237 Fall Fairs will Function in Ontario This Autumn

Only Three Shows Cancelled—'Help Win the War' Slogan of Many

In last Friday's issue of the Toronto Daily Star, a summary of the Fall Fair outlook in Ontario, and on interview of local fair secretaries, was carried. The item is very informative and we reprint it herewith:

"Of the 240 fall fairs in Ontario, 237 are planning to go ahead with agricultural exhibitions this autumn, it was announced today by J. A. Carroll, secretary of the Ontario Pairs Association. Dundalk society gave notice this week that the show there had been cancelled owing largely to the farm help shortage. Other fairs cancelled are those at Lombardy, Neustadt, Barrie and Rainy River. Fairs not held in 1942 but which are being resumed this year are those at Chesley and Stella.

"Heavy exports of cattle from Peel county to the United States make the annual county fair here of particular value," stated Fred McBride, Brampton, secretary of Peel County Pairs Association. "A large number of buyers from across the line are here each year to look over our stock exhibits," he said.

"As a special wartime feature, a 'Remake and Revise' department in the ladies' section will encourage conservation of clothing. It will be in charge of Miss Louise George, formerly associated with the Canadian National Exhibition at Toronto.

"We know that many people accustomed to coming here through the years have budgeted their gasoline with the far trip in mind, so we do not anticipate a serious decline in attendance," Mr. McBride added.

"Community entertainment has been scarce this summer, and we expect people here from a radius of 50 miles," remarked G. L. McOllivray, secretary of Georgetown fair board. "Our main idea here is to show how agriculture can do the most to help win the war," Mr. McOllivray said. "We are confident that nothing can take the place of a fall fair in encouraging farmers to produce better grain and livestock."

PROTECTION FOR POTATO CROPS IMPORTANT

Late Blight Disease May Cause Heavy Losses

Although this year's provincial potato acreage in Ontario is considerably below the five year average, weather conditions to date have been favourable for the growing potato crop throughout the Province. This fact, together with the increased attention being given by way of caring for the crop, by specialized potato growers, may account for the 10 per cent increase in potato production over last year, as requested by the Dominion Government previous to the planting season.

"However, it is early yet to predict final yields, and much can develop during the next few weeks to destroy the potato crop, which produces more food nutrients per acre than most farm crops," says R. E. Goodin of the Crops, Seeds and Weeds Branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture. For instance, this is the season of the year when the ravages of late blight disease in potatoes usually begin to multiply. Hot, humid weather is most favourable for development of the disease, which each year causes loss to potato growers amounting to several thousand dollars. Particularly during the past three years, total potato crop losses have been experienced by many growers, and this disease accounted for the famine in Ireland about a century ago.

From experience, our best potato growers now fully realize that efficient spraying or dusting the growing plants with Bordeaux mixture is cheap insurance. This year, with the abundance of moisture, most fields are showing an unusual amount of top growth; this interferes with circulation of air, and entrance of sunlight surrounding the plants, hence gives leaf hoppers and late blight organisms favourable circumstances for development.

Growers who keep the growing plants thoroughly covered with Bordeaux spray or dust material should not fear losing their crops. Bordeaux mixture, properly applied, will give protection to the plants, and increase yields and quality of tubers. If the crop is within your grasp, make sure of it. Now is the critical time, when the weather is damp and 'sticky'. The country needs the potatoes, therefore for protection with profit and ample food supplies for our people, the potato crop should not be neglected at this time.

LONELY AUSTRALIAN LAMB WANTS STAMPS

Previous to the war the railways received numerous requests for illustrated literature on Canada and information on locomotives and other railway equipment from railway fans but since the war and the falling off in tourist travel this has been largely curtailed. Another kind of request was received recently by P. L. Dougan, the General Passenger Agent for the Canadian National Railways here, coming all the way from Australia. It was from an Australian lass Miss Dorothy E. Burns who states she lives on a homestead 17 miles from any neighbors with only one woman on the place and as they seldom go into town it is very lonely. She would like to receive some used stamps with postmarks of Canada and Newfoundland and would also like to exchange correspondence. Her address is Lambing Creek, via Tingoon, Queensland, Australia.

GREEN LIGHT MEETING PLACE OF THOUSANDS

Many green signal lights, symbolic of safety, surety and confidence, are to be seen at the principal streets intersections of all Canadian cities, but none of these outstanding in point of usefulness the one in the Canadian National Central Station in Montreal. Situated over the exit on the south side of the concourse, this green light has been the subject of much conjecture as to its utility and just where it fits into the busy life of the station.

"It is a convenience to the travelling public," said O. A. Trudeau, general passenger agent, Canadian National Railways. "For instance, a passenger placing his baggage in charge of a redcap on arrival, is informed that it will be available in the concourse, if he will wait at the green light."

It is fast becoming the unofficial meeting place of citizens who wish to join friends arriving or departing.
