The Editor's Column

WHY NOT SOME TOURIST RECIPROCITY?

In this column last week, we mentioned the activities of the Canadian Association of Tourist and Publicity Bureaus in promoting the tourist business in Ontario. After a brief visit to the U.S.A. last week-end we wonder if these gentlemen shouldn't endeavour to promote some reciprocity across the line. Not that we weren't treated well in Detroit, but it was disappointing to learn that the Americans are a pig-headed people who won't accept the fact that our Canadian dollar is as good as a Yankee one. Canadian banks at the present time charge one-half of one percent to exchange Canadian money for American. This is a fair charge for their trouble in handling it. But just try to change your money on the other side of the border and the fun begins. The stores in Detroit were charging ten percent that day — and that only after consultation with their banks. A hotel restaurant charged twelve percent. A taxi driver refused to accept our greenbacks at any premium and said his company would not allow him to accept Canadian money.

Perhaps we're just foolish to cater to tourists who put the bee on us when we visit their country. Perhaps we should start charging ten percent extra and get in on the gravy. Certainly something is wrong with the system and we should imagine it is the American banks which are making this extra money, for they can buy American dollars at one-half of one percent with the Canadian money which they have depreciated by ten percent.

MORE FANS NEEDED

Georgetown Intermediates open their second post-war baseball season on Saturday in Oakville and on the following Saturday play their first home game with Acton. We didn't have a winning team last year, but we had good baseball and every fan enjoyed the games. The baseball club ran things efficiently and in spite of slim public support ended the season out of the red.

This year, prospects look good for a winning team and we hope that more fans will turn out at the park to boost Georgetown to a championship. It means a lot to a team to know that the town is behind them. We hope that the powers-that-be will provide players' benches this year to add to the comfort of the players. It makes a better impression on visitors and visiting teams.

And don't forget, too, that we will have a Juvenile O.B.A. entry to support again. The younger lads are the nucleus of future Intermediate teams and they play a good brand of ball. At time of writing we have not been given the schedule but it will probably be similar to last year, one home game and one game away every week.

NEW BUSINESSES IN TOWN

A number of new businesses have made their appearance in town in the past few weeks, and we wish them success. Jim Schofield has opened a groceteria on Guelph Street, where he will cater to the new War-time Housing district, and the town now has two bake shops again with the reopening of Kemshead's Bakery in the new Mackenzie Building. The new Duffy's Restaurant in the Diggins building is a welcome addition to those who like a bite to eat in the evening, and the double dip cones featured for the first few days made a big hit with the younger generation and the grown-ups alike.

Les Tomlinson has moved his Excelo Manufacturing Company from Toronto and has his machinery in operation in part of Snyder's Cartage garage on Mill Street. The firm specializes in industrial and farm repairs and will be handy for many repair jobs which formerly had to be sent to the city.

Next opening in town will probably be Al Norton's bowling alleys, and there is already great interest abroad for this popular pastime which has not been available here for many years. Cal Clark is finishing his grocery store building on Guelph Street, and Barrager Cleaners have their new building almost ready for occupancy. It all shows that Georgetown is displaying a healthy retail growth to keep pace with the growth in its population and industry.

WE HAVE NO AGENTS

It was disconcerting to learn this week that two advertising salesmen, who are promoting a school book cover, have been soliciting ads in the district and posing as agents of the Herald. This is emphatically not the case and we wish to correct any false impression which merchants might have as to our connection with the matter.

Recently these two gentlemen called to see us and asked us to quote a price on printing a quantity of the covers. This we did, and we were informed a few days later that the price was satisfactory and that the job would be brought to us when their soliciting was completed. In cases like this, it is our policy to collect full payment for our job before printing is started — a couple of previous experiences has shown us that this is the only way we can be assured of not being on the losing end of the deal.

We now learn that these gentlemen, whose names we do not even know, have been telling some pretty tall stories in their selling endeavours. One merchant informs us that on the receipt he received for his five-spot, there was no address and when he asked for an address, the chap referred him to the Herald. Another merchant, who asked if the Board of Trade has sanctioned the scheme, was told that the other salesman had their authorization, and when the second salesman came in later, he passed the buck to the first one, saying he had just given him the letter.

It all adds up to the same slyster tactics, which seem to prove that outside advertising salesmen are unreliable, to say the least, and that if anyone wants to trust them they should realize they are putting their faith in a stranger who doesn't even supply an address.

An article in this week's Acton Free Press tells how editor Dills dealt with the men. He says: "We refused to undertake the printing or to have any connection with the scheme and advised the Chief of Police of what had taken place. We state these facts in case the salesmen may have taken us into their local sales talks as we have been told they used the school principals and the Acton schools to influence the sales."

In view of developments, we are adopting the same procedure, and under no circumstances do we intend to have any further dealings with these book cover men. We cannot trust those who misrepresent themselves, and if our price quotation on a printing job is to be used to influence the sale of advertising space by those who falsely represent themselves as our "agents" we want no part of it. These facts have been reported to the local Provincial Police.

It is normal for sheep during summer months to develop a temperature of 104, which causes alarm among inexperienced breeders.

Life Insurance beats most savings plans. Practically all others return at a man's death what he actually saved—not a penny more. Life Insurance is the only one which pays what he intended to save.
