

Merry

Christmas

FOR THE FIRST TIME in six years, we can truly wish our readers a "MERRY" Christmas as we celebrate a holiday season free from world conflict. Empty chairs will still be at the Christmas feast in many homes, we know, but the majority of our Georgetown men are safely home and re-united with their loved ones once more. Many will be the happy gatherings next Tuesday around the traditional Christmas tree and turkey dinner—many the silent prayers of thankfulness that we Canadians can enjoy our Christmas in happiness and in peace . . . Let us not forget that Christmas is also a religious festival and show by attendance, each at the church of his denomination, that we thank God for blessing this Christmas Day with peace. May we continue to be worthy of victory by becoming better Christians and thus better citizens in the difficult days of reconstruction which lie ahead.

THE GEORGETOWN HERALD

