WITH THE ANGLERS

by G. H.

Last week-end saw the rivers back to normal once again. Many nice fish were caught on files.

LUCKY ANGLERS

Jack Crichton creeled some nice ones last week. They were speckled trout and one was a very large fish. Lloyd Crichton has also been doing well with the Browns and Speckled variety.

Orval Raynor is also taking some nice ones on files.

It is noted that Lorne Raynor is doing well with the Browns while using files.

Lorne informed the writer that even if the Browns are choosy they can still be caught if the right fly is used. Bern Knight creeled some nice speckled last week.

EQUIPMENT

Many people enquire about the cost of fly fishing equipment. The following is what one would need and about what it would cost.

Split bamboo rod	$ 25.00
Level fly line	3.00
Single action reel	3.50
Pair waders	12.00
Landing net	5.00
Creel	5.00
About $5. worth of different files	5.00
3 leaders	1.50
Total	$ 60.00

If one has these articles he is well rigged for the sport. Of course one could do with less and still catch trout on files. On the other hand he can go the limit and have the very best.

Sportsmen will regret to hear that Denny McCartney is in hospital after an accident on Saturday morning. Denny is quite a hunter and a very good shot and we hope he will soon be able to enjoy his sport again.

The Lions Club is planning a census of the town and details will be arranged at a special meeting tonight.

SHORT STORY

Good Business

By
M. J. COLLINS

UNCLE JOE came stamping into the kitchen making about as much noise as a small herd of cattle. "Here! You be careful!" Aunt Martha warned, waving a large mixing spoon threateningly. "I have bread settin'. And wipe your feet, don't you dare traipse in here from that dirty old barn yard."

"Gosh darn it, woman, you put what I was goin' to say clean out of my head," he grumbled. "Oh, yes, now I remember—I think we should sell out and go live in town." There was a faraway look in his eyes and he thought of all the pleasures of retirement. Perhaps they'd buy a new car and do a little traveling.

"Huh! I'm not moving to town and leave our home just to suit a whim of yours. Just get the whole idea out of your head!" There was finally in her voice. "You go and clean up."

Ralph and Jenny were coming over for supper. All your clothes are on the bed so don't ask me where they are when they're right under your nose."

We didn't have the slightest inkling of what Uncle had suggested until supper was nearly over and then Aunt Martha asked:

"Do you know what your uncle wants to do?" and as she generally does, answered herself before we could even open our mouths. "Sell the farm and move to town."

"Oh, I think that's a good idea!" Jenny cried. "It'll be so much easier for you."

The first thing we knew, we were involved in a full scale battle, three against Aunt Martha, but she wasn't

We were involved in a full scale argument, three against Martha, but she wasn't giving an inch.

Not her! Finally she did admit that she didn't get her work done as spryly as before and from there on the battle was won.

Uncle Joe was jubilant. It had been easier than he'd dreamed.

During the next few weeks several would-be buyers came to appraise the farm and finally one of them said he would buy it. Uncle Joe and Aunt Martha had been shopping around trying to find a house in town but getting one was a tougher proposition than they'd expected.

Eventually the sale was completed and the new owner bought the farm complete with stock and implements for ten thousand dollars. He told Uncle Joe they could have another additional two weeks to find a house and move.

Early next morning we were over at their place and into the job of packing up. About nine-thirty the new owner drove out and hailed Uncle Joe.

"I'VE been thinking it over, Mr. Quinn, and this place doesn't quite suit me. How would you like to buy it back at the same price?"

Uncle Joe sort of looked at him popeyed and we all crowded around. "Well, sir! I just don't know what to say," he mumbled, "the wife has sort of set her mind on movin' to town."

"Faith, and I haven't!" Aunt Martha resumed her arms around excitedly. "You buy it back, Joe Quinn, if you know what's good for you."

"Well, let's go to town," there was no reluctance in Uncle Joe's voice, "and get the papers fixed up." We went outside, leaving Aunt Martha crying softly in Jenny's arms. I watched them drive away and Uncle Joe was grinning for all he was worth.

Later when we were driving home, Jenny said, "It was lucky the man wanted to sell it back. Neither one of them wanted to leave the farm."

"Lucky my eye!" I snorted. "It was just plain conniving on Uncle Joe's part. He made an agreement to pay the owner an extra thousand if he'd come out and say what he did. Don't say a word to Aunt Martha, he told me to keep it under my hat."

"Well, what do you know," Jenny laughed. "Uncle is still a bit of a gallant."

"An expensive one," I grumbled. Jenny smiled to herself, there was no sense in telling him that Aunt Martha had already paid the new owner five hundred dollars to sell the farm back to her husband.
