This troupe has been putting on performances all over the country for charitable purposes, and has been exceedingly well-received.

The meanest man in town, in our opinion, is the one who stole the money for the Milk for Britain Fund, milk bottle and all, from the counter of the Brewers Retail Store last Tuesday afternoon, while the employees were busy unloading trucks at the back of the premises. The Fund had already enabled over a thousand quarts of milk to be bought for British children through the Kinsmen's Club.

Answers To McGregor Charges

Mr. Hughes Cleaver, M.P. for Halton, has released the following reply to a recent editorial in the Globe & Mail:

A cartoon and a very misleading editorial appeared in the Toronto Globe & Mail of February 5th. As this newspaper has been consistently critical of our War Administration ever since the present Government was elected in 1940, I have ignored previous editorials, but in this instance, owing to mis-statements of fact included in the editorial, I do not feel that the matter should drop here. The following are the facts:

Mr. McGregor made a number of charges to the press in connection with No. 2 Shell Filling plant at Pickering, as follows:

1. Payroll padding (This is a criminal offence).
2. Theft of material (This is a criminal offence).
3. Mismanagement, both as to the design and the construction of the plant.

It is quite obvious that the first two of these charges, if true, are criminal offences and charges should be laid against the wrongdoers. As a consequence, the Agenda Committee of the War Expenditures Committee, simply forwarded the press release to the Minister of Munitions and Supply for immediate attention and he in turn passed them on to the Justice Department and the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, for action. As to the third charge, being that of mismanagement, this will be dealt with in due course by the War Expenditures Committee.

The Toronto Globe & Mail takes exception to this procedure and strongly resents the fact that the criminal charges have been referred to the R. C. M. P. The Agenda Committee of the War Expenditures Committee, which includes a representative from all of the different political parties in the House of Commons, was unanimous in this course of action and when the matter came up before the main committee of the six opposition members there was only one dissenter, Mr. McGregor. I know it will amaze readers of the Globe & Mail as much as it amazed me to learn that this newspaper does not approve of referring charges of Criminal offences to the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. The only possible explanation for their attitude is that the "Globe & Mail" knows there is no foundation to the charges and that the Mounties, with their usual efficiency, will soon make a report to that effect.

As to the charges of mismanagement, these, of course, are a totally different matter and if there is any ground for them the War Expenditures Committee will doubtless make a very thorough investigation.

An English society matron, visiting a farm in her new W.A.A.F. uniform, and feeling very patriotic, coldly eyed a young farmer busy milking a cow. "And how is it, my good man, that you are not at the front?" The farmer took a straw out of his mouth, spat and replied: "Because, ma'am, there ain't no milk at that end!"

DIRECTORS WAR PLANT RESIGN

J. P. Bickell, President Victory Aircraft Ltd., Malton, Succeeded by V. W. Scully

The board of directors of Victory Aircraft Ltd., Malton, has resigned and a new board has been constituted. It is announced by the Munitions Department.

J. P. Bickell, of Toronto, was succeeded as president of the firm by V. W. Scully, also of Toronto.

The announcement said Mr. Bickell asked to be relieved of his responsibilities as president and that his fellow directors had expressed a wish to retire at the same time, so the new president might have a free hand in reconstituting the board.

The directors who resigned were E. C. Fox, W. K. Fraser, S. H. Logan and J. J. Vaughan, all residents of Toronto. They were succeeded by Harold S. Beddoe, president of United-Carr Pastore Co. of Canada; Maj. J. E. Fahn, director-general of the Canadian Army Technical Development Board and president of John Inglis Co. Ltd.; Richard Riley, Grand Lodge representative of the International Association of Machinists, and L. F. Winchell, vice-president and general manager of Hinde & Dauch Paper Co., of Canada Ltd.

On accepting the new post, Mr. Scully resigned as president of War Supplies Limited, a Crown company handling purchases in Canada by agencies of the United States Government. He will be succeeded by F. G. Rounthwaite, general manager of North West Purchasing Ltd., and one-time director of purchasing for the Washington office of the Munitions Department.

PRINTING PRESS IN FRONT LINES

Printing presses on wheels now move into the front lines along with the army.

These mobile units are small, compact, lightweight, shops, completely equipped to turn-out maps and charts for troops, showing them just where they are, and where their objectives lie in the country ahead. The units also print propaganda leaflets to be dropped by air force pilots behind enemy lines.

A number of trucks and trailers, operating as a unit, make up these travelling shops, or "trains," as they are called. Some trailers are air conditioned to make sure equipment will work properly. A developing tank with a temperature control device is included, and an electric refrigerator goes along to preserve perishable materials.

Each train has its own power generators and filtration equipment to supply plenty of pure water, and each unit carries fire-fighting equipment. Vehicles are connected by an inter-unit telephone system. The trains can be completely camouflaged on short notice; materials for this purpose are standard equipment.

The most complete trains, supplied to the larger military organizations, include about 10 motorized outfits. These carry four presses, machines and accessories for making layouts and for photographic and plate processing work.

