

A tinsel romance which harks back to the early sound pictures in "You Were Meant For Me", feature attraction at the Roxy next week.

POLK SONG SPECIALIST — Alan Mills, baritone singer and guitarist of Montreal whose Sunday song programs have won him a wide audience among younger listeners. He sings and plays at 8:00 p.m. EDT, on Stations of the CBC Trans-Canada network.

Chatting . . . With Ann

Saturday again, and another busy, happy day ahead. Saw a lovely bride today — Marion Norrie. Earlier in the week, had a peek at the wedding preparations, in her parent's home, in the beautiful old Nixon house on the ninth Line. Many and beautiful were the wedding gifts. Mrs. Norrie had spared no effort to make Marion's wedding day a happy and unforgettable one.

Dropped in on some of the girls on Churchill Boulevard. Dropped in is correct. But for the courteous Scott-Jackson employees I would have been there yet. Found the girls enthusiastic about their new homes. Madeline Cofell's own words: "It's like Heaven, come and see everything." Madeline's house was tastefully arranged, but then Madeline is an exceptionally good housekeeper. Mae Guest was equally enthusiastic, and pretty Joan McMurty was so thrilled she didn't even mind the mud. A happy group of girls.

An interesting service at St. George's on Sunday morning. It was parents day and the children took the parents. The service, conducted by Reverend A. E. Ongley was exceptional in its simplicity and beauty. Much credit is due Mrs. Stephen Dawson, who gives so freely of her time and talent to the Junior Girls' Choir. The little Armstrong twins, Paul and Michael, receiving the collection, and a look of pride on John T's face.

A grin on our shoulder, and whispering in our ear. Sure we know there were two of them, Frank. We just haven't got around to your corner yet, but we will.

Happy faces on Friday. School was out! Asked one young innocent what he liked best about the holidays and he said he wouldn't have to wash his car every morning. I think he is an optimist.

On Friday evening the Glen folks were entertained by the Tallis Choir at St. Alban's Church of England. Afterwards the choir was entertained in the beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Beaumont. Just to relax in that cool sunroom of soft green is luxury indeed, charming, hospitable people, the Beaumonts.

We have with the Vic Kings, Dr. K. C. King of Timmins, and Dr. King of Galt. You should surely be feeling better now, Vic.

Dr. and Mrs. C. V. Williams happily packing for a month's holiday on their own little island on Lake Isabella. We wish them a pleasant holiday and well-earned rest, but we will miss those little chats.

A head of lettuce which Reg Williams brought us this morning weighed two pounds, and every bit of it was delicious and tender. Thank you, Mr. Williams, we enjoyed it.

We take it all back, Reta. Those strawberries were really something.

With Marion and Norm Hill for the week-end were two nephews from Stratford. Mr. and Mrs. N. Hill returning with them for Sunday.

Called on the mayor, and found him busy. Were told we could come

CARD OF THANKS

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie McNally and family wish to express to their friends and neighbours their sincere thanks and appreciation for the lovely flowers, the many kindnesses, and sympathy extended to them in their recent bereavement.

In providing we had no complaints to make. Surely you know us better than that Joe. We like the town. We like it so well we are sticking in it all over the place.

Saw Free Kersey in a pair of overalls, working in his garden. Didn't know he had such a thing as overalls. It is a lovely garden, with not even one little weed.

We have it straight from Bill that he posed for that Lions head on Art Scott's truck. All joking aside, we hope the Lions Club have a good turn out.

We will leave you for now, and hope you all enjoy your holidays.

Mackenzie News

Saturday proved once again that there is nothing so perfect as a June day.

Can you lie in bed and hear the rain pour down and feel at ease — no thoughts of rain coming in to spoil the decorations and plaster? If not, this is the year to put on a new roof. Apply them over your present shingles and they will pay off in protection to your home, peace of mind and added trim appearance to your house. See you at the Legion Sport's day on Thursday in the Park. If only we could run and win some of those prizes.
