HIGH SCHOOL NEWS by Vic and Jo (last week)

Exams, Exams, (groan, gasp) exams; that is the present curse on those unfortunate students who inhabit the dim and dusty rooms called fourth and fifth form.

Last Wednesday a mob of blood-thirsty Actonites swarmed into Georgetown Arena to cross hockey sticks with our valiant school team.

A minor hockey skirmish between the girls of First Form and Public School took place at the High School last week.

In case anyone who ordered pins or rings is interested that dashing, debonaire drip from fifth form (In case you don't recognize him by the description, it's Doug Latimer) informs us that the rings and pins will arrive near the latter part of February.

HIGH SCHOOL NEWS by Vic and Jo

As you who, have noticed better to do might have noticed this column did not appear in the paper last week.

The general atmosphere is one of hushed silence broken every now and then by the crack of the whip and the tramping of the sentries outside.

Each morning the students are marched in in single file, given a desk and chained to it with public chains (all the best sorts of home!).

These exams have been going on since Wednesday 18 and are to end 25. There is a rumour that plenty of failures are to be passed out this year.

SHORT STORY

The Jester's Last Chance by JOHN T. KIERAN

ONE more chance to play his old role! One more chance to put on the only thing left of the days when he was hailed as the World's Greatest Clown as Arsel, the Children's Delight.

In a flash Arsel thought of what was in his trunk, for from his shabby tentment room he could hear the rattle follow down the hallway.

At the entrance of which the door was ajar. Arsel's heart thumped in his chest.

Minute Fiction

It was only for a moment that he heard the hoarse and applause of other clowns as they crowded out by the door.

Arsel was trying to carry his thought, but a man's voice came to him.

Arsel had the faintest idea of what the man was saying, but he did not know what to do.

But he could not manage to go through with it. Could he find the strength?

They had last heard of him in this town. He probably was still here.

They determined to find out, and to give him a rousing salutation, a regular circusman's greeting.

Arsel had the old suit on now. He wondered again what made him feel so strange.

When the circus had come into the town a half dozen of the old-timers were still with it.

They had been troopers long ago with Arsel before he faded into oblivion.

Arsel had the faintest idea of what the man was saying, but he did not know what to do.

ALLOCATION OF HYDRO POWER SOUTHERN ONTARIO SYSTEM

It has become necessary, due to a reduction in the amount of purchased power available, to issue the following notice to municipalities and direct customers of the Commission in the Southern Ontario System.

"Effective February 18, 1948, and continuing until further notice, the daily consumption of kilowatthours shall be restricted to a maximum of 90% of the average daily consumption of kilowatthours in the month of October, 1947.

This is a temporary emergency action which has been taken by the Commission to drastically reduce their deliveries of power to the Commission.

This restriction will be lifted just as soon as circumstances permit and in the meantime, all consumers must play their full part by saving electricity at all times.

If the specified reduction in consumption of electricity is not obtained, it will be necessary to cut off the supply of electricity entirely for definite intervals of time each day, wherever the specified consumption is being exceeded.
