OAKVILLE EDITOR LOOKS SON IN FLYING ACCIDENT

Many friends throughout the county feel deep sympathy with Mr. and Mrs. George C. Atkins of Oakville, in the loss of their son, George, as the result of a flying accident while training with the R.C.A.F.

The funeral of L. A. C. George C. Atkins, held from St. John's United Church, Oakville, on Tuesday, October 19th, extended Oakville's mourning to the fourteenth graduate from Oakville High School who has given his life for the cause of freedom in this war.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. C. Aldi's, Howland Avenue, are the first among the bereaved parents to have the comfort of a funeral at home. The community expressed its sorrow in the loss of "Junior", its deep sympathy with his parents, and remembered too all of those who have fallen in the service.

L. A. C. George C. Atkins died in his twentieth year from injuries suffered in a flying accident during a night snow-storm at Yorkton, Sask., on Friday, October 15th. He was born in Hamilton, Ontario, and came to Oakville twelve years ago. During his school years in the public and high schools he enjoyed to the full the work and fun of the youth of the town.

HOW TO KEEP HENS FROM DYING

The easiest way to get more poultry and eggs, with both feed and equipment scarce, is to reduce poultry losses. There are many things flock-owners can do to reduce losses.

1. Sell old hens not needed for breeders, or else house hens and pullets in separate buildings.

2. Scraps, sweep, scrub and scald the laying house floor before putting layers in. After floor is dry, use a good disinfectant on floor and walls. Clean and disinfect all equipment.

3. Give layers show room—four square feet of floor space per bird for light breeds, four and a half for heavier ones. Provide at least 20 square feet of mash hopper space (open on both sides) for every 100 birds. Have one nest for every six birds. If trap nests are being used, one for every four birds.

4. See that layers have at least five to seven gallons of water daily per 100 birds. Remove chill from water in cold weather, so birds will drink all they need. Water is the cheapest thing in a hen's ration; eggs are mostly water.

5. Provide ventilation without any drafts.

6. Select pullets carefully at housing time. Reject those that are lame, undeveloped and those that have grey eyes with irregular pupils.

7. Keep a clean supply of grit before the layers at all times; also oyster shell or some other good source of calcium.

8. To maintain body weight, feed mash moistened with water or skim-milk (or mash pellets) at noon—as much as the layers will clean up in a half-hour.

9. Cull hard and often to save feed and reduce losses. Birds won't be disturbed so much if culled at night with a flashlight.

10. Act promptly if disease starts. Get an accurate diagnosis from a veterinarian or a poultry specialist who knows what it's all about. Remove dead birds from the laying house and completely burn them or bury them so that dogs, rats or other animals can't get at them.

11. Get rid of rats; they waste feed and spread disease.

12. Don't let chickens have the run of the barnyard and hog lots.

MORE FARM MACHINERY TO BE MADE AVAILABLE

Production of farm machinery in Canada will be increased in 1944 to 80 per cent of the 1940 production it has been announced by Herbert H. Bloom, Administrator of Farm Machinery and Construction Machinery, Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

Because of the importance of the domestic food program, and the need to back up the food program for our allies and liberated countries, farm machinery is given a high priority in Canada, Mr. Bloom commented.

Under rationing, new farm machinery is granted through applications made to the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, and in Alberta about 22,000 applications were approved, the administrator stated.

Mr. Bloom pointed out that through price control Canada is the only country in the world where a farmer can buy new machinery at the prices fixed by the Board in the basic period. In countries where there is no price control farmers are having to pay as much as 40 or 50 percent more for their new machinery he said.

It may seem early to talk about buying Christmas gifts, but not if you have someone overseas to shop for. A number of men who spent last Christmas with the Canadian Army at battle stations say that reading matter comes at the head of their Christmas list.

Among other things they listed cigarettes, lighters, hard candy, gum, small games, shaving articles, stationery, razor blades and sharpeners and hunting knives.

Present facilities cannot be increased; your co-operation is needed if war calls are to go through promptly. Please remember that the wasteful use of telephone time can hold up war business—and that every second you save counts.
