

JOHN T. SHANKS DIED IN THE WEST

At Brandon, Manitoba, John T. Shanks passed away suddenly on August 30th in his seventy-third year. In June, 1906, he married Ida Wrigglesworth of Ashgrove, Ont., she having predeceased her husband April, 1938. John Shanks grew to manhood on a farm on the fifth line Trafalgar township. The family moved to Pettapiece, Manitoba, in 1901, taking up land in that section. About two years ago he retired from farming and moved to Brandon. He was a very successful farmer and was interested in community life for the betterment of society, an ardent church and Sunday School worker. He was also actively engaged in fraternal societies holding membership in the Masonic Order, Corinthian Lodge No. 15, Rapid City, and was Past Worshipful Master and Past District Deputy Grand Master. He was also a member of the Foresters and Odd Fellows societies. There was always a welcome at the Shanks home for Ontario people or any person who was in need of a helping hand. Frequently he returned to the home of his boyhood in Trafalgar to renew acquaintances in the community. Surviving are one daughter, Ruth Shanks, Reg. N., and one brother, Robert, both of Brandon. A sister, Mrs. Albert Brown, (Nellie) passed away in April, 1916. The funeral service was conducted by Rev. W. R. Donogh, in the Pettapiece United Church. Members of the Masonic Order conducted their services in the church and at the graveside. Burial was made in the family plot in Pettapiece cemetery.

By JOHN C. PORT
McClure Syndicate—WNU Features.

THE Old Man scooted his chair away from the desk in the corner of the print shop, known as his office and handed a sheet of typewritten paper to the boy at the linotype. "Page one, column one," he said briefly. Then he stalked to the rear of the shop. "Speedy!" he called, and the youth who was oiling the outmoded cylinder press straightened and ceased his operations.

"Yes, sir." The Old Man stroked his chin thoughtfully and regarded the boy through narrowed bloodshot eyes. "If you pi a form tonight it will be the third consecutive week you've done it. A pretty poor average when you consider this is a weekly paper."

Speedy ran his hand over his smooth black hair. "Yes, sir." The Old Man shook a menacing forefinger. "It takes Red a whole day to pick up the pieces and make up the form again. If I wanted the paper to come out on Saturday, it would read that way instead of having Friday on the masthead!" He stopped for breath. "If you could once get your mind off play-acting you might be of some value here. But get this and get it straight; if you pi a form again tonight, you're through!" With that final warning the Old Man put on his shapeless hat and left.

Speedy walked over to the linotype. He stroked his chin thoughtfully and squinted his azure eyes at Red. "If you pi a form tonight, it will be the third consecutive week you've done it." He took his hand from his chin and shook a menacing forefinger. "Get this and get it straight; if you pi a form again tonight, you're through!"

Red grinned. "You left out some of it, didn't you, Barrymore?" Speedy laughed. "The Old Man still grousing about Walters?"

"Yeah," Red answered. "Page one, column one. He'll land in jail, printing such stuff. Listen:—
"The incumbent county treasurer, George Walters, has served his term of usefulness. He is a crook, as his record proves. He vainly imagines that he lends dignity to his office by clearing his throat at the beginning of a sentence and coughing at the end of it. The voters of this town will no doubt be glad to see their most distinguished citizen replaced by an abler man."

"The Old Man isn't my idea of an ethical editor," Speedy mused. "When he's mad he'll do most anything—unless someone scares him. Then he's not so tough. You know what the trouble is, don't you?" Red asked.

"I could guess," Speedy answered. "The Old Man's sore because Walters gave the contract for the commissioners' proceedings to our competitor. Well, it's a free country and Walters had a right to do it. The Old Man ought to brag about the opposition candidate and lay off Walters and his asthma or whatever it is."

"Maybe you're right," Speedy agreed. "Anyhow, what time will you be ready?"

"Midnight," Red answered. "Incidentally, if you'll just lock the forms on the press before you start it, they aren't so likely to fall off."

The Old Man swore as he stumbled through the darkness to the telephone. "Yes..." he said. He heard a throat being cleared and then: "If that rag of yours comes out this morning with another of your editorials, I'll sue!" A cough, and another clearing of the throat. "It's libel, and you know it—you won't have a chance! And when I get through with you, you won't have anything at all!" The cough was more violent this time, and the throat clearing more prolonged. "Remember what I've told you!" Then came a veritable spasm.

The Old Man hung up. He broke into a cold sweat. "I'll have to go down there," he told himself. "Speedy'll never hear a phone if that cylinder press is running." He shook as he hurried into his clothes. "Got to stop it," he kept muttering. "Can't let it go out." A few minutes later he was at the shop. "Speedy!" he bawled. "Speedy, stop the press!"

But the press wasn't running. Speedy was looking at him, a queer expression in his blue eyes. "I forgot to lock the forms on again, sir," he confessed.

The Old Man blinked. Then he sighed and a grin spread over his face. "Oh, well," he said. "It isn't the first time. I'll call Red. There are a few changes I want to make, anyway."

The Old Man had left by the time Red arrived. "Congratulations," he squealed acidly to Speedy. "I'm surprised to find you're still here."

Speedy shrugged his shoulders. "The Old Man left 'copy for you," he said. "It's on the machine. He wants it to replace what was originally page one, column one."

Red sat down at the machine. "Was he pretty sore?" he asked. "He didn't seem so sore," Speedy answered thoughtfully. Then, dramatically, he lifted his pointed chin a trifle. "I phoned him as soon as I made the mistake, but I'm sure glad he didn't recognize my voice."

HYDRO provides fast, dependable "Made to order" SERVICE

Do you realize that Hydro power must be made to your order... made and delivered to you so quickly that it would seem to be always there? Electricity cannot be stored. It must be made within a tiny fraction of a second of the time it is used. The flow of water to the generators is controlled by sensitive automatic gates, so as to make only enough for the demands of the moment.

Whenever you flip a switch, you use electricity before the water which made it can leave the power house. Your order is received and filled faster than a good camera can wink its eye. Yet the power comes to you through a giant transformer station, a local distribution station, a small transformer near your home... all connected by many miles of transmission and distribution lines.

Millions of dollars worth of equipment and a multitude of watchful personnel stand ready to serve you at the touch of your finger on a switch at any moment of the day or night. That is what Ontario has learned to expect from Hydro service.

ONLY THIS ONE PART DEPENDS ON YOU

Your house must be adequately wired if you are to have full benefit from the electricity you may want to use. If your place is wired for a range and a water heater, you can assume that you have enough wiring from the small transformer to your house. From there, be sure that you have enough circuits and plenty of outlets conveniently placed in every room. Remember that any one outlet can supply only a limited amount of power efficiently and safely. Remember, too, that you will want an ever-growing number of electrical conveniences in the years to come. The economical time to wire adequately is when you are building or making major alterations. Plan now for your electrical future by wiring completely.

"MY FAIRBANKS-MORSE Coal Stoker
"WILL NEVER BE AN 'ORPHAN'"

"When buying my Stoker I made sure the Company that made it intended to stay in business. I chose a Fairbanks-Morse because they have been leaders in the manufacture of mechanical equipment in Canada for 35 years, and service is always available."

Investigate the economy and convenience of a Fairbanks-Morse Stoker before ordering next season's coal. It burns cheaper grade coal, which is available, and the automatic controls extract every unit of heat from it.
