elmer, Paul Marshall and Wayne Armann.
 Their tackle was not fancy and their rubber boots were short. The short boots however, did not stop the boys from wading to the hot spots to make a few casts. At noon they had lunch. Real fisherman style too. One was heard to say "boy, this outdoor life sure gives one a good appetite." One of the others replied "Brother, you can say that again". Another one says "I sure feel much better now because I was worried." "Why were you worried?" says one. The other replied "well, my haversack was full of grub and I was wondering where I was going to put all the trout I'm going to catch."
SPINNING ROD
 Bud Kentner was noticed recently porting a new spinning rod outfit. Spinning is in between, fly fishing and bait casting. To explain a little further the outfit allows one to cast lures that are too heavy for a fly rod and too light for a bait casting rod. With the sure about one foot from rod tip at start of cast it was possible to flip out too fish with little effort. A very light line is used and the reel is itself quite a mechanical outfit.

 That's all for this week so good fishing until next week.

WITH THE ANGLERS

by George Hoare
 Last week the rivers were much too high and busy for people to fish.
 The rain on Friday, May 15, that caused the flood to go on a strong spate on Saturday and the following day, did not allow us to go out until about 10 o'clock. We went to the opposite bank of the river at 10 o'clock. On Friday, they came up again and we started fishing at 10 o'clock. The water was high, but the water was very clear and the trout were very active. We had a very good day and caught one for the week.
LOOKS GOOD!
 On May 16, Jack Wychton took a specimen that ranged in size from 6 to 12 inches. Most of the trout were caught on flies of his own making.
 On May 17, Norman Herbert purchased a trout from the M. B. Co. and after he was finished with it he was making a trout out of white to blue. It was a very good trout and Norman was fast to a good specimen. A good fly and a small hatcherman is a combination that can catch a trout.
 Bill Tennant took a short punt last Saturday morning and was rewarded with 3 brace of speckled trout. They were caught on good old garden huckles.
 The McCartney Family, Mr. and Mrs. Fred, Denny and Ray were very successful in catching 20 speckled beauties over the week-end.
 Last Friday morning the writer creeled some nice browns. They were caught on a streamer fly. The stomach contents consisted of minnows and stone fly nymphs.
 Last Saturday morning Fred Toot creeled a nice brown on a streamer fly. This was Fred's first time out since May 7th. That was the evening that Fred gave the browns the double whammy with a special streamer and took his limit of 5 nice browns. The bait fishermen were quite bewildered to say the least. To quote Fred they were dashing to and fro and using everything from horse tails to tin cans.
YOUNG ISAAC WALTONS
 Last Saturday morning four young lads were having the time of their lives on the Credit River. They were Ray McCartney, Douglas Tu-
