YOUR GIFT to the Canadian Red Cross enables you to bring help, comfort — life itself — to the needy and the stricken.

When disaster strikes, you are there with food, clothing and medical aid. In isolated districts where the doctor is beyond reach, you establish Outpost Hospitals. You provide free blood transfusions; set up additional blood donor clinics. You teach first aid, swimming and water safety. You operate Red Cross Lodges at Military Hospitals, so that wounded veterans have a place for recreation and for receiving their relatives and friends.

... You become a partner in all the missions of mercy carried out, in peace as well as war, by Canada's skilled, devoted Red Cross workers.

Crazy for Money

By ERNEST MILES
WNU Features

BACK for the "Crazy for Money" program, Bud Watson was on the platform waiting to go on the air.

If you listened to the show two weeks ago you will remember Mart Ringley, the Master of Ceremonies, introduced Bud. He told how Bud had just been discharged from the army and had volunteered for any stunt asked of him. Bud was to go out to Roscoe's Mammoth Carnival in the Fair Grounds, and act as a speller for Captain Billy's Bathing Beauties. And now the program was on the air and Mart Ringley was saying, "Hello! Hello! Hello! Tonight we are going to hear what happened to Bud Watson, who two weeks ago went out to the Carnival to be a speller on Captain Billy's Bathing Beauties show. Captain Billy is here, too, and I see he has brought a very pretty blonde with him. We'll start with you, Captain. But first, who is this lovely girl?"

"Oh, this is my daughter, Dora, who got herself involved in the stunt so I brought her along, too."

"This sounds mysterious, but tell us first what you did with Bud." "There was a big crowd of folks who had heard your broadcast and they came out to hear the fun. They began calling for Bud so I brought him onto the platform. That big red-headed six-footer just stood there tongue-tied. However, I managed to get him going and he did pretty well so I sent him inside to announce the events."

"Then you would say Bud was a success and deserved the money?" "He did all right but he was still paying more attention to my daughter than to the show. It ended up by my having him thrown into the tank of water."

The audience was screaming as Mart asked, "You mean to say the evening ended with you in the water, Bud?"

Bud stammered a bit, "Well, as the Captain told you, we went out to the show and I was to listen and learn from him what to do. But that girl in the ticket booth set my head in a whirl and I just couldn't concentrate on what the Captain was saying.

"I got along fine with Dora."

"The crowd laughed at me and Captain Billy said, 'Get going kid, so I did the best I could.'"

"But," asked Mart, "how in the world did you get thrown into the tank three nights later?" "Oh, I was crazy about the girl in the booth and went back each night, determined to make her like me. I hung around but she wouldn't talk. Captain Billy got together and older and tried to chase me away. The third night he had a couple of fellows throw me into the tank."

"I was certainly wet and just as I got out of the tank Dora came back with the cash and tickets. When she saw what had happened she set out a chair and changed the towels out. Then he turned on me, Captain Billy a tongue lashing I didn't know until then she was my daughter."

"It is a queer matter, seems to me," Mart said, "and you and Dora seem to be a bit of a mystery. How did you get that first loan?" "I had a job at first loaning money to people and I've been in the business ever since. It's a good job, but it's a hard one. I've got to be sure to get my money back. I've got to be sure to get my money back. I've got to be sure to get my money back."

"The crowd didn't bud a word," Mart said, "and doing a sweet job. When the season is finished you get your money back and I'll give you my daughter, plus a check for $100."

"By now the audience was standing on its feet," Mart finally broke in. "It just goes to show you never know what will happen on this show. Bud, here is the other half of that $100 bill. Good luck to both of you."

"Thank you very much, it has been a wonderful experience," said Bud and passed the bill over to Dora.

"There," said Mart, "it's the woman who wins. Tell us, Dora, what are you going to do with that money?"

"Well, Mr. Ringley, Bud promised to let me towards the finest trousseau a girl ever had, but Bud is the best prize of all, a real Valentine."

"I'm sure you will be happy," said Mart, "and Bud may have been crazy for money but he certainly is wise in his choice of a wife."
