STEWARTTOWN

We are pleased to hear that Miss Frances Jenkinson who underwent an appendix operation last week at the Lockwood Clinic, Toronto, is progressing favourably. We hope to see her home again soon.

Private Jack Jenkinson, of Pottawa was on leave for a few days last week.

Several carloads of people from the district went to Woodbridge last Saturday for the Orangemen's parade.

Mr. and Mrs. P. R. Bally, of Toronto, visited with Mrs. Bally last Thursday; also Norman was home for the week end.

Little Marilyn Jenkinson, of Mount Dennis has been holidaying with her grandma.

Hilton County repair men are busy on Banker Hill, re-building the wall that holds the bank back and making the road wider.

We are indebted to Mrs. O. O. Brown of Georgetown for the following information about her nephew, 2nd Engineer Philip Graham Bell. As a little boy, Phil—or Bill as the boys called him—made long visits to his aunt at her home here, and will be remembered by the boys with whom he played. 2nd Engineer Philip Graham Bell of the United States Navy has been visiting his brother, John Graham Bell, of Canadian Aircraft at Leaside. Philip brought his bride up to Canada. Mrs. Philip Graham Bell's parents are missionaries stationed at Bahrein, Arabia. Philip's run has been to Burt. He has been ship-wrecked once, and life on that boat is just one submarine after another. Douglas Graham Bell, Phil's youngest brother, and who was the baby when they were visiting here, is also in the United States Navy.

This song will be introduced in all the schools in Ontario next Fall, having the unanimous approval of the Boards of Education and the Music Supervisors.

TIMELY TOPICS FOR WOMEN . . . By Barbara Baines

AS THE WAR AFFECTS WOMEN I

The war has changed women's world. Gone are the lazy days of pink tins and fashion shoes, of expensive trips and luxurious entertaining. Gone, too, is boredom.

Today every woman worth her salt is knee-deep in war work, and even those who are raising through her hourswork to be able to devote several half-days a week to voluntary work with one of the war service groups. Perhaps she is doing a full-time job in industry, and in addition keeping a home going. Or perhaps she is wearing the king's uniform and doing an unaccustomed job in the C.W.A.C., the R.C.A.P. or the W.I.C.A.S. But there are few women whose way of life has not been altered to some extent in the last three years.

And how do the budget and new rationing plans hit you? Fewer clothes, fewer accessories . . . gloves, bags, jewelry, less sophisticated entertainment, the curtailing of club fees, barneys, vacations . . . these are just some of the ways Canadians will meet the post-war problem.

One married man complained that not enough allowance is made for a wife, adding the old adage that two can live as cheaply as one, is all the bank. To which his friend replied that the only explanation that he could see was that they were trying to get married women into war work.

How will the large scale employment of women in war industries affect their future? First, the spread with which they have adapted themselves to all types of work has brought forth a growing esteem for them from the men. The U.S.A. which expects to have a greater woman war workforce by Autumn, has set the example of equal rates of pay for equal work, and what is more important, equal opportunity to hold the best jobs in Canada there is a movement on foot to follow suit.

Facts and figures are beginning to show, however, that women present a special problem to industry. Recent statistics prove there are almost twice the number of absentees among women as there are among men, chiefly because they cannot stand up as well to the continued grind, and they are more susceptible to sickness and chemical poisoning. To date no special measures have been taken to protect the health of either the mother or her child.

Day nurseries for their children, slated for the near future would, however, do a lot to relieve the double strain on many women workers.

But already the women workers' health has become so precarious that O.I.C.A. is trying with the idea of introducing the 8-hour day for them while men still on with a ten-hour shift.

On the domestic front, too, women are living under vastly altered conditions. They are learning to simplify their work, to save and make do, and to substitute new things for those no longer obtainable.

They are learning to be their own gardeners, and their own handy-men, and do all sorts of unaccustomed jobs around the house from fixing a dripping tap, or a stubborn lock, to caring for electrical equipment, now so precious because it cannot be replaced.

One thing the war has brought home to women is the value of good nutrition, and many are planning balanced meals for their families now, also formerly gave no thought to the question. The exception to this rule seems to be the war-workers' lunch pail which leaves a lot to be desired.

At first glance, the average woman today looks little different than she did two years ago, but if you study her carefully you will note she is wearing slacks or a functional type of dress for work, she has a simple, easily managed hair-do, and is sporting comfortable low-heeled shoes. Only when she shifts into civilian dress does she become the glamour girl, strictly feminine and enticing.

