 A WELCOME HOME

Up to the present the members of the Reception Committee of the Georgetown-Rehabilitation Council have been making personal calls on all servicemen returning from overseas. This serves as an official welcome home from the community and we think the boys have appreciated it.

Now, with men returning in larger and larger groups, the committee's job has become too complicated to continue as in the past and a new system has been devised. From now on, every returned man will receive a post card in the mail asking him to meet the committee and naming the place, time and date. This will ensure that no serviceman is missed and that none of the lads who have done so much for us will fail to receive a proper welcome home.

GEORGETOWN SHARES CIVIC RECEPTION

When the 1st Canadian Parachute Battalion arrived in Halifax last week, it was the first overseas battalion to return to Canada as a unit and the first time the Eastern city could give the troops the proper kind of a welcome home. From Halifax, the battalion was split into detachments for each of the military districts, and on Saturday morning the 350-man detachment for M.D. 2 arrived in Toronto and was given a reception there by the city fathers. Georgetown was represented in the detachment by Sgt. Jim Sargent, the only district man to our knowledge who served overseas with the paratroops.

We are glad that at least one Georgetown man has had the kind of welcome he deserves. It symbolizes the way we feel for every returning veteran and we hope that other returned men who have not been privileged to share in such an occasion will think of Sgt. Sargent as a representative who received this honour on behalf of all of them.

We hope that the army will decide to send the Lorne Scots home as a regiment and give Georgetown folk a chance to hold a real civic reception of its own. It would be eminently fitting that this local regiment which went overseas four years ago, and whose members have served in every European theatre of war, should be given a bang-up welcome back.

THIS DESERVES YOUR SUPPORT

The current campaign to raise six million dollars for a new building for the Toronto Hospital for Sick Children is something which merits the support of every reader of this paper. It is fitting that the Georgetown Lions Club has undertaken the job of making a house-to-house canvas in this district, for the work of Lionism is closely allied with the objectives of the Sick Children's Hospital. Statistics show that two out of every three children admitted to the hospital are out-of-town patients and anyone acquainted with local municipal affairs knows that dozens of Georgetown children have been helped back to health by the care and skill available there.

The local campaign will be organized on similar lines to the Red Cross drive and we know that our citizens will give their best support to a worthy cause. Individuals and organizations are urged to make their contributions generous and to help put the Hospital's building fund over the top quickly.

SOLDIERS HAVE CLOTHING PRIORITY

Designed to help discharged servicemen secure a suit of civilian clothing as speedily as possible, each soldier on discharge now receives a "Priority Suit Purchase Certificate" which may be used anytime within one month from the date of issue. When the former soldier presents this certificate to a tailor it signifies that this is an essential order and one that should be filled within thirty days. The retailer is then given priority assistance from the Wartime Prices and Trade Board in securing suiting material.

Another form which the ex-serviceman receives is the application for Civilian Ration Book, designed to enable the veteran to obtain his ration book with a minimum of delay. This is presented or mailed to the ration office in Georgetown and a Ration Book is given to the applicant.

PUBLIC SCHOOL NEWS

By Don Brill
 On Friday night, June 22, at seven o'clock, a softball game took place between Georgetown Public School and Norval. Georgetown won out by a score of 11 - 5. The game was highly contested and all spectators were quite satisfied. The batteries did excellent work. They were: for Norval—Lyons and Cunningham; for Georgetown—Muir and Hamilton. Bill Bullivant sparked his team's win with three well-earned runs. Bill's fielding stood out, also that of Don Brydon. George Rogers hit hardest for Georgetown, batting out two triples and a double. Cunningham fared well for Norval by getting on base every time and catching very well. Clarke Lyons sparked his team's efforts by using vocal enthusiasm which nearly had Georgetown fooled.

The line-ups for the teams were:—
 Norval—1b Russ Fendley; ss, Bill Pomeroy; rf, Dunc Robinson; 3b Bird; lf, Carter; 2b McCourt; cf, Ron Fendley; batt, Lyons and Cunningham.
 Georgetown—2b Bullivant; rf, Don Herrington; cf, Dillon; ss, Brydon; 1b Bouskill; 3b Thompson; lf, Rogers; batt, Muir and Hamilton; alternates—Tapp, Golden, Burns.

