

"As We See It" By J. A. JAMES

NO DOUBT you will have read of the opening of a new plant at Decew Falls, which, as you know, is near the City of St. Catharines, last week. Fashions change in power plants as well as they do in so many other commodities these days and this is really noticeable at Decew Falls. The old plant which has been in existence for a long time generated some 60,000 horse power but this power was generated by nine separate units. In the new plant the 60,000 horse power is generated by only one unit and it is interesting to note its size. The moving parts of this one unit weigh 250 tons and this huge machine revolves at the rate of 150 revolutions a minute. Some idea may be gained of the size of this huge unit when we mention that it is three stories high. The penstock through which the water rushes down to drive the turbine is sixteen and one half feet in diameter and is 600 feet long. Most of us have some knowledge of the big power station that is situated at Queenston on the Niagara River. Of course it is an immense plant as compared with this new one at Decew Falls and some comparisons may be interesting. The Chippewa Power Plant, the name by which the plant at Queenston is known, generates over a half million horse power and this is made possible by the use of ten units of from 50,000 to 55,000 horse power each. The water there has a drop of 283 feet as compared with the 600 feet at Decew Falls. The building in which these units are housed and which lies away below the highway south of Brock's Monument along side the river, is 500 feet long, 130 feet wide and is nine stories high or a total of 180 feet above the rock foundation. Plenty of power is always essential but this is especially so during war time and the fact that here in Ontario some two and one-half million horse power is generated in a large measure responsible for the standing of Canada as an exporting nation. Canada as you know stands third in the exporting nations of the world today. And with all this big business that is supplied with power by the Hydro they still look after your wants and mine. The electric energy is still lying just at the other side of that small switch which you may want to turn at any moment of the day or night. Maybe we don't half appreciate our celebrated Hydro here in Ontario.

THE SPORTS EDITORS are busy these days drumming up interest in the coming Hockey Season. The Leafs are training at St. Catharines again and for lack of interesting news the writers are again featuring Bucko McDonald and his huge appetite and weight as headlines for their columns. We imagine Bucko enjoys it at that. You will recall that during his stay in Detroit last spring, when the Stanley Cup Series was being played, that Bucko had a little argument with Jack Adams, the manager of the Detroit team, and at that time stated that last winter was his final year in Hockey, however due to the scarcity of players on account of the war, Bucko seems to be once again being given a chance to make the team and judging by reports from training headquarters, he may again be successful. He is not old as compared with other players, being born in 1913 while Harvey Jackson who is a forward and therefore has to do more skating, was born in 1911. However Bucko left off learning to play hockey until he was older than most players and that may have some effect on his being able to play much longer. In fact he mentioned not long ago that he was still learning how to skate. It looks as though the teams will be composed of players that are either older or younger than the average age this year, many of the well known players having been called up for military service. This of course gives the older players another chance to make good and also gives the younger a chance to break all preceding records for early age limits usually associated Pro Hockey Players. As you no doubt know the first game in the 43-44 series is slated for the Gardens on the 30th of this month so that the new season is just around the corner. Time sure marches on.

Knox Church Reaches 83rd Milestone

Inspiring sermons both morning and evening by the Rev. J. W. MacNamara, B.A., D.D., Clerk of Presbyterian General Assembly and Secretary of the Board of Administration, and special music by the choir, made the 83rd Anniversary of Knox Presbyterian Church last Sunday, an impressive event.

At the morning service, Rev. MacNamara chose as the text of his sermon "The Church of God which he hath purchased with His own blood," Acts 20:28. In the evening he dealt on the following text taken from Luke 4:18 "The Spirit of the Lord is upon me because he hath anointed me to preach the gospel to the poor. He hath sent me to heal all broken hearts, to bring deliverance to the captive and recovery of sight to the blind; to let as liberty them that are in prison."

Lovely music was rendered by the choir at the services. The anthems were "Lift up your heads, O ye gates" and "Hark, Hark, my soul." In the morning Miss Thelma Capps and Miss Jane East sang as a duet "The Hymn of Thanksgiving" and at the evening service, Miss Joy Russell was guest soloist, with a beautiful rendition of "How lovely are Thy dwellings." Going back briefly into the records of the Church, we found that Dr. Burns of Knox College organized the Presbyterian Church in Georgetown in 1860. For some time the members worshipped in the town hall, then in the Congregational Church and later in Wesleyan Methodist Church, until in 1865 at which date a brick church was built at the corner of Church and Main Streets at a cost of about $3,000. The present church was erected in 1877-8 at a cost of about $10,000. It is interesting to note that the opening sermons in the old church were preached by Rev. Dr. Burns, and in the new by Rev. Dr. Cochrane, grandfather of the present minister, Rev. Charles C. Cochrane.

The chime carillon of eight bells was the gift of Mable Grant Lawson as a memorial to her husband, Henry Pratt Lawson, and presented on April 19th, 1922. They are the only chimes in Georgetown.

Ballantine, a former Scoutmaster in Georgetown, addressed the boys, pointing out the fine qualities of Scouting, the moulding of the character of young boys who will be our future leaders. Lion President Ralph Ross presided at the meeting and also had a few stories for the boys. Mr. Joe Boley, also a guest of the evening, entertained with humorous reading and led in community singing.

The announcement was made that the District Deputy Governor, Ross C. Cochrane, of Hamilton would be at the next meeting in November, that a guest speaker had been procured for the mid-November meeting, and that at the December meeting the District Governor from the St. Catharines Club would be present.
