Frances Cramer, who was singing and dancing at the age of five—in the late 'twenties, is one of the versatile show members of "The Jack Allison Show" where close harmony and tonal range are the law. That keeps Frances busy just now, for the Allison group goes on the CBC Trans-Canada network daily, Monday to Friday, at 7.00 p.m., EDT, 8.00 p.m. ADT. Miss Cramer is married to Norman Barber, a Georgetown boy who is well-known in Toronto dance band circles.

COUNTY MAN

A practical farmer from Cambridgeshire, England, is currently addressing Canadian farmers through the BBC's Overseas Service. He is Dennis Bullard, prominent member of his county War Agricultural Committee, whose talks on English farming topics are a frequent feature of the noon farm broadcasts presented regionally by the CBC. The program is heard in Ontario and Quebec, Monday to Friday, at 1.45 EDT.

Bill Buckingham's name spells radio drama in CBC's west coast studios within the walls of which the Vancouver lawyer and actor spends a good deal of his time. His past performances include leading roles in 33 major stage productions, apart from radio, and his present CBC engagements include the weekly presentations of "Pacific Time" on Fridays, at 11.30 p.m. EDT, over eastern stations of the Trans-Canada network.

Sir Frederick Grant Banting—A Tribute. By W. E. Robinson.

An Achievement—and an Inspiration

MAY 16TH, 1921, he stood in a small, dingy room in the Medical Building of the University of Toronto, a self-appointed seeker, untitled, unpaid, but sustained by a conviction that he was on the track of a great discovery.

His name was Frederick Grant Banting, Canadian Surgeon, and he had sold his office furniture and instruments to provide funds for his living costs.

He believed he had the key to the dread riddle of diabetes, a disease that had baffled medical science since the dawn of history. Medical opinion was skeptical, but physiologists and biochemists added their efforts and soon the rumour was whispered in hospitals and stricken homes "Banting of Toronto has discovered a treatment for diabetes".

From all over the continent, haggard, doomed diabetics came to Toronto, hoping against hope, their very lives at stake in Banting's grim race to perfect Insulin in time.

The rest is history, as is the fact that Sir Frederick Grant Banting died as he had lived—in the service of his country and of humanity. Today, 25 years after his discovery, his work has saved uncounted thousands of lives, and the story of his achievements has become a glowing example and an inspiration to all Canadians . . . giving us an assurance of an ever-increasing measure of health and prosperity in the Canada Unlimited of the future.