CONSERVATIVES ENJOY EUCHRE AND BRIDGE

A pleasant social evening was held under the auspices of the Young Progressive Conservative Association of Georgetown, in the I.O.O.F. hall last Friday evening. Fifteen tables enjoyed playing bridge and euchre, and following were prizewinners: Mrs. P. W. Cleave, Mrs. Victor King, Miss B. White, Mrs. Wm. McNally, Messrs. W. C. McDowell, Frank Tyler, P. W. Cleave and Herbert Cleave.

While refreshments were being prepared Mr. F. D. McNally introduced Mr. Stan Hall, the successful Provincial Candidate, and Mr. Alan Nicholson, the Federal Candidate, who gave brief addresses.

The social committee in charge of the event comprised of Mrs. Betty Anderson, convener, assisted by Miss Edith Squires, Miss Marjorie Mackenzie, Miss Isabel Thompson and Miss Whyte. Mrs. F. D. McNally looked after arrangements for the euchre, and the ladies of the Progressive Conservative Association assisted with refreshments. The prizes for cards were donated by Messrs. Ed. Fleck, R. B. Fugals, Art Beaumont and George Arnold.

MRS. JOHN BARNES, NORVAL RESIDENT DIES SUDDENLY

A resident of Georgetown and Norval districts, all her life, Mrs. Frances Netalla Ruddell, wife of Mr. John Barnes, passed away at the family residence Friday morning, June 15th, following an illness of a few days duration. She was born near Georgetown seventy-two years ago, being a daughter of the late Francis and Maria Ruddell; and all her life she resided within a short distance of the place of her birth.

In religion, the late Mrs. Barnes was a member of the Norval United Church, and in her early days took an untiring part in all organizations connected with church work. She is survived by her husband, one daughter, Miss Bertha Barnes, at home, and one son, Frank Barnes of Georgetown, also one brother, Ward Ruddell, also of Georgetown.

The funeral took place on Saturday afternoon from the family home, where the service was conducted by Rev. F. J. Dunkop, of Norval, and Rev. R. V. Wilson, of Orangeville, a former pastor of Norval United Church. The committal service was conducted at Hillcrest Cemetery, Norval.

DEDICATION AT ST. ALBAN'S

At St. Alban's Church, Glen Williams, last Sunday morning, after the processional hymn and the National Anthem, the Rector, dedicated Altar-candlesticks, presented by Mr. and Mrs. Cutten of Guelph, in memory of the late Joseph Beaumont, in the following words: "To the glory of God, in devout memory of Joseph Beaumont, and for the use of this Church, we dedicate these candlesticks, in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost, Amen."

Hymns, lesson, and sermon, as well as the prayers, presented Jesus as the Light of the World.

PRESENTATION AT S. S. NO. 4 ESQUISING

On Friday evening about ninety pupils, ex-pupils and friends of Miss Wilma Stull met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Wilson to honour her before she leaves the section to join the staff of Georgetown Public School. Mr. Alan Harrop was chairman for the evening. Games and progressive euchre were enjoyed. An address was read by Miss Margaret Brown and a beautiful lamp presented to Miss Stull by Earl Wilson. All joined in singing "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow." Messrs. Lester Brown, Guy Wilson, J. A. Gilbert and Alan Harrop made fitting remarks after a song-song. Lunch was served by the ex-pupils.

The Old Office Game

By LOIS EVANS COOK
 McClure Syndicate—WNU Features.

LEONADUS PLINE sat behind his glass-topped desk with expensively groomed, impregnable assurance. A pucker of a pout formed around his lips that two hours later would methodically smack their way through the contents of a luncheon tray which his secretary, Miss Seacy, would bring to him.

At the moment Miss Seacy, her notebook on her knee, darted an apprehensive look at him.

"This water," he began, turning distastefully away from the silver jug at his elbow.

In a comprehending flash Miss Seacy clutched the pitcher and tipped from his carpeted office. In a few seconds she was back with it freshly filled. She handed a goblet of water across the desk and expectantly sat down again. All of a sudden she thought rebelliously, is a plain leaf to wave across his brow.

