 On Sunday, May 16th, Signm. John Reid Graham, formerly of Norval, celebrated his birthday overseas. This is the fourth birthday he has spent "across the pond".
 In a recent letter home, Eddie Francis, prisoner-of-war in Germany said the boys are taking up knitting as a pastime. They use barbed wire for needles, and rip out old socks and knit them up again. He added "We're a regular ladies' sewing circle—if the folks back home could only see us now."
 Sgt. Thomas Wames, overseas with the Lorne Scots for two years, sent home some interesting snapshots of himself in costume for "The Desert Song," an operetta put on by a local operatic society near his camp. Total proceeds from the event, amounting to 500 pounds, were given to the town hospital. Tom took two parts—that of a French soldier, and also an Arab. Before enlisting, he was a faithful member of the Baptist Church Choir, active in the Choral Society, winner of a Ken Soble amateur contest, and many medals. We're glad to hear he isn't letting that silver voice of his get "rusty" over there.
 George Walker has enlisted in the R.C.A.F. and is temporarily stationed at Manning Depot, Toronto. Until enlistment, George was employed at Provincial Paper Limited. He intends to take a wireless airgunner's course. Before he left to take up his duties in the Air Force, Misses Nornh Cleave, Ethel Leslie, and Alva Cripps held a party for him at the home of Miss Cleave, and during the course of the evening, presented him with a handsome money belt, on behalf of those present.
 A former Stewartown girl, the daughter of Mrs. H. Jenkinson and the late Mr. Jenkinson, Frances Jenkinson enlisted in the R.C.A.F. the latter part of April, and is stationed at Rockcliffe where she will train for a Wireless Operator. Before enlisting, Frances lived in Stewartown the greater part of her life, attending public school there, and is a graduate of Georgetown High School. She was a member of St. John's Church, and a faithful member of the choir. She taught school before moving to Thorold.

 Arnold Brill, stationed at Allford Bay, B.C. with the R.C.A.F., saved up his leave until he had 28 days coming to him and took a very interesting trip to the southern States, and Mexico. On his way South, he stayed in Hollywood for a while. He saw and talked to many famous movie stars, and was lucky enough to dine with several. He writes that they make Canadians in uniform more than welcome, and he enjoyed it very much. When in Mexico, he bought a tiny dog known as a Chihuahua (pronounced Che-wa-wa). Becoming very attached to it, he brought it on the train all the way back to northern British Columbia. He then sent the little dog back to his sister here in Georgetown, with a friend of his from Allford Bay, who was coming home on leave. The friend arrived with the dog last week. The puppy, only 8 weeks old, is called "Tiquela", and after travelling those thousands of miles, will settle down in its Georgetown home.
 Lieut. J. L. Lambert, writing from the Lorne Scots' training camp, in April, says: "I have met a lot of Georgetown boys here. Had a chat with Tuck, Keith Spence, Bill Collier, Gord. Lane, Steve Emerson, and Fred Tost. The latter has a stripe now. I haven't enjoyed this Good Friday too much. It has been pouring cats and dogs all day, and still is. After standing around in shorts and shirts for twenty minutes in the cold sleet this morning, we finally got off on a cross-country run. Three miles—up a big hill, over fences and walls, and the ground all broken up with tank tracks and craters, with the odd gully thrown in. We were covered with mud from head to foot—and I do mean head. I really took a beating as the rain on my glasses stopped me from seeing the rabbit holes, and tank track holes, and I kept twisting my ankle. However, I finished, and not quite the last either. Bill Collier won the race. This life is really healthy of course, and we should be in wonderful shape by the end of the month. The other day we had a big ceremonial drill and trooped the colours. It was very impressive. The drill instructors are the Scots Guards, and we are supposed to be a Guard regiment. If I do say so myself, the boys were really smart on parade and the home towns of the P. D. & H. would certainly get a big kick out of it if they could see it."

 We wish to thank all our friends, neighbours, and relatives, for their many kindnesses to us during our recent and bereavement, and to express our appreciation of their thoughtfulness to our beloved husband and father while he was in hospital.

The Fourth Victory Loan

The War Loan campaign in Georgetown and the adjoining district of Esquesing has been a success. Three hundred and fifty two thousand dollars have been raised, which is twenty thousand more than the most raised in any former Campaign. The six salesmen worked hard and with good results. The Committee are well pleased with the work of the salesmen and with the generous response of the public.
 Special credit is due to Mr. Langdon, chairman of the sales committee, to Mr. Poulis who looked after the payroll section, and to Mr. McIntock who handled the Bank purchases. Mr. W. V. Grant and Mr. Harold Cleave were always on hand to give good advice. Mr. Carpenter and Mr. G. McEllivray who had charge of Publicity did excellent work. Mr. Howard May on behalf of the Township gave valuable assistance and advice.
 We have pleasure also in making mention of the liberality of the Georgetown Herald in giving so ample an amount of space.
 As purchasers, Mr. L. E. Fleck and the firm of Smith & Stone were in a class by themselves and in the same connection Mr. W. P. Bradley, the Town Council and the Hydro Commission gave the Sales Committee great comfort.
 Mr. Mason of Acton, County Chairman, says he is pleased with the showing made by the County. The County raised substantially more money than in any former campaign.

WHY IS A PRIVATE CALLED A PRIVATE?
 Why is a private called a private? And was a sergeant major always a non-commissioned officer? The Oxford Dictionary and Prentice's History of the British Empire supply the answers.
 A private was originally a private soldier, called up by his liege lord in medieval times. The word is derived from the Latin privatus and was first used with its modern meaning about 1579.
 Next highest rank, lance-corporal, comes from a French form of the word lans peasso, a mounted soldier whose horse has been put out of action and fought with his lance on foot. He was considered superior to the infantryman and had some authority over them, but not permanently. The word corporal comes from the Italian caporale.
 Sergeant (Latin servientem) Old French-sergent) meant a common soldier in 1490. It was applied to a tenant who had military service under a knight.
 A sergeant-major was originally a field officer next in rank to a lieutenant-colonel and corresponded partly to the modern rank of major and partly to adjutant. Another derivation is seen in the present rank of major-general. The term did not mean a non-commissioned officer before 1802.
 The rank of Captain has been used in the French army since 1355. It is a derivative of the Italian capo de squadra, or head of a square, block or squadron. The captain's locum tenens or lieutenant was instituted as a rank by Charles VII in 1444.
 The head of bands of foot soldiers in France about 1524 came to be called a colonel. The men were under his regiment, or command, and so the word came to be used as "col. so-and-so's regiment."
 The colonel had little time to look after the training of his men, so this was delegated to his lieutenant, who of course became a lieutenant-colonel. General, from the Latin Generalis, was a term applied to an officer of superior rank and extended command in 1576. Brigadier came from the Italian Brigata and French brigade (strife, contention) and was first used in its modern meaning about 1678.
 A marshal was originally a high official in the household of a medieval king, prince or noble who usually had charge of military affairs. The word was marshal in Old French.

LIFE
 Some call it life to seek with mad endeavour The gilded prize of wealth or place or fame; To light the torch of toll and then forever Press onward breathless, guided by its flame.
 Some call it life to find in frenzied pleasure A few vain words of evanescent bliss; To rob each rapt experience of its treasure; To snatch from every joy its honeyed kiss.
 But some whose feet are set in quiet places, Whose lives march on with less tumultuous zest, Discover, mid old friendship and loved faces That days of humble sacrifice are best. Not theirs the pride of place, not theirs the guardon.
