essentials to war industries by the L.A.T.I. service flying from Natal to Dakar.

I would like to be able to pass on to you some of the interesting things Mrs. Forbes told us about the other Latin American republics, but space does not permit. But in closing she said: "Peace is no Golden Apple that will fall in our laps, but the western world, will inevitably play a vital role in the re-creating of history. We are privileged to see the birth and growth of the great American age."

IN WOMAN'S SPHERE

Miss Victoria Drummond, the only sea-going British woman engineer, has had many exciting experiences and many narrow escapes at sea, but seems to be without fear or nerves. She served at Dunkirk, and has manned the engines more than once while her ship was being attacked by dive bombers.

On Sunday, November 30, more than 10,000 persons were present for the opening of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine in New York. The corner stone was laid in 1892, but it is still only about two-thirds completed. The main auditorium is more than an eighth mile in length, and when finished it will be the second largest cathedral in the world, the only one larger being St. Peter's in Rome.

No quilts from anywhere in the world equal or even rival yours in the artistic as well as the imaginative work put into them is exceptional. Wherever I go I always recognize a Canadian Red Cross quilt, and they are deeply prized by all those fortunate to get them." So said Lady Reading in a recent broadcast to Canada. Much of the credit for these beautiful quilts is due the women of the towns and rural communities with whom quilt-making has indeed become an art.

Women were urged by Senora Rosa Guerrero, of Argentina, to fight Nazism in the western hemisphere when she spoke before the Inter-American Commission of Women at its annual meeting in Washington recently. Delegates from 10 of the 21 republics were present. Senora Castillo Ledon, of Mexico, recommended the training of women throughout the Americas to take the place of men in industry, commerce and agriculture. Dr. Rowe, director of the Pan-American Union, stressed the importance of women's organizations in the solution of basic social problems in the post-war world.
