The theme of the play centered around a "man of the world" who believed that the church had lost its power in modern social life, and that the world would be better off without a church. But he is convinced through a dream that the work of the church is very real in any community, and that it is the foundation of most community life.

money. We are earning the money. Savings are greater. Payrolls are larger than ever before in all our history.

Should we, the people of Canada meet that challenge? We should. Don't forget that this is the peoples' war—our war. This is no war of conquest or aggression. This is a war in defense of the things that make life worth living for the common man.

This is a war for the right to continue our Canadian way of living — a war for freedom of speech and worship, and freedom from want and fear.

No amount is too small. None too large. 3 cents buys a bullet. $960,000 buys a corvette. The size of your neighbors purchase is no measure of your own. Circumstances alter cases. Your purchase is your own affair, but remember, if it is anything less than every dollar you can skimp and save and scrape and sacrifice, you are not doing your full duty.

When you are asked by the Victory Loan salesman who will call on you within the next three weeks, how much you can lend, buy all the bonds you can. It's a habit on which our future depends.