But should anyone have glanced at her through the door he would have seen only a small trim figure in black, with a strand of pearls at her throat, a coronet braid of dark hair setting off her quietly pretty features.

Abruptly Mr. Pline raised a large, pale, well-cared-for hand to remove his nose glasses that all through the day would be shifted from nose to desk and from desk to nose. "You may put aside your book," he said ceremoniously.

Miss Seacy's pretty lips parted in astonishment. "Yes, m'lord," mentally replied, he usually mind. "What have I done now?" it continued rakishly.

"Miss Seacy," resumed Mr. Pline's best executive voice. "Do you realize that today is a very special day?"

Miss Seacy's brown eyes were suddenly wary.

"Today," intoned Mr. Pline, "marks the fifth anniversary of your employment in our company. I hardly need to tell you of the esteemed place you hold with us for the loyal and capable service you have rendered. And in behalf of this commendable record in length of time and quality of service I wish to present you with this token of my appreciation." Expansively he handed a large, finely textured envelope to Miss Seacy.

Carefully she pulled out the unsealed flap and drew forth an ornately bordered and embossed document. The elegantly engraved message announced to an indifferent world that Miss Joanna Louise Seacy, by virtue of five years of service in the L. A. Pline Company was duly entitled to this Certificate of Merit.

That was all. No green bills. No bonus. Miss Seacy looked like a child who had just bitten into a disappointing piece of candy. But Mr. Pline in his glow of benevolence did not notice. "As the years go on," he beamed, "I hope to add many more."

"Oh, no, Mr. Pline," said Miss Seacy's mutinous mind within her. "Not for little Joanna." She managed to say, "Thank you, Mr. Pline." And then she heard herself adding, "Thanks for opening my eyes, too. I didn't realize I'd been plugging away here that long. Remember the morning I came? I was a bright-eyed infant of twenty. I could have kissed you for letting me enter these sacred doors to learn the business from the ground up for Deb Parade Frocks. And I was soon to realize my dream—planning sales promotion for Deb Parade. Assistant to Helene, that's what I was to be. Assistant in sales promotion, because I was a girl with ideas. And while I was still in my youthful daze someone led me to the files and I got lost there for a couple of years. Then I doubled for a dictaphone operator one day and was lost there for another year. So far as I can see Helene has never had an assistant in her life. As a result, I've been filling shorthand books for you for three years."

"Mr. Pline, I'm just beginning to see myself in a very discouraging light. I'm not blaming you. I'm sitting here with the sudden realization that I've been dumb. I'm not a step nearer to sales promotion than I ever was. I thank I go home," Mr. Pline. She whirled out of her chair.

"One moment," ordered Mr. Pline dramatically. "For five years I've been waiting for you to tell me that you're ready to promote Deb Parade. Background? Of course you needed background. Was it my fault that it took you five years to speak up? In my company the go-aheaders have to do that. You're in sales promotion now, Miss Seacy. You're not Helene's assistant. You're in charge. Let's see what you can do."

Miss Seacy's eyes were round with fear. "Oh, do you think I can do it?"

"None of that," majestically commanded Mr. Pline. "Promote!"

All eyes were upon Miss Seacy as she made her way to her desk. "That was a long session," remarked Helene. "Are you quitting too?"

"No, I've been promoted." Then she was struck with the meaning of Helene's question. "Did you say 'quitting too'? Are you quitting?"

"Certainly. I gave notice about an hour ago. Effective in two weeks."

"Why, that bid windbag!" exclaimed Miss Seacy. There was reluctant admiration in her voice.

RETOUR COURTEOUS
 Rumor tells of a happening in a Canadian military hospital which was visited by a high-ranking member of the Government.
 The dignitary in question made a very pleasing inspection of the hospital, stopping at bedside, here and there in the various wards and exchanging a few words with the patients. As the tour went on and his feet grew tired he reduced his remarks to a single sentence, uttered with a charming smile: "Well, my lad, I hope you'll soon be out of here. This went well with the troops, who all answered "Thank you very much, Sir." All that is to say, except one boy who was a little flustered at bobbing with the great of the land. When he heard the stock sentence he blushed and stammered: "The — the same to you, Sir."
