

"As We See It"

By J. A. Strong

After reading about the numerous robberies that have been committed in the city recently, in which War Savings Certificates and War Bonds were listed among the articles that had been stolen, we have arrived at the conclusion that it might be a good idea for any one who keeps their bonds around the house to make a New Year's resolution to rent a safety deposit box for their valuables. When left lying around home they are so apt to become lost or destroyed or as in the cases mentioned above, to become stolen. Bearer bonds are so handy to buy and to clip the coupons from that we forget that they are also very handy for anyone who is without a right owner to dispose of. It is interesting to note that the sun rises at 8:34 daylight saving time on December 21st, and instead of rising earlier it rises later in the morning until January 1st when it rises at 8:39. From then on it rises earlier and by the end of January the sun comes over the horizon at 8:23. However, the end of the day tells a different story. On December 21st the sun sets at 5:21 daylight saving time and by the end of December it has made the day longer at the evening end by six minutes, setting at 5:27. By the end of January it has rolled back the time at which it rises to 6:05. Taking the time of rising and of setting on the final day of December and then taking the time of rising and of setting of the sun on the last day of January we find that the days are a total of 53 minutes longer at the end of January than they were at the end of December. So we really are correct when we say that the days will soon be getting longer although they don't lengthen nearly as fast as we might like them to do at times.

The weather was perfect for the holiday season and, outside of those who may have received skis and toboggans for Christmas, must have lifted everybody. The roads were good with the possible exception of a few icy conditions on the evening of Christmas Sunday when it was slippery. Traffic apparently was fairly heavy on the highway and a good many must have visited someone for holiday feast. Perhaps the lack of snow accounted for it, however, we missed the almost total Christmas registers out playing on the streets as we drove along through the country. The only exception would be where there was some open skating and there were not very many indoors either. Even the small lake in front of the Reformatory at Guelph had very few skaters. Maybe Santa had left them indoors games this year and they were at home trying them out.

Homeless and starved, subjected to unspeakable horrors by the invading "Supermen," fifty million vagabonds are devising astonishing ways of taking care of themselves. Ninon Bayon, former French newspaper woman, tells in The American Weekly with this Sunday's (Jan. 9) issue of "The Detroit Sunday Times" the tragic story of the suffering of the roving children of Europe have endured.

Training of Paratroopers

Whence come these fears? O God of Hosts, did we That still Thine ancient laws control, Did we forget Thy first command And, lightly, lose Thy guiding hand?

Mankind with plenty Thou And, lo, a troubled world By Mammon's laws; and Suspicion, war, distress Do we now reap what we Sow? Thy mercy Lord! Yes, In anger Lord, forsake us Here, at Thine altar, we And seek anew Thy rod With, humbled hearts, Thy hands again—shew us Thy way!

While fools declare there is no God, Behold, our hope is in Thy Word. Thy people are Thy people still And Thou wilt all Thy word fulfill: Thy chastening rod Proclaim Thee still Thy people's God!

In council-hall and parliament, In all the acts of government, Guide Thou Thy people's statesmen, Lord; That each may serve in just accord With courage, for the righteous cause; Thy laws! —Anonymous.

PITIFUL FLIGHT OF EUROPE'S WILD CHILDREN

Lieut.-Col. R. F. Rouh, of Montreal, officer commanding the school, summed up the training as follows: "In a short time we have a trained jumper—that is a man who knows how to jump safely without injury to himself or others. He is a parachutist, but not a paratrooper. Several months of training in tactics and weapons he will use once he is landed are necessary to make a paratrooper."

With a few weeks of grueling training behind him, the fledgling paratrooper is now ready to make his first actual jump from an airplane. He packs his own chute on a Friday and on the following Monday makes his first leap into space at a height of several thousand feet. On the following days jumps are made from lower heights.

This in abbreviated form is how the Canadian paratrooper earns his wings. It's the toughest training in any man's language, and behind all the physical preparations are the mental hazards which have to be faced. "I have the butterflies in my stomach everytime I make a jump," said one veteran paratrooper. Judge for yourself, how the novice feels.
