Spring in the Air

And spring in the air means grief for your car's motor, unless you hustle around for a spring oil change-over. Winter oils thin out rapidly under warm weather conditions and offer little protection against wear.

This protection is vital now, when your present car must last for an indefinite period, so why not get rid of that old winter oil. We'll give your car a thorough spring checkup at the same time.

Lubrication

We specialize in lubrication of all kinds—flushing radiator and crank case. Change to heavier grease for warmer weather.

Another Letter From The Children's Aid Society

(This is the third article prepared by the Association of Children's Aid Societies of the Province of Ontario)

"History tells us that in France people became interested in children born out of wedlock owing to their decomposed bodies polluting the water supply from the River Seine."

Let us turn from this almost incredible paragraph in the social history of mankind to the feelings and motives that inspired the implementing of the finest piece of legislation anywhere in the world to protect the child.

The last article told something of the campaign that touched the heart of a reporter of the old Toronto Globe at the suffering and depravity to be found among little children begging, selling newspapers and shoe laces in Toronto. No one could have been in a better position to see this agonizing, sordid side of life than a newspaperman! These children often sought shelter at night around the stove in the reporters' room; they lived in the side streets and alleyways of downtown Toronto; they were to be found daily in the police courts.

What do we find this newspaperman, Mr. J. J. Kelso, saying when attempting to found the first Children's Aid Society in Canada in 1891, he was asked: "Why Another Society?"

"Because" replied Mr. Kelso, "up to the present we have no society to look after neglected children!"

Three years before, Mr. Kelso and a little group he had gathered around him had succeeded in obtaining from the Ontario Government a piece of legislation—very meagre in its scope, but the seed of what was to follow. It stated that neglected children under fourteen (please note that!) could be committed to any society or institution willing to receive them and authorized by government, and for a special commission to try youthful offenders apart from adults.

A shelter was established as a temporary refuge for destitute and neglected children in 1890. The following year the Toronto's Children's Aid Society was founded. In 1893 the foundation stone of all that we have today in Ontario for child protection was laid when Hon. John Gibson, later Sir John Gibson, Provincial Secretary, introduced the Children's Protection Act.

From this Act, with subsequent amendments and additions over the past half century has stemmed in vigorous and beautiful growth the whole effort and undertaking—governed by statute, but given its life and spirit by communities of people—famously known as "Children's Aid!" Let us never forget J. J. Kelso and Sir John Gibson. From an scorn of individual compassion and pertinacity grew a great oak tree that shelters the children who have no normal root-tree of their own!

Let us see with what vision these foundations were laid! It is especially interesting to note that the original intentions embodied in Sir John Gibson's Act corresponds exactly with the most enlightened attitude today in regard to what is the best, the most normal and most successful way of caring for boys and girls deprived of their own homes.

The highest concept today all over the world is to provide the child with the nearest possible approach to what should be a normal home life. Not to institutionalize him, but to place him in a natural family setting, sharing both the privileges and the disciplines of the normal child.

There will be something to say later about boarding or foster home care and what thousands of foster homes in this province have done for Children's Aid Society wards; how those homes are selected and supervised; how foster parents are assisted and made part of the great family of Children's Aid. You will be told something about the magnificent, often selfless service of thousands of foster parents.

But listen to what Mr. Adam Brown, Hamilton's "grand old man" had to say about his friend Hon. John Gibson's Act at the founding of Hamilton's Children's Aid Society in 1894: "The first principle of the Children's Protection Act is the improvement of the home and the second to place homeless children in good foster homes."

Every day throughout Ontario, trained, experienced, humane social service workers of Children's Aid are striving first to rehabilitate the home; to introduce into it, by kindly patient understanding service, higher standards and more intelligent concepts of homemaking. Never lose sight of this big part of Children's Aid Work! "It has always been my view," continued Mr. Adam Brown, "that the voluntary administration, the voluntary working in local communities should be a principle to be adopted. I have always felt that this should not be allowed to become an ordinary governmental department of administration—that it should be the result of philanthropic efforts in localities; that the work should be carried on for the love of the work by the good men and women in the various communities where the act is being applied." Yes, this was designed to be and has steadily become a unique service to the children—legislated for and protected by Government, but kept a living, breathing, human organization by the people in the community—your Children's Aid Society! (To be continued)

AUTHOR-ACTOR

Bernard Braden, the Canadian radio actor who is currently engaged with leading roles in the CBC drama series, "Stage 44", is in the role of playwright. His own recently completed play, "Cosmopolite Unlimited" will be the 11th production from "Stage 44", a weekly series being produced by Andrew Allan from the CBC Concert Studios, Toronto. The broadcasts are heard over the National Network on Sundays, at 9:00 p.m. EDT, 10:00 p.m. ADT.

SUGAR

Large quantities of sugar have been diverted to war uses—alcohol and synthetic rubber. Canada depends upon imported sugar for four-fifths of her supply. This is allocated from a world pool under agreement with Great Britain and the United States.

MORE ELECTRIC STOVES

M. C. Lowe, Administrator of Electrical Apparatus, announces that more electric stoves, range-tops and grills will be available for the Canadian market this year.

The total units available will not be large and it may be some time before production starts. Permission has been granted for manufacture within the next twelve months up to 40% of 1940 production of electric stoves and 60% for range-tops, cooking plates or grills. Mr. Lowe states that constant studies and investigations are being made to check availability of materials and other items which will allow the relaxation of restrictions and the return of industry to normal operation.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to express my sincere thanks to my neighbours and friends for their kindness to me in my recent sad loss of a beloved husband and also for the beautiful floral tributes received. My appreciation is also extended to the pallbearers.
