JESUS' PROGRAM FOR MEETING LIFE'S PROBLEMS

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 4:1-4; 6:11-34; Luke 4:18-21.
GOLDEN TEXT—Man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God.—Matt. these 4:4.

Problems, sorrows, needs, anxieties—how they press in on mankind from every direction. What is he to do about them? He cannot meet them in his own strength. They worry him almost to the point of distraction. What shall he do?

There is just one answer, and it is blessedly simple and completely satisfying. Take your burdens to the Lord and leave them there! Cast all your care upon Him, for He careth for you (1 Pet. 5:7).

From the teachings of Jesus our lesson tells us why and how we may do this. Let us not miss its glorious and convicting message.

I. We Can Overcome Temptation Through Christ Matt. (4:1-4).

Temptation is the common lot of all mankind (1 Cor. 10:13). The strongest and most noble of men are subject to it. Angels were tempted, and our scripture reveals that even Jesus was tempted. We recognize that Jesus was tempted as the Messiah (vv. 3, 6) and as one without sin (Heb. 4:15), but it is also true that He was tempted in all points as we are, apart from sin, and that we may learn from His temptation how we may meet and be the victors over temptation.

We learn of our Lord that temptations may be victoriously overcome.

1. By the right use of Scripture. If Jesus needed that weapon, how can we do without it? But how can we use Scripture if we do not study it and hide it in our hearts?

2. By dependence on God. Every Scripture used by Jesus honored God. We cannot fight Satan in our own strength. To attempt to do so is to fail utterly. The real victory for the Christian is to bring Satan back to the cross where Christ won a decisive victory over him.

3. By denouncing Satan. Jesus sent him on his way. We may do the same in Jesus' name. It is always a serious error to try to argue with Satan or to engage in any discussion with him. Let us meet him with Scripture and say "Get thee hence."

II. We Can Learn to Trust God for our Daily Needs (Matt. 6:31-34).

Some want to be rich. Their folly is made clear in verses 19-24. But then there are some who while not wanting to be rich, are in constant anxiety about food and raiment for the morrow.

What is the answer of the Lord Jesus? Consider the birds. They are not able to work, nor are they able to pray, but God feeds them. Consider the glory of the flowers of the fields, for not even a king can dress himself in such beauty. "Are ye not much better than they?" (v. 26).

"As far as known, no bird ever tried to build more nests than its neighbors; no fox ever fretted because it had only one hole in which to hide; no squirrel ever died of anxiety lest he should not lay up enough nuts for two winters instead of one; and no dog ever lost any sleep over the fact that he did not have enough bones laid aside for his declining years" (Public Health Service).

Proper forethought is good and right, for we are intelligent beings, but anxiety about our daily needs is always dishonoring to God.

Yes, says someone that's all very well, but how about the future? Well, why should we fret about that? It is in God's hands, and even if it were in our hands, what could we do about it? Even tomorrow, with its needs and its blessings, with its joy and its sorrows, is not yet here, and when it does come, there will be God's gracious provision for each passing hour.

III. We Can Follow Christ in Sacrificial Service (Luke 4:18-21).

Let us be clear at once that we cannot do what Christ did, for He is the Son of God. He had a special ministry to perform as the Messiah. But we may learn much from this story.

Jesus began His ministry among His own people even though He knew of their unbelief. He used the Word of God as the background for His calling. He recognized the special need of the poor and the suffering, and especially of those who were bruised and broken by sin.

In all these things we may follow His example. Let us declare the truth to those nearest to us, even if they do reject it. Let us look to God's Word for our call and our commission—different from that of Jesus, but nevertheless from God and for His glory.

Then, too, let us learn of Him that we are to serve those who are most needy and possibly neglected, serving their physical needs, but above all bringing to them the light of God's redeeming grace.

Here is light from the Lord on our problems of sin, sorrow, supply and service.

