SHORT STORY

Nice Old Girl
By MARGARET COBB

WHEN Sally Carter spied the crisp green of the bill lying against the white of the sidewalk that bordered the engineering building, she dropped the handle of the baby carriage and swooped down upon it.

"Look, Richey, look!" she cried happily to the cheerful bright-eyed boy in the carriage. "A ten-dollar bill—a real, brand new ten-dollar bill. I found it myself, and I can spend it any way I please!"

Turning the carriage briskly to return the way she had come, Sally sped her son back toward the trailer camp that nestled at the foot of the hill, a haven for married student veterans.

Once inside her trailer home she hurriedly hung the pinafore in the tiny clothes closet and reached for her best skirt and sweater. "Do you know what I'm going to do with this money first thing, Richey?" she cried happily. "I'm going to get you a play pen, so you can stay out in the fresh air all day long and have plenty of room to wiggle around in."

Sally dropped the sweater to give the baby a quick, impetuous hug. "We'll get Daddy that pipe he wants, and maybe there'll be enough money left over to get me some dress material!"

Speeding joyfully across the campus toward town, her hand straying often to the money in her pocket, Sally suddenly slowed her pace, her face sober.

"Oh, dear," she thought, "I've been so happy about having some money all my own that I hadn't even occurred to me that it belongs to someone else. Oh, dear!"

DARKING the carriage at the door to the engineering building, she entered, hesitated a moment outside a door marked "Office," and went in. The secretary looked up as Sally laid the bill on the desk.

"I found this outside the building, Miss Hanson, so I guess it belongs to someone in here." She was talking fast, turning to leave.

"Wait a minute, Mrs. Carter," the older woman called. "You may as well keep it. I don't see how we can ever find out who it belongs to. 'Finders keepers,' you know. Now you just run along downtown and see what you can find to buy."

"Do her good to have some money all her own," Miss Hanson muttered as the door closed. "Of course I should have held it a day or two in case anyone asked about it, but that child probably hasn't had a dollar to spend as she likes since Richard entered here!"

In mid-afternoon, about the time Sally was unwrapping her new purchases at home, Richard Carter was frantically going through his pockets.

"I know I brought it with me," he muttered as he searched one pocket after another. "Good grief, what'll I do? It's all the money we had left for the rest of the month—a nice new ten-dollar bill. I must have dropped it when I opened my billfold sometime today."

A MOMENT later, as he was explaining his plight to the secretary, he was relieved to see a quick look of comprehension in her eyes. "You haven't had it turned in, have you?" he finished hopefully.

"Why, yes," she replied slowly. "I have. At least, a young lady gave me a ten-dollar bill this morning and told me she'd found it outside. It must have been yours. Wait a minute, I put it in my pocketbook for safekeeping."

Reaching into a drawer in the desk, Miss Hanson pulled out a well-worn black bag. After a moment's search she found a bill tucked away with several one-dollar ones, that was crisp and new and had the numeral "10" in its corners. "Here it is," she said, handing it over with a smile.

The boy took the money with a grateful grin. "Well, thank goodness—we can eat for the rest of the month, anyway," he said as he left the office. "Thanks a million, Miss Hanson!"

From very near... and far away... come words of praise FOR CHEVROLET

WHEN people are pleased it's natural for them to say "thank-you". But never, apparently, have any car owners been so pleased as those lucky enough to own a 1947 Chevrolet. Their enthusiastic "thank-you" letters stream in from every nook and cranny of the Dominion—from fleet operators and businessmen, from purchasers in every trade and occupation. And each letter says in a different way—"I know now from experience that Chevrolet's proud boast is true—only Chevrolet offers Big Car Quality at Low Cost!"

The growing demand for the New Chevrolet is setting an all-time record. We cannot hope for many months to fill all the orders pouring in. If you are among the many who have set your sights on Chevrolet's Big Car Quality at Low Cost, we suggest that while you wait, you rely on your Chevrolet Dealer's service to keep your present car running smoothly and safely.