WILL FLY JERSEYS NORTH TO AKLAVIK

So great is the demand for Jersey milk among the white settlers and Mounties of Aklavik in the far north, that half a dozen Jersey heifers are soon to be flown by plane to augment the herd of 13 pure-bred Jersey cattle recently established by Dr. L. D. Livingstone, chief medical officer for the district. It was announced at the annual meeting of the Canadian Jersey Cattle Association at Brampton.

W. T. Hunter, secretary of the Quebec Jersey Breeders' Association, regulated how the Arctic physician-agriculturist cleared a 40-acre tract and experimented with the growing of feed and vegetables, and later established his Arctic dairy.

Dr. Livingstone is a graduate of Queen's University.

Moved by Murray, seconded by Wilson, that Joseph Sanford be paid $10.00 for extra postage.—Carried.

Moved by Murray, seconded by Currie, that road accounts be paid as presented, $54.—Carried.

Moved by Currie, seconded by Murray, that leave be granted to introduce a by-law to provide for road expenditure for the year 1944, and that said by-law be now read for a first time.—Carried.

Moved by Wilson, seconded by Cleave, that By-law No. 987 to provide for road expenditure for the year 1944, read a second and third time, be now read a second and third times and passed, and the seal of the Corporation be attached thereto.—Carried.

Moved by Murray, seconded by Currie, that the salary of the Clerk be raised $50.00 per annum, same to be retroactive to January 1st, 1944, and the Clerk be instructed to prepare a by-law to conform to same.—Carried.

Moved by Currie, seconded by Murray, that this council do now adjourn to meet March 6th, at 2 p.m., or at the call of the Reeve.—Carried.

IMPROVED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

JESUS ON THE MOUNTAIN AND IN THE VALLEY

LESSON TEXT—Mark 9:2-9, 17-27. GOLDEN TEXT—"I believe; help thou mine unbelief"—Mark 9:24.

The vision of the mountain top prepares the believer for service down in the valley. "Where there is no vision the people perish," said the wise man of old (Prov. 29:18). For want of a true vision of God, a knowledge of His truth, and the God-given constraint which makes men give themselves in sacrificial service, the people will perish in their sins.

But let men come to know the truth as it is in Christ, learn to know Him as the Son of God glorious and powerful, and then let them translate their knowledge of Christian truth and their personal spiritual experiences into the daily ministry to the needs of their fellow men, and there will be songs of salvation and joy.

I. Knowing (vv. 2-7). The transfiguration of Christ doubtless meant much to Him in preparation for His coming death and resurrection. It was a fore-glimpse of His kingdom glory.

In this lesson we are concerned with the experience of the disciples rather than the feelings of our Lord. Fundamental in both Christian life and service is a clear understanding of the person and work of Christ. One may come to Christ knowing little more than that He is the divine Saviour, and one may enter into Christian living with a meager knowledge of the doctrines of the Bible. But the Christian who fails to grow in knowledge will not grow in grace as he should.

God sets no premium on ignorance, in fact it is quite evident that the great blight on the Christian church today is the appalling lack of understanding of God's Word.

The disciples came to a fuller conviction that He was the Son of God as they saw Him transfigured and heard the Father say, "This is my beloved Son." They learned more plainly the truth of His coming death for the sins of all mankind. They saw in the indescribable beauty of that moment the foreglimpse of His coming glory. What important truths these are—His deity—His redemption—His coming kingdom. Do we have a clear grasp of these truths? If not, let us search the Scriptures.

II. Growing (v. 8). "Jesus only." He filled their vision and their hearts. They had made spiritual progress as they had seen His glory and heard the commanding voice of the Father. Great experiences of spiritual renewing and power are necessary to effective life and testimony. They may not be in outward manifestation, in fact they are more often in the inner recesses of the soul; but they transform men and send them forth to magnificent living for God. One wonders if much of the dearth of power in the Christian church is not to be attributed directly to the lack of such experiences with God.

The disciples had an unforgettable mountaintop experience. Even so have many others found the secret of power.

Let us remember that such privileges are not reserved for a few, they are the birthright of every Christian. Power without knowledge is a dangerous and destructive thing, but knowledge without power is a dead thing.

Let us study God's Word, but let the truth be baptized in the overflowing spiritual power of a personal experience with God.

In regeneration all that Christ is and is for us is made available. If we have not taken out our inheritance let us do it at once.

III. Serving (vv. 17-27). One of the lessons that seems hard to learn and to keep constantly effective in the life of a Christian is that mountaintop experiences of spiritual uplift are not an end in themselves, but a preparation for service. All too often we come to regard such times of peculiar blessing, whether in the privacy of our own room or in the great conference of Christian workers, as something which should glow warmly in our own hearts, making us glad in the Lord, and not as a preparation for ministry to others.

Jesus and the disciples went up to the place of prayer, into the place of glory, and down to the place of service. How fitting is that sequence.

Much confusion exists in the church because those who have foolishly abandoned God's Word and substituted the energy of the flesh for spiritual power have been most diligent in service to humanity; while those who know and accept the truth about Christ, and who profess to believe in the power of the Spirit-filled life, have failed to serve their needy neighbors.

"But Jesus took him by the hand and lifted him up" (v. 27). Verses 28 and 29 indicate that the disciples might have done the same by believing prayer.
