The Editor's Corner

WE DID IT AGAIN

The results of the 7th Victory Loan in Georgetown and Esqueness have proven once again that this district is not only one of the most prosperous in Ontario, but that its citizens are ready and willing to lend their money as one contribution to the cause of justice and right. Over half a million dollars worth of bonds were bought in this small corner of the Dominion. Every industrial concern soared way over the quota set and the district as a whole was almost 50 per cent. above the quota set from district headquarters in Oakville.

It was a job well done, but we must not rest on our laurels. There is still a war to be won and half a million dollars which we will some day get back with interest is but a minor share of the part we at home can play in this great struggle. Soon the Red Cross will be calling for more blood donors—the Navy League will be packing ditty bags for the sailors, the Soldiers' Comforts Committee will be sending more cigarettes to the men overseas. There will be another Victory Loan, though we pray that the world will be at peace before that time comes, and we can be saving our dollars to put Georgetown over the top again.

There are the simple every-day things which we can do for the men in the forces, letter-writing and parcels which show them that we are thinking of them. And greater perhaps than all this, we can be thinking and planning for the future so that no soldier from Georgetown and Esqueness can say that he didn't come back to a better town and a better township. Rehabilitation, town planning, a sewage system, improvements at the High School, factory conditions, recreational facilities for the young folks—these are only some of the things that should be in our minds today.

SOME CHANGES ARE NEEDED

The quality of the editorials written by G. H. S. students as part of the Education Week program is most certainly a tribute to their English teacher. We have had many favourable comments from readers and we are already looking forward to next year's Education Week and the pleasure of reading editorials composed by the young people of the community.

Perhaps the townspeople, through their representatives on the High School Board, will now see fit to take action on what has been far too long a limiting factor in the local educational picture. It has been pointed out in several of the editorials that we are "behind the times" at G.H.S. The lack of proper athletic equipment and a gymnasium, the need for an assembly hall, and the handicap of a purely academic course which ignores manual training, domestic science and business training have once more been pointed out by those most vitally concerned—the students themselves.

If we fail to provide our young people with the training they need for a happy, profitable life, then we are falling down on the job. Georgetown is growing and prospering and education must keep pace with this growth and prosperity if we are to benefit from it. We should like to see the High School Board make a comprehensive study of the matter and begin making plans for a bigger and better G.H.S.

ELECTIONS IN THE OFFING

If you overhear someone talking about the "Election" it can bring to mind several electoral contests . . . the one just over in the United States, the probable Dominion election, and the town and township elections.

We think most Canadians were glad to see Roosevelt elected. Exactly why, we cannot say, unless that old axiom about changing horses in mid-stream has penetrated our subconscious mind to unsuspected depths. Perhaps the fact that Prime Minister Winston Churchill and President Roosevelt agree so well and obviously like each other has something to do with it. It would be too bad to break up a winning team like that when we are so nearly at the end of a long hard race. But several frank American publications have given us the impression that the Democratic Party has not succeeded too well on domestic issues of recent years, and as a result quite a strong dissenting vote was cast for the Republican candidate, Dewey. However, these things do not loom so importantly to the outsider, and Canadians, in common with all the Allies, feel it a good thing that President Roosevelt is to continue in office for the unprecedented fourth term. When peace comes, it will be as critical a time as was the war. It is imperative that the men at the peace table be intimately acquainted with the details of all that has gone before, in order to mete out justice and a lasting peace. We feel that President Roosevelt is the best the States has to offer, for that position.

After watching with great interest the election in the States, Canadian eyes and ears will be attuned to their own capital this week, when Commons will meet in a special session to consider the question of reinforcing our overseas army with men who have been called for service in Canada only. Serious charges about inadequacy of properly trained reinforcements overseas, have been made, denied, and made again. Public feeling about such political mumbo-jumbo has arisen, and Canadians have made known in no uncertain terms their desire to know the truth of the matter, if necessary, and have the proper steps taken, whether it means offending one part of the country or not. It is likely that an election will be held in January, when the Canadian people will decide this important question.

True, there are no great issues at stake, but nevertheless, straws in the wind indicate there will be a well-contested municipal election here the first week in December. Georgetown's progressiveness is always evinced at election time, by the number of public-spirited men who come forward to offer their services on the town governing body. A goodly number of candidates and a large poll are signs of a healthy interest in town affairs. It has been so other years, and so far this year there are no signs of diminishing interest.

RUMMAGE SALES

The ever-popular rummage sales have proved a veritable gold-mine to the church organizations and others which have sponsored them. It is beside the point that the ladies in charge always wonder where all the used clothing comes from—the fact remains that after apparently "scraping the bottom of the barrel" after a big sale, by the time another sale rolls around in six or eight months—scads of clothing comes in again, just as good or better than the last lot. Talk about wartime conservation . . . These rummage sales do more towards that end than all the lectures WPTB economists could ever give.

Dorothy Alva Curry, wife of the Tweed News editor, writes an interesting column every week, and last week she told of an incident that would be amusing if it weren't a bit on the tragic side. It seems one of the good ladies of Tweed who was on a rummage sale committee, was more than a trifle late for the sale opening. This she claimed was due to the fact that her husband came home exceptionally late for dinner. She dashed into the sale ahead of the line-up—threw her coat over a chair and pitched right into selling and wrapping up goods.

The sale was over and the clerks-for-a-day were donning their coats to go home, while discussing the day's receipts. The lady with the procrastinating husband looked for her coat. It was neither on the chair nor on the coat hook—in fact it just wasn't there. Someone had sold it; a $60.00 coat, worn only one season, and gone, goodness knows where. It was a dejected-looking female who returned to her home that evening, and though it wasn't so much as inferred, I have a suspicion that said hubby was blamed for the whole mishap.

An advertisement was placed in the local paper and (as all such advertisements do) it got results—to a degree at least. A lady called to say she was sure the coat she had purchased was the missing one but she was SO SORRY about it. She had cut it up the day before to make a coat for her small daughter.