There are slacks among us still, women to whom it is more important that their hair-stick and nail polish match than that our troops get the tools of war. But they are few. On the whole our women have met the challenge thrown them, with courage and integrity, and are contributing in no small part to the ultimate victory for which we pray.

FOR OUR SCRAP BOOK

The more a man is educated, the more it is necessary for the welfare of the State, to instruct him how to make proper use of his talents. Education is like a double-edged sword. It may be turned to dangerous usage if not properly handled. — Wu Ting-Pang

CAMI MOTHERS ARE NEEDED

An urgent appeal has gone out from the Ontario Farm Service Force for cook-supervisors.

Ten-year boys and girls by the hundreds have given up camping trips and lazy vacations in our summer playgrounds to help out the farmers and market gardeners with the planting, cultivating and harvesting of the crops so important in wartime.

For the most part they live in camps which house ten to twenty each. At the head of each camp there must be a camp mother, an understanding woman who is able to do the cooking for the youngsters and give them the sympathetic supervision that all young folks need. The work is not hard. There is no laundry, no house-cleaning, etc., and payment will be according to the number in your charge.

You teachers with the Summer free, who want to help, or mothers with families of their own . . . here is your chance. If you feel you can get away for a month or two, won't you write to the supervisor of Nutrition & Prices, Ontario Division of the Red Cross, 621 Jarvis St., Toronto.

JELLIED MEAT LOAF

FOR SUPPER ON THE PORCH

It's the good old summer time . . . the time for meals outdoors—a picnic in the woodlot or by the brook, Sunday breakfast under the apple tree, and suppers on the shady porch.

Today let's plan a porch supper. If it has been very hot it will help a lot to wash down the walls and floors with the garden hose, and let the spray play over the grassy lawn and vines climbing up the hot bricks. Then for supper, something simple but appetizing and filling. Let's have a hot soup, our one hot dish, to begin with. Then a jellied meat loaf, and an old-fashioned potato salad with lots of green onions and cucumber in it and a tempting garnish of lettuce and tomatoes.

And for dessert what would be more delicious than one of the fresh raspberry pies we talked about last week? Here is an unusually good recipe for meatloaf, supplied by an unusually good cook.

1 tablespoon gelatine
1 cup cold water
1 can vegetable soup
1 1/2 pounds cooked meat
1 cup hot water
Dash of pepper
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup mayonnaise
2 hard cooked eggs
8 green onions
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

Since cooked meats are a better buy just now than fresh meats you may use cooked ham, Dutch loaf or Brunswick sausage or a combination of them with some of your own left-over lamb, veal or beef.

Soak the gelatine in cold water. Heat the vegetable soup with the hot water until it comes to a boil, then stir in the gelatine. Add the chopped meat, chopped onion, mayonnaise and seasonings. Stir well and pour into an oiled pan 9"x5"x3" garnished with the sliced hard-boiled eggs. When set unmould on mounds of water cress and surround with thinly sliced radishes. Serves six to eight.

POSTMASTERS TO REDECORATE

In every corner of Canada, postmasters are doing their part in the big campaign to secure a large increase in the sale of War Savings Stamps. The Postmaster at Westmount, Quebec, has already put up a large size invitation to his customers as shown in this photograph. Soon all post offices will be emphasizing the fact that they sell stamps.

After supper, the regular meeting of the Auxiliary was held. Minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted, also the Treasurer's report on the Lorne bingo. Arrangements for the making of more sweaters were made and for the dance that was to be held on Friday, July 3rd.

During the evening tickets were sold on 2 sets of hand crocheted pot holders, made and donated by Mrs. McClure. Mrs. H. Harlow was winner of both sets. A vote of thanks was tendered Mrs. McClure for her hospitality. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. J. R. Barber. The singing of the national anthem brought a lovely evening to a close.

HER WORDS ARE MUSIC

Miss Kathleen Lyons, who has been in Santiago, Chili, studied art in Brussels and Paris, joined Canada with Francis Ledwiler's company in "Autumn Crocus" two years ago, had her first radio audition at Toronto less than two months ago, made her network debut two days later. Sometimes Guerrero's delightful voice has added a Spanish note . . . poignant and vivacious . . . to the current play in "Autumn Crocus", "Serenata." The programme presents Latin American music Mondays at 8:30 p.m., from Toronto, under the direction of Isidor Secherman.