WEEKLY NEWSMEN ATTEND CHURCHILL-ROOSEVELT PARLEY

By arrangement the Canadian Weekly Newspaper Association had two representatives at the recent press conference in Quebec. They were R. A. Giles, second vice-president, LaChute, and D. R. Wilson, one of the Quebec directors. Following is their story of the conference:

After a lapse of just over a year, the ancient city of Quebec has once more become the busy hub of the world's revolving wheel and when we say busy we mean busy. The British Empire, its leader, Hon. Winston Churchill, and the United States of America, its president, Franklin D. Roosevelt, again in conference to discuss recent developments and the future welfare of the whole nation—Yes the whole world. That Russia is not present at this meeting bears no reflection on that country but on the contrary would suggest that the rapid advance of the Russians requires even that Mr. Stalin, with his great wisdom and strategy remain on the job that no stone be left unturned for a speedy victory.

The press conference was held Saturday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at the Citadel, when after a long and tiresome wait, due to the honorary degree of D.D.L. being conferred upon Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt (the first occasion in the history of McGill University where convocation has ever taken place outside the campus), the press were finally admitted. Needless to say it was a mad scramble as to who had preferred positions, but the C.W.N.A. representatives were well to the front and had the honor of greeting the leaders of Great Britain, United States and Canada.

The first speaker, President Roosevelt, expressed pleasure at meeting again in Quebec City and spoke as follows. "We have made plans as far as any human being can possibly make plans today. Things are moving very rapidly and we have many thoughts on major operations. We are unable to state a specific date when the European war will end but the sooner the better. When this occurs, army, navy and air force will be unitedly used against Japan—a war of quick conclusion."

"It is not a question of one nation running the whole show, or naming a supreme command, it is a question of finding room and opportunity of marshalling our entire resources against Japan, the difficulty of which consists in bringing all opportunities of men and munitions together on land and sea—space being so small."

In closing his remarks, Mr. Roosevelt said, "We are glad to be here again, and we consider Quebec an ideal spot for a conference, with Prime Minister King and the Governor General as our hosts." Mr. Churchill then spoke for some minutes and sanctioned Mr. Roosevelt's remarks stating that he had been pressing for another conference. "While the telegraph is a wonderful medium it does not take the place of personal contact and I felt a further meeting was long overdue."

Referring to last year's gathering Mr. Churchill pointed out that the conference was not an idle and useless meeting, but from it came arrangements by which large armies were hurled across the channel to liberate the beautiful land of France suffering under the heel of Hitler.

Continuing, he said, "While one part of our task is nearing completion there is another which has to be undertaken in common—we have need to consider, when after the downfall of Nazi Europe the enormous forces can be applied as quickly as possible to the will of those they have outraged."

"I read," he said, "in papers one inch thick, compared with ours of meagre proportions, that Britain is trying to shirk her duty and wishes to throw the whole burden upon the United States. The only point to be adjusted is that the United States is keeping too much to itself. However, an amicable agreement has been reached and all forces that possibly can be united will be used against Japan. There is no feeling of animosity but all will assert their rights to be in at the kill." "So what," he continued, "We have not told you of our plans from day to day, as they must of necessity be kept secret. The enemy will and have heard the results and what was once a design will become a mortal blow. So let it be with this conference. Just in the same way as we worked out details in the last conference, I cannot doubt but our present plans will also work out, our enemies must be stripped of the powers to molest the world."

"We have conducted a successful war on a scale, and with a measure of success you will go far to match. Do not fear about the future the same progress which has led us in the past will bring us through until the long strain of war is over."

"And so, gentlemen," he concluded, "It has been a pleasure meeting with you, and probably at our next conference we will be enabled to unfold to you the plans which we have made on this occasion."

Prime Minister King, in a few remarks, thanked the speakers for their interview and extended a cordial invitation to the press group to attend a dinner at the Chateau that evening. So ended another vital and important conference of great leaders who both proclaimed it one of the best and shortest yet on record.

This particular Thanksgiving, we have many things for which to be thankful—and not the least of these is the sterling performance given by our Farmers throughout Canada.

In the face of acute shortage of experienced help, (often seeing their own sons "gone active"), compelled to work extremely long hours, Canadian Farmers—with the aid of their loyal families and Farm Commandos—have done an outstanding job.

Looking back over these War years, we Canadians have never suffered for lack of basic foods. If occasionally, some things were in short supply, in the main we have had plenty of good, wholesome, nourishing food for our tables, week-in and week-out.

So, this Thanksgiving, let's not forget to say a heartfelt "thank you" to the uniting Farmers and their families, wherever they are, in this Our Country.
