ROY FOULIN TOPS AN RUNNER AT VARNITY

Roy Poulla, whom we can recall as being an athletic star in Georgetown High School Days, has not lost any of his prowess since attending the University of Toronto, where he is in his last year at the School of Practical Science. The following extract from a recent issue of the University paper "Varsity" ties in his success in distance running with the laurels won by Dave Critchton there. Dave is now with the ROAP in Ceylon. The Norwegian referred to in the article, are boys from the Norwegian Air Force.

"Not since the days of great Dave Critchton, and Forest, Hogg, Kibbewhite and Goodwin—if you can recall them—has there been such a gathering of truck talent and prospective talent around old Varsity. Just about one of the best distance men in some time is in the person of Roy Poulla fourth year Schoolman Coming from Critchton's hometown—Georgetown—he is tops as a miler and distance runner the mile interfaculty and excellent in the hatters, he nabbed first spot, among many, in last Saturday's meet with the Norwegians."

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE HEAR CHARLOTTE McCULLOUGH

The January meeting of the Georgetown Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Fred Armstrong on Wednesday afternoon, January 8th, thirty members and 2 visitors being present. The meeting opened with the Institute Ode and Prayer after which the minutes of the previous meeting were read and adopted. The main item of business arising out of the correspondence was the nutrition course to be held in Georgetown on Wednesday, January 27th from 10 am to 4 p.m. A government speaker is to be present and it is expected that all who attend will find it very interesting.

Mrs. W. Mendham on behalf of the Navy League asked the Institute if they could help with the packing of more Ditty Bags for the Sailors. She read a letter from a sailor who had received a Ditty Bag for Christmas, and after hearing his words of gratitude all realized what a worth while work this is and it was moved and seconded

HONEYMOON MOUNTAIN

"If this isn't heaven," Sally sighed, looking about her in supreme content, "then don't bother to tell me I'm not dead. I don't want to be disturbed."

She sat on the cool grass in the waning shadow of the tree against whose smooth trunk Deborah was leaning. The leaves overhead rustled softly in the faint noontide breeze. Nothing else anywhere in the whole pleasant picture spread before them moved under the white sunlight. They had congregated, all six of them, on the highest corner of the sloping lawn, the orchard behind them, a smooth stretch of sward unrolling down to the stone walls below, broken only by the bright flame of a bed of wallflowers half-way down the slope.

"Me, too," Simon muttered. He lay stretched out on the grass, his pipe in his mouth, his head on Sally's knee.

Bryn sighed. He shifted his position and moved a few inches closer to Deborah. He turned on his stomach, propped himself on his elbows and gazed up at her. A few days ago, before these others had come, and after she and Bryn had decided to be friends, she would have smiled down at him a little. It was fun to smile at Bryn, once one had started. He always looked as if he liked being smiled at. But now, Deborah pretended not to know that he was looking at her, and regarded steadily the hills far away. Because Madeline was here now, and Madeline might not like it.

A mist came into her eyes, as she thought of Madeline, and the hills swam in a noontide fog. Poor Madeline wasn't happy, for all her pretence at light heartedness. Deborah told herself. How could she be happy, seeing Bryn married, actually married, to another girl, a girl who wore a wedding ring that he had given her, who had taken his name? Bryn was lovely. Even with Madeline here, he hadn't changed his attitude to Deborah a bit. He acted exactly as if they really were married, really loved each other, and he didn't try to keep Madeline from seeing.

That night, as usual, Deborah went into Grandmother's room to make sure that she was settled comfortably, and to kiss her goodnight. Grandmother was sitting up in her big bed, her silver hair brushed smooth and drawn back into a neat little braid.

"Deborah?"

"Yes, Grandmother?"

"Do you not like these friends of Bryn's, my darling?"

Deborah looked up in surprise. "Why yes, yes, of course. I think they are lovely. Sally is sweet. She is like a talking doll. And she is very kind."

"And Madeline?"

"Nobody could help liking Madeline," Deborah replied. "She's charming, isn't she, Grandmother? I love to hear her talk. It's so slow and lazy. It's because she and Simon are from Texas, Sally says. And Madeline is beautiful. Don't you think she's beautiful, Grandmother?"

"Not as beautiful as you are, my child," Grandmother answered fondly. "But she is very attractive." She was that the Institute pack 3 bags and that a shower of articles be held at the next meeting.

Mrs. W. Peck and Mrs. Fred Armstrong were the programme convenors for the meeting and their guest speaker was Miss Charlotte McCullough who gave a most interesting account of her trip to Chicago last Fall. Miss McCullough obtained this trip for having the highest marks in the achievement day contest sponsored by the Junior Farmers and the Women's Institutes of the country paid her expenses.

Misses Nora Cleave and Alva Cripps favored the meeting with several piano duets.

A vote of thanks was given Miss McCullough, Misses Cleave and Cripps, also the hostess Mrs. Armstrong after which the meeting closed with "God Save the King".

GEORGETOWN COUNCIL

Langdon, for the law. Mr. Langdon also introduced the guest speaker of the evening, Mr. LeRoy Dale, K.C., Mr. Dale was Georgetown's first mayor, twenty-one years ago, when the municipality was incorporated, and had been reeve for two years before that. He had served the town faithfully as mayor for ten years, and needed no introduction to his audience. He gave a very fine address, one which we regret space does not permit us to print in detail, on "Canada and the Empire." He went back many years into the history of the British people, and cited the reasons why the British Empire held such a honorable place in the world today. He predicted the fall of Hitler in the not too distant future, and also a much more stable and better world in the years following the war.

Among those present at the banquet table were: Rev. R. C. Todd, Mr. Clifford Bradley, Mr. K. R. MacDonald, Mr. H. C. Wrigglesworth, Rev. W. G. O. Thompson, Dr. C. V. Williams, Mr. A. O. Welk, Mrs. L. Schrag, Mr. Hedley Shaw, Mr. Henry Marchment, Mr. T. L. Lyons, Mr. K. M. Langdon, Mr. Ray Mason, Mr. Garfield McOlivray, Mr. Donald Latimer, Rev. C. O. Cochran, Mr. William Emmerston, Col. James Ballantine, Mr. Walter Carpenter, Mr. G. McCallum, Mr. William Marshall, Mayor Joseph O'Leary, Mr. P. B. Harrison, Mr. LeRoy Dale, K.C., Mrs. Walker Hinton, Rev. J. E. Coleman, Mr. Graham Stewart, Capt. E. C. McClure, Mr. William Thompson.

Georgetown Red Cross Will Sponsor Blood Donor Clinic

A special meeting of the Red Cross was held in the office of the president, Mr. LeRoy Dale, K.C., on Tuesday evening, January 12th. Owing to the inclemency of the weather, the attendance was small. It was officially and unanimously decided to cooperate with the Mobile Unit of the Blood Donor Clinic, and hold a clinic in Georgetown sometime the last of January, in a building suitable for this purpose. The following chairmen were appointed: D. Brill, for Blood Donors; Mrs. John Campbell, for hospital and equipment; Mrs. Ann Lawson, refreshment; Mrs. Ray Watson, reception; Mrs. W. V. Grant, clerk.

It was also decided to hold the annual meeting of the Red Cross on January 30th. As the annual Red Cross drive begins the first of March, it was thought that the new officers would want to have plenty of time for arranging their program.
