

MAKING BETTER PEOPLE for a BETTER WORLD

THE HUMAN TOUCH ON THE HOME FRONT

Many thousands of Canadians materially benefited from the personal services of The Salvation Army last year in its Materoity Homes and Hospitals, Old Folks' Homes, Prisons and Police Court Work, Children's Homes, Children's Summer Camps, Missing Friends Service, Free Labour Service, Men's Hostels.

● Out of the waste and weariness of war, humanity looks hopefully to the promise of a better world.

A better world demands better people, the prevention of human waste.

HALF A MILLION CANADIANS

Out of Canada's 11 1/2 million population, one industry alone—the pulp and paper industry—provides direct livelihood for 1/2 million people. As a job-maker, the industry holds a vitally important place in our national life.

Local retailers in mill towns, and the communities generally, benefit from the $70,000,000 annually paid in wages and salaries to 37,000 men and women employed in the mills. And from mill expenditures for light, fuel, water and taxes.

Communities in all parts of the country benefit from even larger sums in wages paid to about 150,000 seasonal workers in the woods. Indirectly, thousands of other Canadian jobs are maintained by the industry's purchases of supplies and use of transportation.

ACTIVE SERVICE NOTES

Attracting much interest in the Herald window these past few weeks has been a collection of articles sent to Mrs. V. Bedell by her nephew, Cpl. Wilfred Hanccombe of Four Falls, N.B., serving with the Canadian forces in Germany. Taken from a German corporal, they included a compass, leather belt and lanyard, a German-English dictionary, silverware and a number of other articles.

A pair of large wooden shoes from Holland, sent home to his mother by Pte. J. G. Collier, in Germany with No. 16 Cdn. General Hospital have also been displayed in the Herald window.

In the air force since two years ago last May, LAW Jean Mackenzie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Mackenzie, is being released from the RCAF this week and will be returning to Georgetown. Miss Mackenzie has been stationed at the Technical training School, St. Thomas, and latterly at Trenton.
